Bar Association Meets and Hears Brief but Enruest Panegyries Pronounced and Arranges to Attend the Funeral.

The Pottawattamie County Bar association held a meeting in the court house yesterday afternoon for the purpose of taking appropriate action concerning the death of Colone D. B. Dalley. Hon. D. C. Bloomer, president Don't you think it must be a pretty good of the association, presided, and D. E. aundry that can please so many hundreds Stuart was made temporary secretary. The meeting was chiefly devoted to brief eulogies of their associate by leading members of > President Bloomer spoke feelingly of his long association with Colonel Dailey, and declared he decired to pay as high a tribute to the character of the dead man as words could portray. He spoke particularly of the interest Colonei Dailey had always taken in the progress of the young members of the bar and young men who were studying law, and declared that Colonel Dalley had gradu-ated more lawyers than any other member of the bar. There was never a time when there were not at least one or two young men in his office studying law under his dimen in his office studying law under his di-rection. Interest in the young men did not cease when they ceased to be students, but he was always ready with advice or more he was always ready with advice or more practical assistance to help them along in their cases whenever such help was needed. He had known Colonel Bailey intimately during all of the time since he became a resident of the city, and looking backward over those long and eventful yars, he was unable to recall an incident in his professional career that was not wholly to his resional career that was not wholly to his credit.

L. W. Ross paid a glowing tribute to the character of Colonel Dalley as a lawyer and as a man. He ascribed much of his success to his ability to draw men to him.

Judge J. R. Reed said he had become accurated with Colonal Dalley and become accurate with Colonal Dalley and the colonal with the colonal part of the Juge J. R. Reed said he had become acquainted with Colonel Dailey when the latter was first appointed prosecuting attorney for the Third judicial district of lowa, which is now the Fifteenth. That association was always of the most pleasant character, and throughout it all the habits and conduct of the man strengthered, the good conjugate the man strengthened the good opinion formed at the start. Judge Reed paid a high compliment to Colonel Balley's ability as a criminal lawyer, and declared that in this respect he stood at the head of the Iowa bar. As an attorney he was most scrupulously exact and honest. He never took advantage of a client, the court nor the opposing counsel. He entered into a case with his whole heart and soul, and while always a most formidable antagonist, he was absolutely juvincible when he was convinced of the inversement of allers where heart and soul case. the innocence of a client whom he was defending. In all respects he was the ideal of professional courtesy. A number of in-cidents were recounted showing his fidelity to his clients, which the absence of a fec or any sort of compensation could not affect. Several incidents were called up where he had not only defended and acquitted clients without any hope of compensation, but had expended large sums of his own money to carry the cases through.

At the conclusion of the culogies a com-mittee was appointed, consisting of L. W. Ross. Judge W. I. Smith, James McCabe and Finley Burke, to draft sultable resolutions for adoption by the association. It was noted that a majority of the members wer at one time law students of Colonel Dailey. committee of fifteen was appointed to at representatives of the association. The meselected were: I. N. SOCIAL EVENTS OF LAST WEEK.

gender Interest in Kindergartens.

A distinctive feature of the social world during the week was the meetings of the Mothers' clubs, connected with the kindergarten work in the public schools. These clubs grew out of the interest a few women took in the welfare of their children, who met at intervals to discuss matters and visit the schools. Other mothers were attracted and the formation of the clubs followed. They have become very popular associations of a very social character and have naturally drawn the attention of the fathers, for whose accommodation special club meetings have been held in the evenings. The Pierce street club met on Wednesday afternoon. Outside of the social features the afternoon was pleasantly passed in discussing the second chapter of Miss Harrison's "Study of Child Nature." The discussion was led by Mrs. Sims. The North Eighth Street club met on Friday afternoon and discussed the mother play by Froebel. Mrs. Hardman, the chief kindergarten instructor, led the discussion. The Washington Avenue club will meet this week on Wednesday, but there will be no meeting of the Bloomer club, owing to vaca-

Receiver Ira Hendricks of the Griswold National bank, in the prosecution of his duties connected with the closing up of the bank's affairs, or putting it in a condition to continue business has found it necessary to bring a large number of suits. Among them are several suits to enforce payment of the customary cosessments of stockholders. In a majority of the cases the stockholders. In a majority of the cases the stockholders have willingly paid their assessments. Among the stockholders who refused to comply is William M. Nichols, a private backer of Atlantic. Nichols was the owner of ten shares in the Griswold bank and for several years was one of its directors. His wife was also the owner Griswold bank and for several years was one of its directors. His wife was also the owner of ten shares of the bank stock. About six months before the failure of the bank Nichois assigned his stock to his wife, thereby ceasing to be one of the directors. When the stock-holdens were assessed, suit was brought against Mrs. Nichois for the assessment on the original ten chares, and against both husband and wife to recover on both sets of shares. These suits were brought in the federal court, here, and last week a judgment was obtained against Mrs. Nichols for the amount of the assessment. In defense she has set up the claim of insolvency. Before Court Reporter Bruington special commissioner to take evidence, and Mrs. Nichols was ordered to appear here for examination. The order was put into immediate effect, and Mrs.

House Refuses to Cut Appropriation for Transmississippi Exposition and a Compromise Will Probably Be Effected.

DES MOINES March 26 .- (Special Telegram. -The executive council has completed the detail work of the railroad assessment, but the figures have not been made up for announcement. The total valuation of railroad properties of the state will show a slight inrease. The sessions of the executive council have been highly animated. The Chicago & Northwestern system was raised $250 per mile on its main line and now ranks alongside the Burlington & Quincy with the highest valuation fixed by the council. The Burlington was reduced $250 per mile and the North-it fixed at $11,500, which would have been $250 higher than the Burlington. Governor Shaw stood with him for a long time for this ocrease, but finally the matter was compromised on the basis indicated. The net income of the Chicago & Northwestern properties in the state is about $278,000. If Mr. Herriott and the governor that had their way, the in-crease would have been nearer to $600,000. The branch lines of the great systems were generally allowed some slight reduction. The council's figures on valuation of the important system main lines of the state for 1898 and 1897 follow:
