Control Alleged of the Motor Company's Rates Does Not Exist.

Sections of the Ordinance Supposed to Cover the Ground Only Open the Way to Certain Defeat.

Spencer Smith, C. M. Harl and Jacob Sims yesterday formulated a reply to the argument advanced by City Attorney Hazelton before the city council Wednesday evening that the sections of the proposed new charter of the motor company gave unquestionable control of the company to the city. The argument is addressed to the mayor and city council and controverts Mr. Hazelton's statements at all points. It follows:

at all points. It follows:

To the Mayor and City Council of the City of Council Bluffs: Gentlemen—The statement has been made to your members, in the public press and on the street that sections 7 and 8 of the ordinance now pending before you, granting an extension of the charter of the Omaha & Council Bluffs Railway and Bridge company, was prepared by the lawyers of the citizens committee, and in their judgment gave to the city council abolute and unquestioned power to regulate the charges and operation of the motor line, subject only to the fifteen-year limitation incorporated in the ordinance. The impression has likewise been conveyed that by the submission of the ordinance the committee recommended an extension on the conditions therein named.

This statement and impression are not correct. The citizens' committee has first and always protested against any extension in obedience to the wishes of the citizens' meeting by which it was appointed. Its ordinance was prepared and submitted only as embodying the conditions which it deemed to be essential to be incorporated in the ordinance of the protest of the citizens against any extension was disregarded. It was recognized that one of the most essential features of such an ordinance must be reservation, if possible, of control over the line, its charges and operation. It was recognized by the committee, as stated by some members of the council in your session, that "a grant of a fifty-year extension of this charter would be disastrous unless complete powers of control could be vested in the city." In attaining this result the commitpowers of control could be vested in the city." In attaining this result the committee was confronted by two difficulties; BEYOND THE CITY'S POWERS.

BEYOND THE CITY'S POWERS.

First, there is great uncertainty as to whether or not, under existing laws, the council has the power to regulate the charges of street car lines wholly within the city. That is a question upon which the caurts are divided and which has not been determined in this state. Secondly, and more lines of the company are purely local and subject to state law, the main line is engaged in interstate commerce and wholly beyond the legislative powers of the state of lowa or of the city council.

The committee was compelled to recognize that any clause in the ordinance reserving to the city "any rights or privileges that are now conferred by state statutes or that may hereafter be enacted," would be wholly ineperative as to the Omaha line of this company, because that line, by reason of its interstate character, is under the federal constitution, beyond the power of any law now in force or which could hereafter be enacted by the legislature of the state. To meet this question as far as possible, there was added a clause providing for forfeiture of the francialse for failure "to conform to any ordinance * * * which said council might lawfully pass, with reference to any street car line wholly in the city of Council Bluffs." It was at the time expanded to the committee that it was questionable whether or not this clause (the only one affecting this question) was valid or could be enforced. It was the Intention of ne affecting this question) was valid or build be enforced. It was the intention of could be enforced. It was the intention of the committee to cover this question so far as stipulations or the use of language could cover it; but it then was and still is recognized to the cover it.

cover it; but it then was and still is recog-nized by every lawyer on the committee as a question of grave doubt whether or not it was or could be effective and as to whether or not there was any power to make such a contract. No lawyer can fail to recognize the force of this doubt, which has on further investigation been only strengthened. The constitution commits the regulation of interstate commerce solely to congress. The United States supreme court, in Welton against Missouri, 91 U. S. 255, had held that the control of interstate commerce given to congress was to insure, uniformity of commercial regulation against discrimof commercial regulation against discriminating state legislation. In Railway Company against Maryland, 21 U. S., 456, a clause in the Maryland charter of a company engaged in interstate commerce was on this ground attacked as being unconstitutional. ground attacked as being unconstitutional. The supreme court held it to be constitutional solely upon the ground that that particular clause did not interfere with interstate commerce, clearly intimating that if it had the provision would have been void. Justice Miller, one of the most eminent men who ever sat on that bench, dissented, holding that the clause was an attempt to regulate commerce, and therefore unconstitutional and void.

VERY UNCERTAIN GROUND.

VERY UNCERTAIN GROUND. In view of the uniform decisions of the supreme court that acts of state legisla-tures and ordinances of city councils seekng to regulate the charges or operations of railways or other carriers engaged in inof railways or other carriers engaged in in-terstate commerce are unconstitutional and void, it does not take a lawyer to see that it is a very doubtful question whether the clause in this charter attempting to sub-ject the corporation to the laws of the state of lowa and ordinances of the city of Council Bluffs is of any force. It is sim-ply contracting on the part of the railway company to submit to laws and ordinances regulating interstate commerce which but company to submit to laws and ordinances regulating interstate commerce which, but for the contract, are unconstitutional and void as to it. From the most favorable standpoint to the city, it is a matter of extreme doubt. The opinion of the city solicitor, given to the city council, was, as he advises us, largely with reference to the language of the charter without much reference to the broader and deeper question. He, with every other lawyer, will have to say that it is a doubtful question, upon tion. He, with every other lawyer, will have to say that it is a doubtful question, upon which only a tentative and not certain opinion can be expressed.

If the ordinance is to be passed it should contain this clause, because it may develop and would then be of supreme importance. No one can safely act, however, upon the assumption that it is valid and that thereby certain control is vested in the city council.

No one can safely act, however, upon the assumption that it is valid and that thereby certain control is vested in the city council. In view of the fact that members of the council and citizens have stated that they favored this ordinance in the belief that there was unquestioned power of regulation in the city, we deem it our duty to submit these suggestions to you, particularly as we have been quoted to the effect that this ordinance does reserve such power to the city. It is of course for you to determine whether or not you will grant a fifty-year charter when it is a matter of extreme doubt whether or not the city will, during that fifty years, have any control over the charges or operation of the Omaha line of this company. In view of the importance of this question and the statements that have been made with reference thereto, we have deemed it due both to you and to ourselves to call your attention to the fact that this assumed power of future control by the city council is a question of great uncertainty. Of course, if the power does not exist to make this contract, no stipulations or provisions of the ordinance can be framed that would effect such purpose. Respectfully submitted.

> ASSOCIATION WILL INCORPORATE Exposition Auxiliary to Be Placed on a Legal Footing.

The general committee of the Council Bluffs Exposition association held its regular meeting at the city building last evening and discussed matters cornected with the work of the association. The most important action taken was the determination of the committee to incorporate and give the organization a legal status. This matter was subject of finance was under discussion. He called attention to the fact that each member of the committee was personally liable for the debts of the organization, and as it was likely that the committee would handle considerable money and become in-volved in expenditures of large sums there might be some undesirable sequels and afterclaps. With the organization properly in-corporated under the state laws the indi-vidual members of the association could not be liable for any debts and deficits that might remain when the work of the association was closed next year. The suggestion met a favorable response, and the offi-cers of the association were directed to prepare articles of incorporation and submit them at a special meeting to be held in the city building on Monday evening. The committee on literature submitted the that was designed to be used on the official letterhead of the association. Several suggestions were made, making alterations and additions, and it was referred back to the committee and Secretary Judson for that purpose. One of the suggestions was the preparation of a small map in outline showing the location of the exposition grounds, their nearness to Council Bluffs and accessibility by railway and street car lines. It was thought advisable to design this map so that it could be used on the backs of envelopes sent out by business men, and should become Council Bluffs' distinctive exposition seal. In this way the near-ness of the grounds to the hotels and the central part of the city could be made very prominent and advertised all over the country. The committee and the secretary were ordered to have pricted at once 5,000 of these letterheads and envelopes. The writeup of Council Bluffs was also referred back o the literature committee for some changes and emendations that the general committee thought advisable to incorporate in.

The chairmen of the various committees were unable to comply with the request of committee to submit estimates thought advisable to incorporate in it. the general committee to submit estimates of the amount of money that each would require to prosecute the work that has been assigned them. This led to a general discussion of the general finance question and to the passage of a resolution directing the finance committee to prepare to raise $5,000. $1,000 of which to be accessible not later than November 15. Mr. Walters, chairman of that committee, thought with the association properly incorporated and all danger of personal liability removed, the comp ould have far les trouble in raising the money required. The suggestion of a general local exhibit free to all and in a prominent locality was considered at some length. Mr. Bixby be lieved that a good plan would be to lease the lower floor of the Eiseman building and use it for the general headquarters of the committee and for the local exhibit, assigning space to each township in the county. This exhibit was not intended to interfere in any way with the proposed exhibit in the exposition, but as simply an additional effort to show the resources of the county. The rental of the large room, which contained more floor space than was contained in either of the Sioux City corn palaces, was fixed at $2,500 for the year, and this amount was not thought to be excessive in view the fact that nearly half of the sum would be required for the rental of suitable headquarters elsewhere. No action was taken. matter was looked upon with con siderable favor, and may become a part of the big schemes of the association. A new committee was appointed to take up the headquarters question and incidentally consider this also. The committee is composed of W. A. Maurer, H. W. Binder, Dr. Barstow Wollman. General Test submitted a resolution, asking the assistance of the women in making an attractive educational, horticultural, artistic and floral exhibit. Mr. Test, as chairman of the tran-portation committee, also reported favorable correspondence with sev-eral of the railroad companies concerning transportation matters. The Union Pacific arnounced that through trains would be run from the Broadway depot to the State Fair grounds. TOLD OUT OF COURT.

Judge Goldfogle of New York asked court officer for Abbott's "Digest" the other day and the clerk, who had never heard of a digest, apparently, brought the judge a glase of mineral water for his digestion.

"The prisoner at the bar seems not to have the truth in him," said the judge. "I fancy he lost it when he was bailed out, your honor," said the prosecuting attorney.

In Commonwealth against Williams, 108 Mass., 62, a witness identifying burglar by his voice testified th "he had a pleasant, smooth a very interesting, manly, smooth, gentle, handsome pleasant, smooth, gentle, handsome voice, like that of one born in this country of foreign parents, a York state voice. He heard this pleasing voice near midnight. saying: "Keep still or you're a dead man If you move, I'll take your heart's blood."

"Judge," said Mr. Mandrake, "I don't se how it is possible for a man in your position always to avoid bias. Now, that care which was just tried before you, for instance, struck me as being a very much mixed up affair, yet your charge to the ary sounded just as if you hadn't heard a word of the evidence on either side." 'Did it?" replied Judge Scroggins. "I'm glad to hear that. "Yes," Mr. Mandrake went on, "and that's what makes me wonder, for the attorneys for the defense were so far superior to those for the prosecution that I don't see how it was possible for you to hear them and yet be unswerved."

"I didn't hear them," said the judge.
"Didn't hear them?"
"No. That's the secret of success on the each. A judge's first duty to the public after he assumer office is to learn the art of pretending to listen while not doing so. Let the lawyers fool the juries, if they can but their arguments must never penetrate the minds of the judges. If it were otherwise we might as well shut up our courts at once." "But that being the case," said Mr. Man ake, "why have juries at all?"

"To satisfy the people," Judge Scroggins explained, "and to give the lawers a chance. Without juries the folk who go to law would not believe that they were getting their money's worth and the lawyers would soon out of business.

a Hig Industry. CHAMBERLAIN, S. D., Sept. 16 .- (Special.) The populists, who are temporarily in control of the affairs of South Dakota, are making a record in reference to the State School of Mines for incapacity, and shows that for prought up by Mr. E. H. Walters while the the sake of a little political plunder they will not hesitate to seriously handicap, if not totally ruin, a state institution. The School of Mines, until the blight of populism was cast upon it, was in a highly flourishing condition and was of great benefit in the upbuilding and advancement of one of South Dakota's chief industries—that of mining. But upon the appointment of a new board of regents, which, among other institutions, has control of the School of Mines, efforts were at once made to make the institution a medium of aggrandizement for designing politicians, and the result is that of the recent faculty, which has worked hard to make the institution successful, only Dean McGillycuddy and Prof. McLaury remain. Profs. Smith, Flintermann and Barnes, all competent men, have virtually been all competent men, have virtually been forced to resign, and Prof. Free, who was recently appointed to one of the vacant places, has also tendered his resignation to the populist board of regents. The time is rapidly approaching for the regular fall opening of the school and if the tangle is not speedily straightened out the school will be damaged to a deplorable extent. the Dread Disease Again. LEAD, S. D., Sept. 16.-(Special.)-The yphoid fever is again prevailing in this ity, and the residents are alarmed lest it should be a repetition of last year's epidemic. The first victim of the fever was Mark Snell, an employe of the Homestake company, who died Tuesday afternoon after selge of the fever. Bad water and the lack of proper sewerage of the city is re-sponsible for the reappearance of the dread disease. The local physicians have adviced all possible precaution, such as the bolling of all water used for family purposes, and they also unite in urging scrupulous cleanliness about all house yards. It was but a short time earlier than this last year when this city was visited by a disastrous epidemic of fever, which resulted in the loss of many lives.

The city officials are now making every possible effort to dispose of the sewer bonds, which have been voted, and have a sewer ≡ible. It is probable that the entire issue of bonds, $27,000, will be taken by local investors. Foreign capital is wary of investent here for two reasons. First, the repudiation of a large amount of the county's ounded indebtedness by the Board of Commissioners; and, second, because of the fact that Lead is a mining town, and such towns are, as a rule, shortlived. Superintendent Superintendent Grier of the Homestake Mining company which is the main financial support of the town stated in his last annual report that there was enough ore in sight to keep mines in operation upon the present large scale for twenty years to come. However, local capital is ready to take up the bonds, and if the sewer is immediately built the physicians think that the epidemic will be

The conventions adjourned at 11:15 o'clock tonight and the senti nent of both democrats and populists is tha Judge Smith, the republican nominee, will undoubtedly be elected judge of the circuit.

SOUTH DAKOTA CROP BULLETIN Early Corn All Right, but Late Plant ing Damaged by Heat. HURON, S. D., Sept. 46,-(Special.)-The crop bulletin from the government bureau

here says: The warm weather of the last week was favorable for maturing early corn, the most of which is now beyond danger from frost and but little of it injured by the excessive heat. The hot winds ripened the late corn too rapidly, causing shrinkage of grain and in many localities considerable has been adversely affected. It may, however, be benefited or improved by the recent rains. There appears still to be considerable late corn in localities, on low bottom lands, that his not hardened.

Potatoes are about all matured and are a good crop of good quality.

The grass is still green on the bottom lands, but the uplands are generally brown. On the range west of the Missouri river it appears that the grass is well ground-cured and winter pasturage cannot now be The warm weather of the last week was
