But the time Mr. Dawes put in at that work came in good play, for shortly after his return to Nebraska he was appointed to succeed Prof

I am truly sorry that the governor felt called upon to make the change, for I sin-corely believe that it will prove a mistake. But I know that there was a tremendous pressure brought to bear upon him by po-litical friends, and it is possible that he could not resist it. Yet there might have been a faller manner in which to treat Prof. as a soldler during the war."

Veterans Devote Part of Reunion Time to State Honor.

SENATOR ALLEN'S SOLDIER SENTIMENTS Letter Rend by Commander Ehrhart

from the Absent Private-Congressman Strode and W. J. Bryan Make Speeches.

LINCOLN, Sept. 14 .- (Special.) -- The second day of the Grand Army reunion shows a largely increased attendance. It would be difficult to estimate the number now in many prefer to find lodging in the city, and and spend the days on the camp grounds. There are a number of state headquarters, fitted up with reception rooms, registration books, and portraits of soldiers and statesmen. Notable among these are the headquarters of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin,

New York. Today was "Nebraska Day," and the speaking was held in the exposition hall, which sembly of states, 9 a. m.; Ladies of the Grand | The man got the land again, but he was comholds about 2,500 people. The room was packed, but as the weather was uncomfortably warm, it was hard to keep the peo-ple quiet, and there was a loud hum of voices that interfered very much with the speaking. Chairman Erhardt read telegrams from Congressmen Greene and Stark, announcing their inability to be present. letter from Senator Allen was also read, the in the war and devotion to the old soldiers. It continues:

For those who honestly served in the For those who honestly served in the same great, just and holy cause, whatever their station in life may be, or may have been, I have strong feelings of affection akin to those existing between brothers, notwithstanding on political questions we may widely disagree. Men capable of sacrificing personal convenience and risking health and life in the accomplishment of a great cause in the interest of the race are too broad-minded, sensible and patriotic to cavil with others who performed a like service respecting their political opinions.

The war for the union was fought on the theory that ours is a national government The war for the union was fought on the theory that ours is a national government and that this is an inseparable union of indestructible states, and that a state having entered the union becomes an integral portion thereof and cannot throw off or abandon its allegiance at any time a majority of its citizens may so deciare. This is the settled doctrine of our country. We are not only a federal union, but a nation, and our government possesses, and can exercise for the common good all the power that any other national government can rightfully exercise.

BATTLING FOR THE RIGHT.

BATTLING FOR THE RIGHT. Thirty-two years have passed into eternity Thirty-two years have passed into eternity since the close of the war in which we served together and the mustering out of the volunteer army and navy. Those who were then mere striplings have become gray-headed men and in the west have encountered the hardships privations and experiences of a long, useful and active pioneer life. It must have impressed itself on all that with our retirement from the army we did not cease to be charged with dutles and responsibilities of a very high order and an important character. The same cause that impelled our enlistment and induced us to encounter the hardships and experiences of a soldier's-life, namely, the preservation and protection of the union, has doubtless induced us to perform our duty as citizens to the best of our oblists to meaning the district were read.

Alleged Stage Robbers Held for Trial. CHEYENNE, Wyo., Sept. 14.—(Special Telegram.)—Two men arristed by the deputy United States marshal for Wyoming, charged with holding up stages and robbing passengers in the Yellowstone National park on August 14, were given a preliminary hearing at Mammoth Hot Springs today by Commissioner Meldrum and held for trial at the November term of the United States court. The and the cause of popular liberty be thereby imperiled or made less secure, the evil conimperiled or made less secure, the evil consequences to ensue would rest with us. Doubtless at the present time and in the past we are and have been pursuing a course that has met the approval of our consciences and our judgments.

Among the many rights guaranteed the American people by the constitution is that of free speech and the right to honestly act, think and speak on political and other questions affecting the weifare of mankind as we may see proper, so long as we do not intrench on, or interfere with, the like rights of others. If we keep within this line we are enjoying a part of the liberty for which we and our fathers contended, and we must accord to all the right to act, think and speak for themselves.

ALL ON ONE FOOTING.

ALL ON ONE FOOTING.

I may be permitted to say that I shall in the future, as I have in the past, use every reasonable and honest effort to advance the interests of the soldiers and sailors of this state and nation. I have during the incumbency of my present office had under consideration 965 pension cases at the Bureau of Pensions, many of which have been granted, besides having introduced and secured the passage of many private bills. I have strenuously contended on the floor of the United States senate, and shall continue to do so, that all who honorably performed like services in the cause of the Union should be equally rewarded in the granting of pensions, and that the artificial distinction between husbands, made necessary by the existence of a state of war, shall not continue between their widows after the war closed and each took his station in the ranks of citizens. I shall earnestly continue this line of advocacy until such an odious distinction shall have ceased to exist in the United States. The wife and children of a private soldier who performed meritorious and honest services for his country and risked life and limb at a time when the government needed him, should be rewarded equally with the wife and children of those who received higher pay, greater honor and emoluments during the short period such distinction existed.

To all I extend a greeting and godspeed in life's journey. Very truly yours in F. C. and L., WM. V. ALLEN.

CONGRESSMAN STRODE SPEAKS. ALL ON ONE FOOTING.

CONGRESSMAN STRODE SPEAKS. Congressman J. B. Strode was the first speaker. He gave a review of the causes that d to the war, and said that the greater part of the army that marched to the front is 1861 was in the eternal camp today. He discussed the war as it affected Nebraska, and followed the state through its formation of state government and admission into the union, eulogizing Marquette and Thayer as two of its greatest patriots. The part of present patriotism was to "stand up for Nebraska." The state had increased in popu-lation from 50,000 in 1867 to over a million in 1897. It has grown into a great common-wealth since the war. It was being built up at the time Ben Wade said: "I am in favor of homes for the homeless, rather than niggers for the niggerless." In 1870 the stat raised 7,000,000 bushels of corn; in 1880, 59,000,000; in 1890, 190,000,000, and in 1897 fully 300,000,000 bushels. In 1870 there were 298 school houses in the state, and now there are 7,000, the state having the lowest percentage of illiteracy among all the states. The speaker thought we ought to stand up for and he proud of the state. This would be true patriotism. He said there were many sincere people who preach and profess patriotism, but the true patriot is the one who practices as well as preaches. who practices as well as preaches.

After a song by the Glee club, which was made up of old soldiers, and which made up in energy and enthusiasm what it lacked in music, W. J. Bryan was introduced as the next speaker. BRYAN AND THE SOLDIER.

Mr. Bryan said he was to have taken part in the program on Thursday, but finding that he would be unable to be present at that time had come to make a little talk today. He thought, however, that on occasions like He thought, however, that on occasions like this it was proper for those to speak who took part in the war, father than those who were born too late to enter the great struggle. We can look back upon the little contest in which we have been engaged and find how small it was compared with the civil war—the greatest war of history. The war was great, because conquered enemies had been converted into nermanent friends.

referred to Mr. Strode's definition of patriotism and said he was glad that the word was broad enough to include some besides those who actually fought in the war. The patrio was a man who fought the battles of his country, whether they be fought with bullets or with arguments. It was important to win our liberties, and just as important to preserve them. "If a man basn't a chance to die for his country, isn't it glorious to be able to live for it?"

King Foster Thrown on His Head in n Runnway and Dies Soon After. MAYWOOD, Neb., Sept. 14 .- (Special Telegram.)-King Foster, am old resident of this vicinity, about 65 years of age, was killed today in a runaway. Mr. Foster was removing a dead hog from the railroad stock yards at this place and having loaded the hog into his wagon attempted to get in the wagon, when the team took fright and started to run. Mr. Foster made an extra effort to reach the lines, when the horses made a tremendous surge rad in some way threw him into the air. In falling he struck the ground on his head and shoulders with such force as to break the spine and cause internal injuries, and the blood flowed from his ears and nestrils. Several men rushed to his assistance and removed him to house nearby. Dr. Wilson was called, but could do nothing for him. Foster was unconscious when picked up and never came to enough to recognize any one. He died

SALOON CASE DRAGS IN COURT

Strong Opposition to the Granting of License to A. W. Padget. WAHOO, Neb., Sept. 14 .- (Special.)-The saloon fight at Mead in this county is dragelection. A. W. Padget made application for ber of freeholders. The case was tried be fore the village board of Mead. The remon strance was overruled and four days after the ending of the trial a license was granted pon the village clerk to secure the evidence and file it in his office. The bulk of the evidence was in the hands of the stenog-rapher, who with the acquiescence of all parties was permitted to take the testimony, hence the clerk declared it was impossible to produce all the evidence. A writ of mandamus was applied for to Judge Sedg-wick. The case was argued fully and a large amount of testimony taken, but the judge refused to grant the writ until the remonstrators secured the evidence from the stenographer. The remonstrators procured a writ to compel the village board of Mead to meet and cancel the license, pending the appeal. The case was tried some time age and was a hard fought battle. Judge Sedgwick handed down his opinion yesterday, denying the writ on the ground the appeal was not taken in time to operate as a stay. The case will be up for trial at the nexterm of the district court.

There had been more or less friction between husband and wife for some time past, due, it is said, to a difference of opinion regarding money matters and quarrels be-tween them have been of frequent occurence, culminating in the manner heretofore indicated.

From what can be learned, Sampson and his wife had quarreled and shortly after breakfast Mrs. Sampson went into the pantry, picked up a bottle of vitriol, poured the contents into a cup and returning to the dining room, dashed it into the face of her husband Neighbors, who had been aware of the
