They have proved instruments of such lasting quality in every way that they are being sold in quantities with teachers and music loving people; they last like iron; no wear out to them. Remembering that fact, Miss Baldwin, who has been in the business for several years, has purchased a cabinet grand for her own use. It is worth seeing and hearing.

SOCIAL AFFAIRS OF LAST WEEK.

Picnics and Trolley Parties Form the Chief of the Amusements.

Society has not recovered sufficiently from the depression of the late heated term or felt the inspiration of the coming crisp autumn days to show any signs of awakening and consequently we have had some of the things unknown during the week. Picnics in the parks or at Manawa and trolley parties were the chief source of amusement for the week. There were, however, a number of very pleasant social events of an informal character.

Miss Baldwin entertained informally on Monday evening Misses Schoenigen, Carrie Schoenigen, Meyer and West of Omaha, Keating, Moore, Ayres, Day, Wilson, Pinney, Wright, Dawson, Metcalf, Mayo, Stewart, Emplie, Kinsley, Crane, and Misses Omaha and Mrs. Hart and Stewart and Hatch of Quincy. On Monday evening Miss Baldwin entertained at dinner Miss Keating, Moore, Ayres, Day, Wilson, Pinney, Wright, Dawson, Metcalf, Mayo, Stewart, Emplie, Kinsley, Crane, and Misses Omaha and Mrs. Hart and Stewart and Hatch of Quincy.

VETOOES MOTOR FRANCHISE

Mayor Carson Gives the Council an Opportunity to Make Changes.

EXPECTED TO BE PASSED AGAIN SOON

Officials of Street Car Company and Members of Council Refuse Any Light on Modifications to Be Made.

Mayor Carson called a special meeting of the city council last evening and vetoed the ordinance granting a fifty-year extension of the motor company's franchise.

The meeting was the result of an agreement reached by the mayor and the council by which the council agreed to ask the mayor to return the ordinance without his approval that the council might consider it further and make some changes.

A majority of the council members in writing late yesterday afternoon. That the meeting was to be held was only known to a few of the citizens, and the consequence was that there were only a limited number of objectors to the ordinance present.

The members of the council have given their veto a great deal of consideration and have decided that some changes in the ordinance were advisable. These modifications will no doubt be acceptable to the motor company, and the ordinance will probably come up again at the next meeting of some other meeting in the near future, and after some important changes have been made.

Some of the officers of the motor company were willing to talk last evening or give any information that they had at their disposal concerning the nature of the modifications that would be made, and the members of the council were equally reticent. The fact that they were not feeling very good indicates that the outlook was considered to be not altogether favorable to their hopes.

MOVIE IN A SUGAR FACTORY.

H. T. J. Fulcherman Tells Where the Profit Lies in the Business.

Mr. H. T. J. Fulcherman, representing the American Beet Sugar Factory Construction company of Chicago spent several hours yesterday in consultation with the executive committee of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association in the office of Secretary Judson. The time was spent in discussing the problem of establishing a beet sugar factory in Council Bluffs.

Mr. Fulcherman constructed his own factory in Nebraska and is presented sufficient credentials to the committee to establish the fact that his statements concerning the advantages and profits of a sugar factory could be taken as authoritative, and his explanations were consequently listened to with the greatest interest.

The committee had invited a number of the leading local capitalists to meet Mr. Fulcherman, and among those who responded were E. L. Shugart, Leonard Everett, Samuel Haas, F. R. Davis and others. The time was chiefly devoted to hearing Mr. Fulcherman explain the beet sugar industry and the great importance to the city and the farmers. For half an hour he poured rather dazzling statistics into the ears of those present, and proved each statement made by documentary evidence. He also gave estimates of the cost of plants ranging from 200 tons to 1,000 tons of beets and an information as to the various propositions that his company would be willing to consider. The plan proposed was the construction of a 300-ton plant, which would cost $250,000 to construct, and the cost of a site and the addition of the necessary working capital would bring the total investment up to $315,000.

He outlined a number of propositions that would be considered by his company in erecting and equipping this plant. One was that he would invest $250,000 in capital, and his company would undertake to provide the other half and build the plant and have it in operation within a year. The other was to construct the plant and furnish skilled labor to operate it for the first year for 5 per cent of the total investment, and in the second year to operate the company would execute a bond for any reasonable amount above the cost of the plant, and in the third year to operate the plant in dividends would amount to 10 per cent in addition to 6 per cent interest upon the total capital invested. He gave in detail the various propositions that he had in mind, but did not enthusiastically approve of the plan of selling stock among the farmers, for the reason that such stock subscriptions had been repeatedly refused by eastern money lenders.

ACREAGE OF BEETS REQUIRED.

He estimated that 3,000 acres of cultivated beets would provide enough material to keep such a factory in operation for the basis of all his estimates and guarantees. There would be 2,000 acres of beets to be cultivated and the factory kept in operation 150 days the profits in dividends would be in the neighborhood of 25 or 30 per cent.

There is no possible danger of an over-production of sugar, said he, "for you have one firm in your city who can handle three times the total output of such a factory. There are no other business that require such a small working capital. It requires only nine hours to convert the raw beets into refined sugar, and on all markets sugar is in cash. Your broker will return the cash within ten days from the date of your work-up of the sugar, and your working capital is turned over practically every week. No other business in this country can show such results."

To further emphasize the fact that there could be no danger of a dull market and overproduction, he quoted statistics to show that it would require 100 factories of double the capacity of the one in contemplation to supply the demands of the Iowa market alone. He instanced one district in Prussia where the total area was no larger than Pottawamott county, where the best culture sustained thirty-two factories, varying in capacity from 200 to 1,000 tons of beets a day. If the beets analyzed by the company were to produce one ton of refined sugar, and a richer saccharine product would give correspondingly better results. Twelve per cent beets at $4 a ton would net the farmers on an average of $40 an acre for the use of their lands. One man with the present means of cultivation could take care of five acres of beets, do all of the work in connection with harvesting and marketing them. The larger the area cultivated and the more specially adapted new machinery used, the greater the profit to the grower.

He explained that all of the machinery used in the construction of the factory in Chicago was of the latest pattern and of all American make, which was now about 30 per cent cheaper than it could be imported from France.

WILL MAKE IT IN WRITING.

At the conclusion of his remarks he informed the members of the committee that he would send some written propositions after his return to Chicago that would be somewhat better than he had outlined. He left with the secretary a large amount of literature that he had prepared, and a large amount of capital invested in beet sugar making. One of the first things that would be necessary, he declared, would be the making of contracts with responsible farmers and gardeners for the culture of at least 8,000 acres of beets. In Germany the possession of such a bunch of contracts would enable the promoter of the enterprise to go into the money market and secure 90 per cent of the capital required to build and operate the factory, but in this country at the present time 45 or 50 per cent was the most that capitalists would advance, although with a positive assurance that the earning capacity of the enterprise would be at least 17 per cent.

The statements and propositions excited considerable interest among the gentlemen present, and they will await the receipt of the written proposals of his company with something more than mere curiosity.

Mr. Fulcherman left for Chicago last evening.

KEEPING ASSIGNMENTS SECRET DOES NOT HOLD WATER.

The question of the assignment of the teachers to the various school buildings for the coming year is just now occupying a prominent place in the popular list of subjects for discussion. The determination of the Board of Education to withhold the announcement of the assignments until the day previous to the opening of the city schools has given rise to all sorts of speculations.

The teachers have come to the conclusion that every one of them will be changed and that their domestic arrangements will be broken up. The fact that the assignments will be withheld until the day previous to the opening of the city schools has given rise to all sorts of speculations.

THE UNFORTUNATE STRIFE OF THE FULTON AND ROCK ISLAND CITIZENS.

The unfortunate strife of the Fulton and Rock Island citizens and members of the office of the removal of the headquarters of the Modern Woodmen of America culminated again yesterday in what appears to have been nothing more or less than a pitched battle.

The telegraphic columns of yesterday and today's Bee give a full account of the trouble, which resulted in the injury of several people, one of whom may die.

This trouble over the removal of the office from Fulton to Rock Island was before ended in an emergency by the citizens of the two places. A number of months ago the Rock Island people in the night time descended upon Fulton and removed a considerable quantity of the records from the office to the city of Rock Island, but all while the alarm, however, was sounded and the Fulton people flocked out and an end put to the raid.

The invaders were driven into their cars by streams of water from hoses that were held there until an order from the court was secured, forbidding them to further attempt the removal and instructing them to return to the city of Rock Island. This encounter did not result in any personal injury to any of the participants, but the feeling has apparently become much intensified since.

The history of the troubles is well known to those interested in secret society history. The movement to remove the headquarters of the Modern Woodmen of America from Fulton to Rock Island this time the head camp held its meeting in this city several years ago. At that time the Fulton people called in the assistance of the court and the Rock Island people called in the assistance of the court. The court has since then continued since that time. The opposition of the Fultonites to the removal is fully explained by the fact that the headquarters of the Modern Woodmen of America are located in Fulton and the immediate vicinity. The members at large are almost entirely in favor of the removal and attempt of the Fultonites to secure outside support to their opposition have failed utterly.

Fultonites based their opposition to the removal on the grounds that the laws of the state would not permit a removal. This contention was carried up to the Illinois supreme court, which ruled that the Illinois law would allow the removal to any town in the state, but would not permit the offices to be taken out of the city of Rock Island. The court rendered its decision previous to this year's session of the head camp.

When the head camp met it was found that this decision and some amendments that had been adopted during last winter's session of the legislature had taken away the right of the Rock Island people to elect the head camp again voted to remove the headquarters to Rock Island, the change to take place within thirty days. The decision is made to the effect that this plan is once more securing an injunction preventing this removal.

The suit was set for trial next September. The Rock Island people succeeded in obtaining a hearing recently before the supreme court of the state and that body on last Friday rendered its decision in favor of the Rock Island people. The Rock Island people determined to give the Fulton citizens no more opportunities to stop them in their tracks and they accordingly voted to elect the head camp again voted to remove the headquarters to Rock Island, the change to take place within thirty days. The decision is made to the effect that this plan is once more securing an injunction preventing this removal.
