MARY HURLEY PINES FOR FREEDOM. Says She is Imprisoned in a Convent in Chicago. A telegram was received yesterday, stating that Mary Hurley, daughter of D. A. Hurley of this city, was forcibly detained in a Chicago convent. The indignation is called the House of the Good Shepherd and is under the strict discipline of Catholic authorities. It is said that the girl, who has been in the institution for three years, has made various unsuccessful attempts to communicate with her parents, but has been able to send to them only such intelligence as first met the approval of the convent sisters.

A few days ago Miss Hurley became despondent regarding her hopeless condition and wrote an appeal to her father and threw it from the convent window. The note was picked up by people who have started an investigation into the conditions prevailing in the school. According to the girl's statement she is most unhappy and wishes to be delivered from her present surroundings. Her father was asked last night regarding the circumstances of his sister's alleged incarceration. He stated that he knew that his sister was somewhat dissatisfied and that he had no idea that she was in the convent. He stated that the girl was 19 years of age, and that she had not returned home since her entrance there. Mr. Hurley does not reside with his father, but believes that his parents have not known of their daughter's unhappiness. He states that he will take immediate steps to remove his sister from the school and states that as she is not bound by any vow the matter can be accomplished at once. She will be taken from the place no later than tomorrow, Mr. Hurley stated, and brought back to this city.

JUST A LITTLE FAMILY JAR. Blows Followed by Shots and No One Badly Hurt. In a family affair under the Eleventh street viaduct last night blood flowed and pistol shots rang out. The only result was a few bad bruises on the face of Emma Smith and some lesser ones which fell to the share of Minnie Robinson. The women are both colored and live in the cottage at 119 Jones street.

The first named woman was formerly a resident of this city and at that time lived with a man named Arthur Jackson, supposed to be her husband. She has spent the last few months at Buite, Mont., and on her return yesterday brought with her a man named Henderson, who seemed to have supplanted Jackson. The latter got wind of the situation, and appeared at the house. Here he found that his name had been scratched off the visiting list. As a last resort he made an appeal for the bill receipting for the storage of a quantity of furniture which had been the adjuncts of their former household. This was refused, and Henderson and Jackson was so displeased as to strike the woman a heavy blow in the face. Minnie Robinson intervened, and likewise received one. Then the Butte man appeared, but he was tardy on the scene and could only send a few shots in the direction in which the retreating form of Jackson had disappeared under the viaduct.

Dupont Social Club's Opening. The Dupont Social club held the first meeting of its second season last night at its hall on Twenty-ninth and Arbor streets. The usual program of recitations, debates and the social dance was proceeded with. It is the purpose of the club to interest the people of the surrounding neighborhood, which are largely of the literary work, and at the same time to show them a good time. The hall has been furnished and otherwise fitted up especially for the use of the club, and a permanent orchestra has been engaged. A meeting will be held on every Saturday night during the winter under the charge of Frank McGee, president, and William Groggin, secretary.

Landwehr Vexilla Celebration. The Omaha Landwehr society celebrated the first anniversary of its existence in Omaha at Orpheus hall last evening with a musical and amateur theatricals. The hall was prettily decorated with German and American bunting, emblematical of the union of the two races and a neat little stage was constructed in the end of the large hall for the purposes of the entertainment. After an overture by the orchestra a speech of welcome was delivered by Henry Busch, president of the society. H. Oert followed in a clever comedy sketch which received an encore. The zither duet by Messrs Meyer proved a pleasing feature as also were the songs of the Fatherland, rendered by the Orpheus Singing society. The main specialty of the evening was the presentation of a native land drama, entitled 'On the Mistletoe,' in which F. Eppen, Francis Martin, F. Lieben, John Scharff, Victor Martin and Miss Josephine Martin assumed the leading roles. The entertainment concluded with a dance and refreshments.

PREPARE FOR THE ICE HARVEST. Changes in the Swift Ice Houses at Cut-off. Tomorrow morning a large force of men will commence making repairs and alterations at Swift and Company's ice house at Cut-off lake. It is not the intention at this time to enlarge the two ice houses, but changes will be made which will greatly facilitate the handling of the ice crop. The galleries throughout the two buildings are to be reconstructed, which in itself will be quite an undertaking. These alterations, it is said, have not enough slant to them and new ones are to be built. Then the runways will be remodeled and rebuilt and the houses placed in first-class condition throughout. The probable cost of these alterations will be $10,000. A large number of carpenters and laborers will be given employment and a great quantity of lumber will be used. Additional machinery will also be placed in the buildings when the alterations are completed and every possible arrangement will be made for the rapid handling of a big ice crop. It is thought that by the improvements contemplated the capacity of the two ice houses will be considerably increased.

Funeral of Mrs. Allen. The relatives and friends of Mrs. Ella Allen gathered at her home yesterday afternoon and sadly offered their last tributes to the one they loved so well. The exercises at the house were conducted by Dr. Ward of the Congregational church, of which Mrs. Allen was a member. The beautiful P. E. O. ritual was used at the grave by the members of the Omaha chapter assisted by those from South Omaha. The grave was lined with the colors of the order and floral tributes from many friends covered the hallowed ground. As the casket was reverently lowered to its last resting place Messrs. John C. Wharton, F. B. Bryant, Dr. Paul, Ellis Bierbower, A. Traynor and William Gentleman, the P. E. O.'s sang 'God Be With You Till We Meet Again,' each dropping a flower as a silent farewell. Mrs. Allen's death came as a sad surprise to her friends and a heavy blow to her husband and son so suddenly bereft. She had been out of the city for about a month at tending first the state P. E. O. meeting, then the national and concluded a delightful journey by visiting the home of her husband, Mr. Pleasant, Ia. Upon her return she was prostrated and after a week's illness passed quietly away.
