They have gone into the when the boat landed at his future home in be very profitable. They have gone into the Covington business of raising squabs for the market. Three large farms have been established in this county. The Katz farm is the largest of the three, and in all probability one of the very largest in the country. Probably not one in 100 knows what a squab is, but this is not to be wondered at, for the in-dustry is a brand new one for lows. Briefly dustry is a brand new one for lows. It is filled with pigeons. Perches, buildings, everything is crowded with them. There are blue and white pigeons, fan tales and puff necks, it short, every kind, and such a bill-ing and cooling as is going on constantly was never heard before, not even at a summer resort in the height of the season.

KEEPING THE BUSINESS QUIET.

Mr. Katz is not given to talking about his business. He says it will not do to talk about it, but after considerable persuasion he their work, and the government will receive was induced to give out a few items. The engaged in the business in a very small way Then he moved into the result of years ago, but last winter lost all his pigeons by fire. Then he moved into the country, purchased the land and erected the present buildings. He bought all the pigeons he could find and now has in the neighborhood of 10,000 breed-ers. Of these about $,000 are females. These produce about 20,000 squabs a year. The old pigeons are not-molested. They are encouraged to breed and when the young are just feathering out, they are removed from the nests, killed, dressed and prepared for the market. They are kept in cold storage until there are enough of them and then they are forwarded in carload lots to the eastern markets. New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago are the centers at which most of them are sold. Mr. Katz sells them for what they are. He does not represent them unk. to be anything else but squabs. What the eastern commission men call them is merely a matter of conjecture. This is the first statement that has been made by any of the government mints as to the value and fineness of Kloudike gold. Scattle gold buyers have been paying from 15 to $16 an ounce for Eldorado Creek and om $16 to $16.75 for Bonanza Creek gold, after it has been smelted. It would seem that the gold was worth more than this, for the government mints find that the gold runs from 9,760 to 0.855 fine in gold, and from 0.160 to 0.225 fine in silver, while pure gold is figured at 1,000 fine.

In his statement Mr. Braden says: "The Klondike gold received at this institution has averaged from 0.760 to 0.835 fine in gold, and from 0.160 to 0.235 fine in silver, and on an regard to the recent discovery of the wreck average of about five points base metal. The descriptive sketches accompanying these views were prepared by

Hon. John F. Finerty OF CHICAGO.

These illustrations are not confined to any one locality in Ireland, but include every section of the Emerald Isle from Lifford to Bantry and from Dublin to Calway.

The Round Towers, Vine Covered Abbeys, Crumbling Monasteries, Shrines, Churches and Cemeteries, the Battle Fields and Eviction Scenes are all faithfully portrayed in this great word.
