Judge W. W. McNinch of Moberly came up with him and appeared as his attorney. Before any of the testimony was introduced the attorney an-nounced that his client would waive preliminary examination and let his case go directly to the grand jury provided the bond demanded was not too large. Judge McNinch stated that he was prepared to give a cash bond and Justice Cook fixed the amount at $100. This was a little more than the Moberly attorney had imagined it would be and he was only able to deposit $70 with the court. The justice sent the newsboy to jail until the remaining $30 was Judge McNinch will remain until the cash arrives from Moberly, then he will return with his young client. Only Thing Needed is to Build Switch to the Spot. Councilmen Shubert, Pace and Barstow accompanied by Roadmaster Flynn of this division of the Northwestern railway, spent the forenoon yesterday investigating the feasibility of putting in a sidetrack or switch at the Wickham gravel beds, north of the city, to enable the city to haul the gravel needed for street repairs. The roadmaster was acting in the capacity of repre sentative of the railway company, and the compliance with the city's request for a switch will depend largely upon his report. It was found that but little expense would be entailed by the construction of a switch at the Wickham banks, as very little grading or cutting is necessary. Mr. Flynn indicated by his conversation that he was very willing to make a favorable report.

While the councilmen and the roadmaster were in the vicinity they took time to investigate the gravel beds on the city property, and the result was almost a sensational surprise. The city owns property fronting on the railway right-of-way for a distance of 1,230 feet. For a distance of several hundred feet there is a strip of land nearly level that is ten feet or more above the level of the railway tracks. A stratum of coarse sand and gravel crops out in nu merous places at this point. The councilme borrowed Mr. Flynn's shovel and went t digging. Under eighteen inches of earth they struck a bed of clean coarse gravel and dug into it several feet with the result that the quality improved the deeper they went. At other points they found the gravel stratum covered by three feet of earth. From the investigations made Mr. Flynn and the councilmen were convinced that the city owns the most extensive and easily worked gravel bank in the vicinity, and that it extends the full distance of the city's frontage on the railway tracks, nearly a third of a mile. Very little grading will be necessary to lay a switch the entire distance, and the elevation of the bed above the track will render it receible to easily the track will render it possible to easily load the cars. Sufficient material to cover Broadway and the other streets where it is desired to make the experiment can be ob-tained without much stripping and little cost in addition to transportation. Specimens of the gravel that Barstow perspired to obtain were brought to the city building. It was found to be superior to any other samples on hand. Bryant street is progressing satisfactorily. The strip in front of the city building where the cedar blocks have been removed will be filled and rolled with a fifteen to steam roller. Nothing but clear sand gravel will be used. If it packs down sufficiently hard to withstand the heavy hauling that passes over it the councilmen will take it as a satisfactory solution of the problem, and if not a top dressing of earth and cinders will be put on. If this fails other experi-ments will be made until the gravel question is thoroughly investigated and proven to John Hannum, a brakeman employed by the Northwestern Railway company, left a $90 gold watch in his vest, hanging in the caboose of his train, when he finished his run yesterday. He left the car a few minwithout taking the trouble to lock the door. Bonny Field, a 14-year-old colored lad, came along, in company with the two Gilinsky boys. When he found the door was not barred he entered the car and stole the watch. The boys left the locality at once, but the theft was discovered lice. The boys were seen in the vicinity and the colored boy, who is known as "Ginger, jr.," was suspected. The police found him at the home of his father. When accused of the theft he admitted it and produced the watch. His brother, Clarence the original "Ginger," was also taken into custody, as were also the Gilinsky boys any part in the crime and they were disawait a hearing in the police court tomor row morning. WYOMING MINING INDUSTRY.

Much Work Being Done in the Different Lines.

CHEYENNE, Aug. 8 .- (Special.)-Colonel E. P. Snow, secretary of the Laramie Mining exchange, in a talk on the mining outlook in Wyoming, reports that there is a great deal of quiet but effective work being done in the mining industry throughout the state, especially in Albany, Carbon and Fre-ment counties. Inside of the next ninety days there will be three new plants started in Albany and Carbon counties, and each plant will be supplied with enough ore to keep it running to its full capacity. One plant of forty tons capacity will treat freemilling ores; another of fifty tons capacity will use the cyanide process, while a third, of thirty tons capacity will concentrate the ores for shipment to an eastern market.

Omnha's Champions Field Well and But Vigorously, Taking Victory About as They Like_Other Ball Games.

The Universities added another to their ong string of victories yesterday afternoon, their victims being the Omaha Brew ing Association team. The game was onesided and uninteresting for the most part, the capital necessary to construct buildings but was redeemed by a few brilliant plays by University players. Jimmy Trail made a couple of glaring errors, but offset them by cating up an equal number of base hits. Jelen played a magnificent game, as did Rus McKelvey and Tommy Creigh.
