Chairman of the Populist State Committee Eas His Troubles.

CUTSIDERS LOOKING UP HIS CONDUCT

Workers Who Were Lost in the Pie Shuffle Want to Know the History of Some Recent Events.

LINCOLN, March 24 .- (Special.)-There is a faction growing up in populist politics that is destined to cause much trouble to Chairman Edmisten and his friends and the leaders of this faction are inquiring into the recount baflot-fixing story lately told by on-Simon, to see if there is not enough substance therein to cause the permanent downfall of the present populist chairman. This troublesome crowd is made up from a number of popocratic workers who have in the last eighteen months sought appointments or other recognition, only to see a small coterie of officeholders gobble up all the political ple. They now say that the fellows who were connected with the recount scheme are wielding entirely too much power and that there must be a reason for all this. It is pointed out that the leaders in the recount work were Chairman Edmisten, F. M. Ross, J. N. Campbell and George W. Blake. All of these have been well provided for since then, as if it were a reward for some important service. Blake and Campbell have both been favored with fat places on the exposition work. Ross, who was a renegade republican when he received the appointment on the recount commission and who had received the promise of the place before the legislature passed the bill providing for the recount of the ballots, has since then secured the appointment of both his son and his daughter as employes of state institutions. Edmisten was put back on the throne as chairman of the populists, where he would have great power in helping to parcel out the rewards.

The inquiry now comes from the kicker element. "Why did the governor promise Ross a place on the recount commission? In what way did Ross earn the reward he sub-sequently received? And why should Blake and Campbell be favored in preference to other party workers?" That there was a great anxiety on the part of both Governor Holcomb and Secretary Porter to see J. N. Campbell receive his present appointment there is now no doubt. Porter made no secret of his work in favor of Campbell and made a special trip to Omsha to labor with the commission in behalf of his friend. Gov-ernor Holcomb was also at Omaha when the Appointment was made, but being inter-viewed by some of the disappointed applicants the next day, he assured them that he had been strictly impartial as between all the candidates and had made no special effort for Campbell. Since then some of the disgruntled ones have brought to light two letters written by the governor favoring the appointment of Campbell and they think they have fresh cause for making a fuss.

In the last two weeks several conferences ave been held between the disgruntled element and E. L. Simon, in which the details of the recount frauds have been gone over very carefully. What scheme is in the wind has not yet been learned, but when The Bee reporter happened in upon one of these conferences not long since he was given to un-ferences not long since he was given to un-derstand that there would be developments in the hear future that would prove most interesting to Mr. Edmisten and more than one other of the popocratic office holders. Lately he has been traveling over the country getting formers and other persons of wealth to listen to his story and help to put up the cash to purchase claims in the Klondike section. One busi-ness man of this city put up $100, these two Pawnee county men put up $75 apiece, while it is positively known that he has gathered up in the neighborhood of $1,000 in this manner. Effect. WASHINGTON, March 24.-The president, in conference with some of the house congressional leaders today, stated emphatically that he would evert wur if possible and expressed the hope that he could do so.

Some of the senators and members of th

house who have visited the president today

have gathered the impression from his care-fully guarded talks with them that the president will not immediately make any portant recommendation to congress, but that he wants more time in which to con negotiations with Spain with the hope of securing peace by diplomatic means. Some of them have reached the conclusion that he is hopeful of securing Spain's assent to the in dependence of the island, or at least of a condition approaching independence, by other means. He suggested to them that the rec-ognition of neither beiligerency nor independence would be sufficient to bring relief to the starving Cubans and that either act would fail at least in its immediate effect. He also suggested that there are some difficulties in he way of sending supplies to the island one of the principal of which is the fact that such a course is a practical assistance to Spain to sustain itself in the conflict. He urged upon them the especial importance of doing all they could to suppress excitement and prevent action by congress in connection with the receipt of the report on the Maine disaster. The visitors think the president's especial desire at this time is to eliminate the Maine incident entirely from the discussion of the situation and some of them think it possible that he may send the report to congress without making any recommendation of especial moment.

president said to senators that he would like to see the Cubane obtain their independence by purchase, or he intimated that he would be even willing that they should agree to pay a stated annuity to American naval court of inquiry into the suzerainty of the mother country, but he said at the same time that he recognized the difficulties is the way of this procedure because of the disinclination of the Spanish authori-tics to consider it. Still, the visitors obtained the impression that he had concluded to at least make an effort in that direction. They are of the opinion that if this negotia-tion should fail the president would resorto intervention rather than to a recognition suffering, which is in view.

The democratic senators talked frankly with the president in regard to the political aspect of the situation. They told him of the report current about congress to the effect that the Cuban situation was being manip ulated with the view of improving the for-tunes of the republican party, saying to him that if such was the case and if war was provoked for this reason the reaction would be against the party. To this the president re-plied that he fully realized this fact and that he did not intend to be swerved one hair's breadth in his purpose by political considerations.

The conservative scuators say that no hasty action without the wish of the presi-dent will be taken by the senate. There has been considerable work done among senator and the result of a general canvase leads the conservatives to believe that the sentimen in favor of moving with care and refraining from forcing the president to act in advance of his own judgment is growing.

"There will be no basty action," said one of the conservative cenators, "and while the president will be supported when he makes request, attempts to force anything through the senate wil be resisted. The senate will not be swept off its feet, but is ready to act in any emergency."

DENIES YELLOW JOURNAL STORY Assistant Secretary Day Explodes Piece of Sensationalism.

WASHINGTON, March 24.-The attention of Assistant Secretary of State Day was to night called to a story printed in New York this afternoon which represented him as having attended a conference of republican senators last night and, speaking for the president, declared the Spanish situation had gone beyond diplomatic adjustment and advocated the forcing of the freedom of Cuba by armed intervention.

Judge Day does not usually take the trouble to deny many of the stories set afforms to his beliefs and utterances, but this was such a pointed statement, purporting to de-fine the position of the administration, that he made a denial. He said:

he made a denial. Ho said:

I did not say to anyone and have never for a moment thought, that the present relations between Spain and the United States were beyond the hope of diplomatic adjustment. I have not advocated sending Cuban relief supplies in war vessels. These supplies will be sent in merchant vessels and I do not apprehend the slightest objection from the Spanish government.

I did not say that this government should intervene at once and force Cuban freedom and I have never advocated such a course. As to my saying the administration had semi-official information from the naval board fixing the blame for the Maine explosion on Spain, it is as untrue as all the rest of the story. I have had no such information to convey to anyone. formation to convey to anyone.

Mrs. Jenkins, mother of Lieutenant Jenkins, was seen by an Associated Prese repre-sentative and also denied that she had received such a letter. Said she:

"The only letter I received from my son while he was in Havana was on February 13. It had been written by him on the 9th. He said nothing about a mine or that there was any danger. All he said was to send his letters in plain envelopes and address them via Key West in care of the United States steamship Maine, as the Spaniards might get hold of them, and they open everything that looks suspicious. Mrs. Jones is a distant relative husband and I do not know anything about her."
