SILVER REPUBLICANS SATISFIED. They Succeed in Getting All They

Ask For. It was nearly 2:30 o'clock when C. O. Lobeck, chairman, called the silver republican convention to order. The first business of any importance transacted was the appointment of the following committee to confer cratic and the populist conventions: James the resolution was a scheme on the part of W. was resolved that names of free silver republicans willing to act as officers at the coming election should be immediately filed with the county central committee and by that body presented to the county judge. William Grabach and Dr. Connell were apointed messengers to the other free silvet onventions, with instructions to report back to their own convention hourly of the progress made by the other conventions. Grabach came in at 3 o'clock to report that the populists were not getting along toward fusion very rapidly. This news rather disheartened the free silver republicans and they adjourned for a recess.

As the hands of the clock moved close to the hour of 6 the delegates became restss and wanted to quit. One gray haired old man said: "I am opposed to our sitting here any longer like a lot of puppets wait-ing for the democrats to take some action." The leaders tried to explain that a waiting game was the best, but the old man shool his head. Finally, after hearing of the adournment of the other two conventions, the ree silver republicans decided at 6 o'clock o take a recess until 7:30 p. m. When the evening session convened, J. W. Carr of the conference committee made a report. This report announced that the fre liver republicans had been conceded th offices of clerk, treasurer and coroner, and that he other offices had been divided between th emocrats and populists. The delegates reelved this report willingly and there wer dissenting voices in the vote on adopting the report.

Two representatives of the copulists were resented to the convention, and they said he populists would never agree to the repor of the conference committee. This almost led to a reconsideration of the last vote, but Dr. Mercer kicked against the motion for recon-sideration, and it was never put. Messengers were sent to the other conventions to W. Carr and Dr. Mercer then took up alf hour telling the inside history afternoon's conference. Wettling, late deputy in the city comptroller's office at Omaha, and obtained from him a statement of his position with regard to the case against the bondsmen of ex-Treasurer Bolln. In this statement he denied positively all the allegations that have lately been made ag inst him by The Bee. Mr. Wettling was at the time engaged in a conference in a room at the Union Depot hotel with Attorney W. C. Ives, the partner of City t would undoubtedly have refused to yield Attorney W. J. Connell and an assistant in the prosecution, with a view to going over the defaulting treasurer's books and arrang-

At the outset Mr. Wettling declined to be interviewed and asserted that The Bee had done him great injustice, and that its attitude toward him was entirely wrong. At this point Mr. Ives, who was present during the interview, spoke up, saying that his silence on the subject was unnecessary and The First Ward Republican club and the that it would be best to go ahead and tell all he knew. gracefully acquiesced.
"No," said he, in answer to a question. "I did not leave Omaha with a view to em-barrassing the prosecution of this case. I will be present when the time comes." And in substantiation of his statement he submitted the following as being two telegrams which have lately passed between him and the city attorney:

"OMAHA, Sept. 28 .- L. E. Wettling, Kansas City: If postponement of Bolln trial obtained can you come about November 10 two to three weeks, if needed so long? See Mr. Moody and answer immediately. W. J. Con-"KANSAS CITY, Sept. 28 .- W. J. Connell, City Attorney, Omaha: Can give you two

"The time I put in in the city comptroller's office at Omaha was only a temporary makeshift for lack of something better to do, and I have been on the lookout for a better position, not only at Armour's, but at several other claces, for the last three or four years. At last I have secured it. NOT INDEBTED TO OMAHA INFLUENCE.

"Did you get the position through any influence that may have been brought to bear from Omaha? "No, sir; I did not. I had been in business and lived in Kansas City about ten years from 1883 to 1892, and in consequence was well acquainted with many influential men who were my friends in the employ of the Armour Packing company. I do not know by whose influence I secured my present po-ition, but would suppose that it came from the before mentioned source "You are sure, then, that you did not obtain your position through the influence of William A. Paxton or any other of the ondsmen of Treasurer Bolln?

"I am. With regard to the place he is holding with the Armour establishment, Mr. Wettling said he was now only what might be called bookkeeper, but that he expected nade the head of a department in the near future. Asked as to his salary, he refused to state, of his co-workers, but said that enough greater than the sum he drew in Omaha to induce him to make the change, He said his salary in the comptroller's office was only $1,000 for the first year, and after that $1,200 per year. It is probable that he gets about $1,800 or $2,000 a year here, which is about the usual sums paid for that class of work. Mr. Wettling went to ork for the Armour Packing company Monday, September 20, to fill the place of a man who, he said, had voluntarily resigned about hree weeks previous. He had come to Kansas City and made arrangements for the work. Recurring to his intention to keep faith with the city in the prosecution of ex-Treasurer Bolin's bondsmen, Mr. Wettling said: "All the temporizing and dilly-dallying that has been done in this matter has been done solely with a view to conserving my own interests. It was impossible for me to be present at the trial as set for September 28 because I had gone to work only a week before and business was very much rushed. Numerous telegrams have passed between City Attorney Connell and the Armours with a view to letting me off a ouple of weeks to attend the trial. Comptroller Westberg came down here last Sunday to make arrangements Armours, and we have at last secured a couple of weeks about the middle of Novem-can rely upon having Mr. Wettling with us at the time of the next trial." TOO SLOW WITH HIS REVOLVER.
