UNION GARDENERS ARE UNHAPPY

Threaten the City with All Sorts of Legal Trouble.

The Market Gardeners' association has declared war on the city and now threatens to do all sorts of things by way of retaliation on account of its failure to monopolize the preferred locations at the sale of market place stalls yesterday.

The sale of the stalls was continued by City Engineer Rosewater yesterday, but previous to that he was visited by a delegation from the gardeners' association, which filed a vigorous protest against his action in refusing to allow the union to buy in the best stalls at its own price and without competitive bidding.

The union men were in evidence in the city hall corridors, where they talked of injunctions and of having the city engineer arrested for authorizing without a license, there was no interference with the sale, however, and soon after 10 o'clock it was taken up where it stopped the day before.

In spite of the fact that fifty-three stalls had been reserved for the union, the first choice of the remaining stalls that was paid for the first choice of the bunch yesterday morning. That was $9 and then the price dropped to $1 and $2 at which the next dozen stalls were knocked down.

As nearly as can be gathered from the somewhat confused statements of members of the gardeners' association, they propose to make a fight in the courts to test the legality of the ordinance by which the rental of stalls is regulated.

These contentions will be together with the rental of 10 cents a day make a revenue that is considerably in excess of that of the market place and that the ordinance is consequently illegal.

Peacocks Flew Away. Park Commissioner Cornish has learned a lesson which is to the effect that peacocks do fly. Previously he had been under the impression that the aerial locomotion of the birds was limited to a flight from the barnyard fence to the ground and conversely.

When he secured a pair of handsome birds from Tennessee at some expense and trouble as an addition to the menagerie at Riverview park he simply had them stored in an old election booth in the park without regard to the fact that one of the windows had been broken out. He had scarcely turned his back before the male bird among the bunch raved to the brush a couple of blocks away.

He was immediately followed by his mate and both were lost to sight.

Mr. Cornish lost no time in enlisting the services of all the small boys in the First ward and a large army of them were sent beating the brush ever since. The male bird was discovered late last night, but the female is still at large. Mr. Cornish has secured a copy of the "Franklin" and a book on "Peacocks," and proposes to be an authority on the subject before he indulges in any more speculations.

The Board of Park Commissioners has also secured a couple of buffalo and a herd of deer which will soon be added to the attractions of the park. The buffalo will arrive some time next week. The deer include twelve head and are donated by Dr. George L. Miller. They will be installed in the park in a couple of weeks.

Mortality Statistics. The following births and deaths were reported at the health office during the twenty-four hours ending at noon yesterday:

Births—William J. Hielop, 3285 Fowler avenue, boy; Columbus Hardy, 1936 South Thirty-fifth avenue, boy; B. E. Pickering, 2018 South Eleventh street, boy; Thiboutin and Webster, boy; Anton Moses, 1218 Chicago, girl; W. H. Dugan, Thirty-sixth and Webster, boy.

CITY HALL NOTES. City Treasurer Edwards received a letter this morning from N. W. Harris & Co. of Chicago, who are anxious to put in a bid for the sale of the land.

A permit has been issued for the construction of the Streets of Cairo on the bluff tract at the exposition grounds. The construction covers spaces 125x400 feet and the cost is estimated at $18,000.

Permits have been issued to George C. Miller for a two-story frame residence at 2908 South Eleventh street, to cost $2,500, and to C. H. Foster for a frame dwelling at Nineteenth and Spring streets.

The Board of Public Works has given the proprietors of the Cyclone street sweeper permission to give an exhibition of the utility of the machine on the streets within the next ten days. A deal was closed by the board for the use of this machine early in the spring, but it was vetoed by the city council.

GAMBLERS' CASE ON TRIAL

Strong Evidence Brought Against the Men Under Arrest.

TESTIMONY AGAINST CETER AND HEFFNER

Witnesses Connect Them with the Ownership and Management of the Gambling Rooms and Their Fixtures.

Body blows were dealt thick and fast by the state yesterday in the gambling cases against Henry Oerter and James Heffner, who are having their preliminary hearing in police court.

In fact, by the time the prosecution rested its case about noon gamblers in the city were so frightened for their own safety that there was a lively scramble to get out from under the state's vigorous lashes.

The attorneys for Oerter and Heffner were so badly cut up by the strong finish that the state made that one of their number gave out the statement after adjournment at the noon hour that Chief Cole and others, whose preliminary hearing is set for Tuesday, had been arrested for setting up and maintaining gambling devices and keeping a gambling house in violation of the law.

The trial now on, would waive examination rather than tussle with the state for their discharge by Judge Gordon. Assistant County Attorney Jeffries, who is conducting the prosecution, introduced evidence which simply shook the defense's case to the very foundation, and all efforts of counsel for Oerter and Heffner to break down the testimony were unavailing.

The testimony now in progress, Samuel T. Schweitzer, secretary and treasurer of the electric light company, was the star witness of the day. He testified that all accounts his company carried for the lights burned in the building at 1409 Douglas street, where Oerter runs a saloon and where the defendants are charged with setting up and maintaining gambling devices and running a gambling room, were in the name of Oerter, who regularly paid the bills.

Witnesses said that after the gambling room over Oerter's saloon was paid during the force part of March the lights for this part of the building had also been paid for by Oerter. The company's accounts with respect to the gambling room were produced and introduced in evidence to show the ownership of Oerter in the premises.

WHAT A DETECTIVE DISCOVERED. A private detective from Chicago, brought to Omaha by the state to gather evidence against gambling houses and gamblers, testified that under cover of a man who had come to Omaha for the purpose of visiting a saloon and gambling house he was paid for the purpose of carrying on games of chance.

On cross-examination Attorney Dunn attempted to lead witness into contradictions in his direct testimony regarding statements to him about the ownership of the place at 1409 Douglas street, but the detective could not be led into the trap. He never had any such conversation with Oerter in the possession against Oerter's place, and that during the work he had done at the office of the newspaper.

After the detective was excused, Mr. Jeffries announced that the state would rest.

Attorney Dunn called as the first witness for the defense Victor Rosewater, managing editor of The Bee, who appeared with the reports the Chicago detective had made to his employer about his progress in gathering evidence. Mr. Dunn attempted to get these reports in evidence, but the court ruled against him. Mr. Rosewater said that the detective's first reference to Oerter's place was in a communication on February 27, and that his last report was received on March 17, two days after the place was added to this communication. The detective simply had stated that Oerter's place was closed.

WATCHEES THE PROCEEDINGS. For a short while during the afternoon session Chief of Police Gahagan, brought to the trial. He entered the court room from the door leading from the central station below and leaned against the railing which cuts off the trap. He room section. While he was there the detective from Chicago was recalled to the stand by Attorney Dunn for further cross-examination. The witness was asked questions, nearly everyone of which the court overruled on objections entered by Attorney Jeffries.

Attorney Dunn then called the defendant Oerter to the stand. Witness was asked if on a certain date he had a conversation with the detective during which he said that he was the proprietor of the gambling room at 1409 Douglas street, a fact which the detective had testified to in the morning. This was the reply that Oerter made:

"I never had any such conversation with him; the gentleman lied when he said so."

No other questions were asked of witness by Dunn and Jeffries dismissed him. The hearing was adjourned until tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

There will be an Easter sale of fancy and useful articles, and lunch from 11 o'clock till 2 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church, corner Seventeenth and Dodge street, on Friday the 1st of April.

JOHNSON DENIES HIS GUILT

Accused of Burglary and Held for an Examination.

Walter, alias "Burrley," Johnson was arraigned in police court for burglary and pleaded not guilty as the charge. Judge Gordon set his preliminary hearing for next Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and fixed his bond at $1,000, which he is unable to furnish.

Johnson is accused of breaking into the home of Charles Hendrickson in the Bingham flats at 1711 Leavenworth street, on March 23, and stealing a watch and an umbrella. Mrs. Hendrickson called at the city jail, and after identifying Johnson as the thief filed an information against him. The police have recovered the stolen property from a pawn shop, where Johnson is alleged to have pawned the watch and the umbrella.

The prisoner has already served two terms in the penitentiary for similar offenses.

She told Judge Gordon that during the trial she had been Sweeney's wife he has beaten and choked her a number of times, and even threatened to take her life with a razor. Sweeney's defense is that his bride aroused his ire because of her bold flirtations with other men. The court fined him $25 and costs, in default of which he was taken to the county jail.
