Last evening the visiting tennis players attended the Creighton theater as the guests of Mr. Victor Rosewater, the president of the club. Other entertainments are being prepared for tonight and Mondey night. It is probable after last night's rain that there will be no play today, though an effort may be made to pull off one or two of the remaining matches on the courts of the Thietie club on Twenty-sixth street, which dry much more rapidly after a rain than the Omaha Tennis club's courts. The matches that now remain are between Condes and Cullingham and between Gordon and Austir semi-final round of the singles, and the final round of the doubles between Austin and Cullingham and the winner of the unfinished semi-final tie.

the afternoon was frequently marked by brilliant work.

Starting at 10 o'clock, the finishing of the second round of singles was taken in hand, and pushed through with as much dispatch as possible. No great interest was centered in these games with the exception possibly of a longing among the older players to ascertain how Gordon, the tail West Pointer, would come out. He emerged from Hawkins and Leeds May Meet.

> "Unknowns" Will Not Come. KEARNEY, Neb., Aug. 20.—(Special.)-Messrs. Cornelius and Mott, the champion hose couplers, will probably be disappointed in the contest which had been arranged between a couple of "unknowns" in Illinois for October 28, as they received word a day or two ago that one of the "unknowns" had met with an accident which would prevent his being able to compete for the prize on the date settled, and declaring the contest off for the present. It is quite a disappointment to the boys here.
