The announcement that the famous pacing ostrich, W. W. P., would give an exhibition on the track attracted a number of people to the grandstand about 4 o'clock The fleet-footed bird from Colorado did not come onto the track without showing signs of reluctance. A crowd had gathered about the entrance gate and the sight of so many people seemed to bother the pacer somewhat. Once on the track, however, it gave a very creditable exhibition. Paced by a bicycle rider it covered an eighth of a mile in pretty good time. At times it would break, despite the best efforts of the driver to guard against it, and when it signified its intention of turning around and going the other way, the driver quietly acquissed. Manager Dinsmore attended the trial for the board of managers, and afterward expressed himself as well pleased with the exhibition.

The exhibitions that will be given each day will be in front of the grandstand, so that all the spectators may follow the speedy bird, and, in order not to press it beyond bird, and, in order not to press it beyond the eye. The indications are that the parades will be witnessed by the greatest rades will be witnessed by the greatest rades will be witnessed the streets of The sight of an ostrich harnessed to a sulky and driven by a racing man is a novel Omaha, and it is an assured fact that the one, and will no doubt prove a drawing people will see the finest pageants that card for the track. After it has received the badge of the knights, it will be allowed to appear in all the parades of the week. It will be in the parade of Wednesday night, and may possibly appear at other times. HERCULES HAS A FALL.

The Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben have been suddenly plunged into sorrow. They fear that one of the greatest attractions, certainly the greatest-so far as mere dimensions are concerned, that they had expected to appear in their parade of Thursday evening will be missing. One of the floats calls for a Hercules to guide it safely through the to outlined for it. Ever since the knights determined on the float requiring a leader of mammoth proportions they have had spies out scouring the country, hunting for a man to fill the bill. A short time ago they found him in Chicago.

His name is John H. Baird, and he is the traveling representative of a wholesale house in Chicago. When told that he was wanted in Omaha during this week and shown the warrant for his capture duly signed by Samson II, he told his captors that there was no place to which he would rather come. He is a Hercules indeed. When he has on his boots he stands nearly seven feet tall and weighs 275 pounds avoirdupois. He has been in the city for the past few days, having come here early in order to make himself familiar with all the details of his position A few days ago while limbering up on a bicycle he slipped and fell. The result of his fall was a badly wrenched knee. The knights have since then been offering up special prayers for his immediate recovery as they do not know of any one to fill his place should he be unable to take part in the grand pageant. Last night Dr. Han-chett said the Hercules' knee was secure in a plaster cast and he hoped that his big. ovial patient would be all right by the time jovial patient would be all right by the twenty-one guns are fired and the pro cession is started.

KEEP THE CROWD OF THUGS DOWN.

Police Say There Are Not Many "Crowd Workers" Here. The police report the crowd of tough characters which usually prey upon the visitors to a state fair very small up to date. This is due to the fact that wherever a stranger is encountered who cannot give a good account of his antecedents he is promptly iniled.

A large number of "blind baggage tour ists," commonly known as tramps, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon, but in nearly every case got off the trains outside of the city limits. Two or three of the smooth-fongued variety of sharps attempted to ply their vocation at the union depot yesterday, but were frustrated in their efforts by the depot police, who have been re-inforced by two extra men who will serve in citizens' clothing during the week. only loss by theft so far reported at the de-pot was an overcoat valued at $20, taken from the Rock Island train yesterday. The coat was the property of E. M. Powers, who was en route to Minneapolis. It was taken from his seat while he left the car to post

Beginning with today the twenty extra ment detailed by Chief Sigwart to help out the regular force during the week will go on duty. During the parades at night the en-tire force, consisting of the day and night shifts and the extra men, will be ordered to report for service.

FAILS TO COLLECT HIS SALARY Disappointed Office Seeker Brings Suit t a Late Date.

PIERRE, S. D., Aug. 30 .- (Special.)-In the case of Burt Fuller, respondent, against the county of Roberts, appellant, decided by the supreme court yesterday, the point at issue was that of a contested election suit. Fuller had been elected to the office of county judge of Roberts county and his election was contested. He failed to take the necessary proceedings to secure the office through the courts, but finally brought suit against the county to recover the salary of the office after his predecessor in the office had, acting a such officer de facto, drawn the salary for the same. #### ATTRACTIONS OF FAIR WEEK

Three Great Parades Arranged for the Eutertainment of Visitors.

EFFORTS OF LAST YEAR TO BE ECLIPSED

Brief History of the Career of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben_Great Concert of the Scandinavian Singing Societies.

There are thousands of visitors coming to Omaha during the present week, not alone to see the attractive exhibits of the thirticih annual state fair, but to feast their eyes upon the splendid street pageants that have been arranged for three successive evenings of the week. The shows that will pass in the night will be the most brilliant. if not the greatest feature of state fair delight in any form of the passing show. will not be the only ones pleased with these parades, for the latter have been aranged with a view of advertising Nebraska's resources and educating the people concerning crows that ever thronged the streets of There will not be so many parades as last year, but the tone of the parades will be town of the McConsiderably higher. It is quality and not and other relics. quantity that the committees on parades are looking after so carefully this season. It will be a hypercritical person indeed who criticizes the management of the parades because but three of these pageauts have been arranged. When one sees the grandeur of these demonstrations he will doubtless wish for more, but if he is a considerate man he will realize that but little else that would be worthy of a place in Ak-Sar-Ben week remains unprovided.

The following is the official route of all three parades: From Izard street south on Sixteenth to Douglas, east on Douglas to Ninth, south on Ninth to Farnam, west on Farnam to Eighteenth, north on Eighteenth to Douglas, west on Douglas to Nineteenth, south on Nineteenth to Harney, east on Harney to Sixteenth, south on Sixteenth to Howard, east on Howard to Fifteenth, north on Fifteenth to Capitol avenue, west on Capitol avenue to Sixteenth, north on

FIRST ON THE LIST. The first parade will be seen on Tuckday night. It will be called the Military and Civic parade, and will consist of five well organized divisions. The parade will include all the military and many of the secret society organizations in and about the city and will be a notable event. Major William M. Van Horn will act as grand marshal of this parade and the following will serve as assistants: Major R. S. Wilcox, Dudley Smith, Captain John J. Crit-tenden and Lieutenant W. M. Swain. The composition of the parade will be as

NEBRASKA PARADE. On Wednesday evening the Nebraska parade will be the feature. There have been eleven bands engaged for this occasion, and the music and the floats will be well arranged throughout the parade. The county and the commercial floats will occupy the principal part of this procession, and all sections of Nebraska will be represented. The committee appropries that four sented. The committee appropries that four sented. The committee announces that four prizes will be given for the best floats in line on this occasion. The first prize is a purse of $290, the second $150, the third $100, and the fourth $50. All Omaha and Douglas county floats, all floats that originate in Douglas county, are barred from participation in this contest. The commit-tee urges that Omaha and Douglas county be well represented in the parade, but it is to be understood that no local firm can carry off any of the prizes. This is in def-erence to the visitors from other parts of he state, who are Omaha's guests upon this occasion.

A detachment of the city fire department will also take part in Wednesday evening's parade. Chief Redell, with a portion of the apparatus and a detachment of firemen, will orm one of the interesting parts of the procession.

All entries for this parade should be ade to E. E. Bryson, 1612 Chicago street, efore Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. The committee urges that all manufacturing and commercial establishments of Omaha make arrangements at once to be represented in this parade. No delivery wagons or volicles with mere placards will be allowed in line, but there will be no objection to placing a card on every float in the parade so that the manufacturer or merchant may receive due credit for his exhibit. The po-sitions will be assigned to the various floats on Tuesday morning. The committee on parades has taken up its headquarters at 1518 Farnam street, and all inquiries for further information concerning the parade should be made there. CROWNING EVENT OF THE WEEK. The crowning event of the week, at least so far as the street pageants are concerned, will be the procession of the elaborate floats prepared by the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben. Omaha and her guests still remember the splendid spectacle that was presented by these defenders of the city's like one year ago. All may be assured that the tableaux that will move through the streets of the city on next Thursday svening will be lived but a few minutes. The crowning event of the week, at least Drove His Team Over an Embankment lace last year. The organization that spreads this feast for the eyes is one peculiar to Omaha, and one in which the city takes no little pride. So representative of all that is good and noble and progressive in Omaha is it that the timid reporter Samson in reassuring tones unfolded the following tale:

"It is now over 350 years since the first visit of the Ancient Order of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben to Quivera, now known as Nebrasha. It was during the reign of the mighty king, Tatarrax, in the year 1540, that the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben are out from that the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben set out from Mexico in quest of the Seven Cities of Ci-bola, in the kingdom of Quivera. He did so, and devoted his life to teaching and endeavoring to help those who then inhabited this fair province. But his devotion and self-sacrifice were rewarded with death at the hands of those he had loved so much, and then darkness again fell upon Quivera for 200 years.

"The grave of Father Padilla may still be found within the borders of the subdivision. or county, of Franklin, and there are still preserved by the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben many stories of his life and death. Some of them may be found in the fifteenth chapter of the 'Book of Padilla,' which also contains much of the ancient history of Quivera, which is now known as Nebraska. Of this book there are not more than copies in existence, a complete one being one of the most treasured relics of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben, and the other is believed to be in the personal possession of Sir J. Sterling Morton. It is believed to be buried in the splendid Quivera and Nebraska library at Arbor Lodge, which for over a generation he has been collecting. But of this or of the early history, I will not speak more now, except to say that during the festivities and pageants much will Samson at this point summoned his at-tendants and ordered that preparations at ouce be made for their onward journey, his duty in Omaha having been accomplished. While the attendants were at work Samson consented to talk still further, and to an swer such proper questions as might be asked. When asked to explain the meaning asked. When asked to explain the meaning of the name of the knights—Ak-Sar-Ben—the request being coupled with a statement that some heathen had declared the name to be taken from "Nebraska," and that the same letters, differently arranged, would be found in both words, Samson knitted his Bradford, r. 4 mighty brows and appeared displeased. "There are still other things which it may be well for the people to know. Though the Syrians converse in the Arabic, they wrote in the Syrian character, and it was also used, though not understood, in the long offices of their religious devotions, which were conducted during the nighttime amid both solemn and spendid circumstances with grand illuminations and weird music. Of this more will be understood by those who witness our second annual festivities. The visit of Samson caused a great burnishing up of armor among the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben, and immediately active preparations, in accordance with the command of the proclamation, were begun. There will be over 500 knights, esquires and pages n attendance upon his majesty when on the night of September 3 he makes his tri-umphal progress through the city. All of the streets will be made light as day by thousands of many colored electric lights, nd during the pageant there will be booming of cannon by the artillery squad from Fort Crook, displays of fireworks and a general carnival led by the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben, all of whom will be arrayed in garments fitted to their noble rank.

On the night following the pageant King Ak-Sar-Ben will proceed to the castle of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben, formerly known as the Coliseum, which, by royal command, will have been changed into a magnificent ball room. After the king and queen have taken possession of the royal box the ball will be opened by the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben and their ladies, and after the first two dances all of the faithful subjects will be allowed to go upon the dancing floor. Before the lights are extinguished Samson, the lord high chamberlain, will issue a proclamation calling upon all subjects of his majesty living within the boundaries of the province of Nebraska and adjoining provinces to again assemble after harvest time next year, when the third annual cele-bration, but one of an entirely different character, will be held. COURT BALL Socially the great event of the week will be the grand ball of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben on Friday evening. The event last year was one of the most brilliant social functions ever held in Omaha, but prepara-tions have been made to totally eclipse last year's effort this season. The splendors of the royal court have been enriched by search through many lands and the opening grand march will reveal a spectacle such as has never been excelled in this section of the United States.

On Saturday night will some the grand oncert of the Scandinavian singing societies. For months the Scandinavians all over the event. In every settlement of these music loving people there is a singing society where the voices are carefully trained. This meeting is the annual session of these societies, scattered all over the northwestern states, and there will be present the very finest of the musical talent from all over

In addition to solos, duets, quartets, singing by individual societies, which will of themselves, be a rich treat to lovers of good music, they will present a grand chorus of 600 voices. This will be the crowning event of the great musical festival.

Ryan came at him flercely, landing lightly with his left on the face. Paddy crossed with his right, putting a hot one on Jimmy's jaw, and then the boy went to the dust. He was up in two seconds and immediately put in another lefthander, this time on the body. Purtell came back with his right and again Jimmy went down. This time he was down four seconds. He came up very groggy, only to again run up against Purtell's right. Jimmy bit the dust for the third time and remained down while the time keepers counted eight. He came up all but helpless. Purtell finished him with a heavy right on the jaw and he was counted out.

The horses will be required to walk the first half mile, trot the second half and run the third. The winner will carry off $12 of hones money.

Thomas Bushbohm, a farmer in Middle Creek precinct. Lancaster county, had a narrow escape from a horrible death while working a threshing machine. His clothing was caught by the cogs of the machinery. The horse power was stopped before he was seriously injured, but his clothing was torn from his body and he was hadly bruised.

Bert Sanders, a Hendley young man, has been walking on crutches for a year as a result of a broken leg. The fractured bones refused to knit and decay set in. Last week the decayed bone was cut out and another piece the same size, whittled out of the shark of a healthy ster, was crafted into shank of a healthy steer, was grafted into the vacancy. Good results are expected.

Two Lincoln county farmers have made a novel election bet. If MacColl is elected governor William Beatty of Brady is to hitch a steer to his buggy and drive it to William Baland, where he will present it to John Raiston. On the other hand, if Holcomb is elected, Raiston will drive a steer to Brady and give it to Beatty. The dieto Brady and give it to Beatty. The dis tance is thirteen miles.

JOHNSTOWN, Neb., Aug. 24.-To the Ed--Friday evening "The Heights," the beau- ltor of The Bee: In the recent great detiful home of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Dovey, bate at Urbana Mr. Harvey used the folwas the scene of a gathering of young peo- lowing language: "The vital principle I wish to say again is the competition of silver with gold. When it is known that a new crop of money is coming into competition with the old crop it will have the same effect as a new crop of wheat coming in competition with the old crop, the wheat in the elevators in this country. (Applause.) Before your wheat is harvested, if it is known that a large new crop is coming, the wheat in the elevators talls; and so it will be with gold; it will fall the moment the election passes and it is known that a new erop of money is coming." This sounds well, but it is a fallacy and one so transparent that I wonder the audience did not laugh

the speaker off the stage. In the first place it is improper and il-logical to compare things which are dis-

ment it is known that a new crop of money is coming." Notice the confusion of terms "gold" and a 'crop of money." What are we to understand by a crop of money? We know what Mr. Harvey means. He means silver and intends to say that gold will fall when it is known that a new crop of fall when it is known that a new crop of silver is coming. Now, following up the fallacy, let us go back to the illustration of wheat, remembering what was said about comparison being possible only between things which are alike. Now would any show the greatest range of changing valuabeets can affect wheat. A large production of gold coming might affect the price of gold, as it did when the discoveries in Aug. No; for the reason that they are dissimilar gold, as it did when the discoveries in Australia, California and Africa were made. Then gold came in such abundance that t began to fall in value. It was even proposed in Paris to demonetize the metal, so unreliable in its production." But the pro-duction of any other metal, whether silver. aluminum, nickel or copper, could not af fect the value of gold. It can only be af fected by the increase or decrease in the production of itself, just as with wheat, or corn, or rye. Just so long as the supply equals the demand so long will gold retain its present value. Overproduction of the same metal alone can lessen its value; a failure of the supply of gold alone can increase its value. The crop of any other metal can have no effect upon it. Now let us chase this fallacy right home and see how fatal it is to the cause. Harvey has at heart the cause of free and unlimited coinage of silver. He says: (meaning the old money) will fall the mo-ment the election passes and it is known ing will expire shortly and the assurance of the removal of the removal of the office to another place all interested, will be assumed at the has aroused a protest. A petition to the result of his prediction. We grant its corpostmaster general at Washington protesting against such removal is being circulated and signed by citizens. Considerable feeling has ing crop of silver, if the coinage of silver is free and unlimited, will cause silver to fall the moment the election passes. How > crop was over $35,000,000. In 1890 it was value of the crop was $77,000,000, and it the force of the same argument, if free and unlimited coinage of silver was possible, the "large coming crop" would cause the price to fall still lower, and no man knows when it would touch bottom. Overproduction is the simple, the only satisfactory solution of the phenomenon, and though cheap silver has made its use pos-sible in many ways before unknown, the falling tendency is not arrested.

To use a falling metal like this as the orimary money of a great commercial nation, contrary to the practices of countries with which it has the largest trade, is madness. Its adoption, instead of arresting its decline in value, will only increase the velocity of its fall by stimulating every invention that can aid in increasing the crop, for, as Mr. Harvey says, "It will fall when it is known that a new crop of mon is coming." JAMES MORRIS. is coming."

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Aug. 30 .- (Special.)-The Wyoming State Board of Equalization, consisting of the secretary of state, auditor and treasurer, has completed the work of compiling the valuation of all classes of property in the state and of fixing the tax rate for state purposes for the present year. The report of the board shows that, notwithstanding the great depression in values which has characterized the principal industen years, general conditions are improving to be $30,029,704.65. This is a gain of $190,755.86 over the valuation for 1895 and a gain of $831.663.45 over 1894. The valuation for 1894 is the lowest of the ten years from 1887 to 1896. The highest valuation was in 1888, when the total state valuation was $33,338,541. Therefore, while the state is Now, turn to the metals. Can a large crop crowded ranges and the removal from the of silver coming affect the price of gold? state of large herds on account of the dep-> are made. In 1886 the value of all property in the state, exclusive of cattle, was $16,-369,589. In 1896 the value of all property. exclusive of cattle, is reported by the board to be $26.347,146.65, showing a gain in gen-eral values, outside of cattle, of $9,977,557.65. A noticeable increase in values is shown y the returns of the sheep raising industry. in 1886 Wyoming had 308,997 sheep, valued at $1.25 a head, and a total value of $459,825.75. In 1896 there are 1,308,063 head, valued at $1.77 a head, and a total value of $2,317,-048.50. If the ratio of increase of the past two years continues for two years more sheep values in the state will exceed those of cattle.

Railroad and telegraph line values have also increased since 1886. In that year the total assessed valuation of the railroads and telegraph lines in the state was $5,395,990.74. In 1896 the valuation of this class of proprty is $7,102,200.25.
The tax levy made by the board for the purpose of raising revenue to conduct the affairs of the state is 6.15 mills, which is the maximum limit allowed by the state constitution. This will yield about $185,000 evenue for state purposes. As the annual fixed charges for conducting the state bus-iness amounts to about $195,000, and the interest charges on the bonded indebtedness of the state amounts to $19,209 per annum, it will be readily seen that the income the state receives just about pays expenses of its government and allows no margin for Harvey, is the large crop that has been coming, year after year, in competition with the old crop. In 1873 the value of the silver ministration as a state. This was in 1893, when the state treasurer lost $55,000 of the date's funds through the failure of a bank where he had that amount of state founds on deposit. Of this amount $45,000 is still due the state and will probably never be recovered.
