UNINTERESTING FOR THE GRAND STAND

Errors Were Few and Really Brilliant Plays Were Still Less Nuous_Both Pirchers Did Well.

The University team took the Lincoln

erowd of ball players into camp again yesterday by 5 to 3. It was a very pretty game, as the story is told by the score, but It was far from being the sort of a same that creates enthusiasm in the grand stand. The errors were few, and mostly excusable, but on the other hand the game was singularly lacking in brilliant plays. A very clever stop of a hard ground ball by Benedict was the only play of the game that deserved Both Robinson and Cronley comment. pitched steady and effective ball, although Robinson let in two successive runs in the fifth inning by wild pitches. But he kept the hits of the visitors well scattered, and they were unable to connect when hits were needed. The local team was no better off, but they were lucky enough to win tha game in the fourth inning without a hit. A base on balls and errors by Cronley and Peters, assisted by fast work on the bases, was responsible for this. Abbut was the only man on the home team who was able with any effect, while Benedict Freil led their team with a couple of him UNIVERSITY.

Albion and Genua Indians Meet. One feature of the season will be the nereasing interest taken in the game by the women of the city. In times past the ill women who wished to avail themselve of the privilege of using them. The oppor-unity has never been taken much advanlage of, however, and last year it seems almost entirely. Probably over a doze women can be found who are able to up a good game, strong enough, in fact, make many of their male friends hustle to keep shead of them. There are many others who merely need a little practice to develop their abilities. These, with strong reinforcement of High school girl and others, many of whom might have t egin at the very beginning and learn ever the fundamental rules of the game, would form a very powerful auxiliary to the club. The opportunity for this is offered this year through the action of the club in throwing open the membership to women at the low figure of $3 per annum. This a purely nominal charge, and is designed to encourage an infant industry, to borrow an expression from the republican party Something more is needed, however, befor any satisfactory results can be attained The matter must be taken up by some on-or two leaders, who should conduct a personal canvass to induce as many women and girls as possible to pay their $3 and enroll themselves as members. A few have already done so, but the number is only large enough to form a nucleus for others to gather round.

two other Chicago teams will accompany them this year, and if no it may be taken for granted that several other players of note will be here from other cities in the west. The date for the Omaha interstate tournament is August 18 and following days, as fixed by the United States Lawn Touris association at the beginning of the season. Elting, Gardner and Yest are a committee of the Western association to fix the dates for other tournaments in the circuit.

OMAHA CLUBS AMBITION. With the reasonable prospect of this Omaha fournament rapidly developing into a meeting of first impostance it is alread; being said that the time is now close at hand when it will be necessary to acquire a new ground where more and better courts here is no reason why Omaha should no be able to support one club that is strong enough to own a ground that would be a credit to any residence district in the city. Possibly some public spirited man may be found who will donate a piece large enough to hold ten or a dozen courts and a good citib house and grand stand in the center it should be the aim to lay out a new ground in time for the opening of next season in order that the courts may be in good playing order by the exposition year when steps should be taken to bring the western championship tournament, next to Newport probably the most important event in the tennis year, to Omaha. Of course this cannot be thought of unless Omaha will provide a strictly first-class ground for the matches to be played on, but if the project is taken in hand in good time this can be accomplished. There is no such word as fail in the local dialect. Before the Interstate tournament, however, comes the state doubles championship competition at Hastings July 14 and following days. The Hastings dub is already making its preparations for this event and will spare no effort to gather together as many teams as possible from the different towns in the state. The singles tournament is fixed for Omaha on the days preceding the interstate tournament. nterstate tournament in August. This was done in order to give the Nebraska men an opportunity to take part in the two events with only one break from business events with only one Greak from business and also to give additional interest and importance to the Interstate event. The challenge cup project which was mosted by the state association this year seems likely to be a success, although it is as yet too early to speak yers in regard to it. Several of the cribs have taken the matter up with great enthusiasm Of course Omaha will have to bear the brunt of the burden and there has been practically no canvassing done here as yet

PASS THE QUARTER CENTURY MARK German Farmers' Insurance Company

Celebrates the Auniversary The twenty-fifth anniversary of the incorporation of the German Farmers' Fire Insurance company of Douglas county was celebrated yesterday at Ruser's park. Some 120 members of the association, together with their families, spent the day in transacting the business of the body and in social enjoy

The business session was of small importance, so far as the general public goes The only point of general interest was the result of the election of officers. old officers were re-elected without exception, the list being as follows: Presiden Claus Slevers; secretary, C. H. Denker treasurer, Henry Raube; trustees, Henry Eicke, Carlson Robmer and George Plam-

Almost the entire day was grent in social enjoyment. One of the features was an address from Jacob Hauck, whose topic dealt with the affairs of the association Phroughout the afternoon dance music was furnished in the pavilion, so that all who wanted to were able to enjoy as much of the terpsichorean art as they desired. The affair was concluded with a grand concer-and ball in the evening.

The anniversary was the first celebrates by the association, and all in all was most ccessful. The committee that had the toney in making it a success, and the result was even greater than anticipated. The organization owes its existence to the indefatigable efforts of Henry Eicke. Mr. Eicke, for some time prior to the organ-zailon of the company. June 13, 1871, workegotting his neighbors interested in the mat er of mutual fire insurance. His efforts were finally crowned with success, and toother with seventeen influential German farmers made application under the insur ince laws then existing to the secretary of state for a charter. RESULTS ON THE RUNNING TRACKS.

Great American Stakes at Gravesend Proves a Dump. NEW YORK, June 13.—The Great Amer an stakes, worth to the winner $19,000, was he chief attraction at Gravesend today When it had been run there was a great wight it has been the there was a great standard the rear. Don de Oro, was in the "also rans," a badly beaten horse, who could not show a bit of ne speed he had at Morris Park when he looked like the coming 2-year-old. The turns at Gravesent are short, however, and the hig striding, stateen-hand son of Rayon of Or, was unable to negotiate them, as was the case a year ago with Handspring There was a long delay at the post, caused chiefly by McLafferty, Lamley and Clayton which cost them $30 such, and then Flyan caught them in line and away they went. Rhodesia, the smart Keene filly, was the first to show out of the ruck, followed by Arbuckle. The Friar, Don de Oro, George Kossier, San Marco and Haphagard. In the first furlong Rhodesia took a lead of two lengths, running the distance in twelve seconds. San Mitteo was second, a length in front of Nessier, he half a length in front of Don de Oro, while for some unaccountable reason Arbuckle had joined Haphagard in the last place. The next furlong was run in twelve seconds as well, but Rhodesia was slowly coming back to the others, as the pace was bot and something was needed for the finish. disappointment, for the crack of the year, saconds as well, but Rhodesia was slowly coming back to the others, as the pace was hot and something was needed for the finish. Thrai concluded also that he had better save something for the rush and as they passed the quarter pole he was in the fifth place watching Griffin, on Don de Oro, just in front of him, and McClafferry riding at his boot legs with Arbuckle. At the turne furlong pole, which was at the turn into the stretch reached in thirty-six and one-half seconds, Rhodesia had but a neck the advantage of San Mateo, with Don de Oro a length benind him, followed by Arbuckle, whom McClafferty was taking to the outside for a good position for the final run. Then came George Kessler, followed by the other two, done up. Here the race was begun in sarnest and desperate urging was in order. Rhodesia had got too much of it and was came George Kessler, followed by the other two, done up. Here the race was begin in searnest and desperate urging was in order. Rhodesia had got too much of it and was anxious to quit, but Lamley would not let her. San Mateo shut up like a fackholfe and Don de Oro began to show signs of distress. Taral saw a hole near the rall and like a shot he went through it and assumed the lead by a narrow margin after passing the half mile pole, which was reached in forty-nine and one-mil seconds with only four left in. There was but a furlong to go, and with the $10.00 hanging in front of him Taral rode his hardest, for McCafferry was coming on Arbuckle with one of his wild tushes. But Arbuckle could not get up and had to be content with seconds one of his wild tushes. But Arbuckle could not get up and had to be content with seconds one of his wild cushes. RECEPTION TO SENATOR ALLEN. Date to Be Fixed to Suit the Convenience of the Guest.

Clem Deaver received a letter yester lay evening from Senator W. V. Allen, in which the senator gives strong reasons for his desire to go on home before coming to Smaha for the reception that was being prepared for him. The members of the populist committee and the Commercial club members have accepted the senator's suggestion and will arrange for the enertainment of their guest at a date to be fixed Monday. On account of the short time allowed the Commercial club members considered they would not have time to arrange the kind of an entertainment due the senator, and were well pleased with the suggestion for a later date.

The program mapped out now is as fol-iws: The senator will arrive in Omaha OWSI Monday morning, coming over the North-western, at 8-10, and will be met at the depot by the populist committee and others who wish to meet him. He will then take the train at 9:39 for his home at Madison, after having agreed upon a date for his re urn to Omaha. At that time he will remain here two days. The first evening he will be the guest of the Commercial club and the citizens of Omaha generally, regardless of party, that evening being tevoted to a reception of the senator, pol-itics not being considered. The next evening he will be the guest of the people's and will deliver an address in one of the opera houses.
