JEWS ENJOY THE FEAST OF FREEDOM

Senson Not the Solemn Affair of Popular Belief, but Really a Glad Time for Family Rejoleing.

The members of the different Jewish congregations of the city are at present engaged the observance of the Passover, or "The Feast of Freedom." The festival opened on Wednesday night and will contituue for one week. Rabbi Leo M. Franklin remarked last night that there is a mistaken impression in regard to this season. "I often hear the belief expressed," said Dr. Franklin, "that during this season Jews confine themselves to a diet of unleavened bread. While does not by any means form the only article of food used. The significance of the unleavened bread of course dates from the departure of the Israelites from Egypt. All from the main wall, and he can apprehend the first born in the land of Egypt had been the break in the wall by the sound waves ampitten by the hand of the Lord cave only which come back to him from a greater smitten by the hand of the Lord save only the lexaelites who were preserved by the blood of the lamb on their liutel posts. Then Pharaoh called for Moses and Aarca on that very night and urged them to take their people out of Egypt, and such was their fear of a greater vengeance coming upon them that they compelled the Israelites in the early morning to take the dough before it was leavened, and also their kneading troughs bound up in surrousding objects.

Nisan, and is at present celebrated more as a hallowed family feast among the Jews.

Those in this city who are the most careful of form observe the principal feest of the festival by reciting the story of Israel's deliverance at the fread of the table lined with their family and friends. As the death and resurrection of Christ coincide with the celebration of the Passover, many of the symbols and ceremonies of this Jewish feast have passed into the Christian Eester feast, receiving a broader and more ideal sig-

In his lecture tonight on "Resurrection and Emancipation: A Comparison," Dr. Franklin will point out the similarity of the two seasons and trace the probable origin of both to an old pagan festival in recognition of the passing of winter and the ap-THREE DAYS BEFORE EASTER.

How Catholics Observe Holy Thursday, Good Friday, Holy Saturday. During the Lenten season Holy Thursday, which occurred yesterday, in the Catholic church is the most solemn of all the period set aside to commemorate the forty days' fast of Christ in the wilderness. This event was observed in the morning at St. Philomena's cathedral with an impressive service conducted by Biehop Scannell, at which pontifical high mass was said, followed by the blessing of the toly oils and a solemn procession of the blessed sacrament to the repository in which about thirty priests, sanctuary boys and little school girls in pure white coetumes participated. At the conclusion of mass, vespers followed during which the choir assisted in the service. Today is set aside as Good Friday, celebrated as a fast in commemoration of the passion and death of Christ. The event which especially marks this day in the Catholic church is the service of the "Ado-ration of the Cross," which will begin in Omaha churches at 9 o'clock this morning. Lights in the retable are extinguished and the high altar is stripped. There are no swinging censers, and the priest and his ministers, clothed in black vestments, enter aitar. While they are praying the acolytes cover it with one linen cloth. Then the pricest, with his minister, goes up to the altar, which he kisses in the middle, and a reader begins the lessons. Two prophecies, the tracts and an oration are first read; then follows the reading of the passion ac-cording to St. John, after which a number of prayers are offered for various purposes. This is followed by the unveiling and the veneration of the cross, during which the choir sings "Reproaches," which is to rep-resent Christ complaining of the treatment He receives from His children, after all His goodness. Afterwards the minister and his attendants and the priest and his attendants go in procession from the high altar to the repository, whence the blessed sacrament is solemely brought back to the main altar and during this time the choir sings the hymn, "Vexilla Regis" (the Standards of the King). Having arrived at the high altar the sacrament is placed upon it, and then be-gins what is called "the mass of the presanctified," which concludes the morning service. The mass of the pre-anctified indicates that there is no consecration of the host on Good Friday. But the sacred host that was solemnly borne to the repository on Holy Thursday is consumed by the priest during this mass on Good Friday.

are the longest of the year and replete with meaning. They begin at 8 o'clock in the morning with the blessing of the new fire, at the entrance of the church, which is symbolic of the creation. This is followed by the blessing of five large grains of in-cense, which are to be set in the paschal candle. A procession is then formed and proceeds to the sanctuary, stopping three times on the way for the lighting of the triple candle, symbolic of the Trinity, After the procession arrives at the sanctuary the blessing of the paschal candle begins with the singing of the "Exultet;" then comes the reading of the twelve prophecies. The procession returns to the entrance of the edifice for the blessing of the baptismal font and then the priest, ministers and attend-ants return to the sanctuary where the lit-any of the saints is chanted. At the end of all mass is elebrated, Following the "Gloria in Excelsis" the bells peal forth and the organ, which has been ellent since Maunday Thursday, sends forth music again; for now about the church assumes a joyful character

He has traveled over much of this country and has visited most of its most magnificent scenery. In his condition of never-ending darkness he cannot have any idea of the grandeur around him. The brilliant effuigence of the starry heavens does not exist for him. He can hear the songs of the birds, but camoot see their plumage. A man must be in this condition before he can know what is meant to hear and smell and feel. Mr. Gregg then showed to what extent the remaining senses may be cultivated to supply the place of the one that is gone. He de-clared that when riding in a carriage he can tell when he passes a tree or a post, and how

A WORD OF ADVICE

To Those Coming to Alaska or Klondike Gold Fields.

One thing should be impressed upon every miner, prespector or trader coming to Alaska, to the Klondike, or the Yukon country, and that is the necessity for providing an adequate and proper food supply. Whether procured in the states, in the Dominion, or a the supply stores here or further on, this must be his primary concern. These supplies must be healthful and should be concentrated, but the most careful attention in the selection of foods that will keep unimpaired indefinitely under all the conditions which they will have to encounter is imperative. For instance, as bread raised with baking powder must be relied upon for the chief part of every meal, imagine the helplessness of a miner with a can of spoiled baking powder. The bone of contention is buried in the body of the laws of the commonwealth. Sec-tion 23 of the state laws on insurance sets out that it shall not be lawful for any in-surance company to take risks in the state or transact any business except in compli-ance with certain qualifications. It is provided that the paid up captical shall be $200,000, and that there shall be an attorney for the company resident in each county of the state. Section 26 of the same laws provides that an officer or person doing business or attempting to do business in the state for any insurance company organized without the state, failing to comply with any of the requirements of the state law, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the county jail for a period between thirty days and six months and be fined not more than $1,000.

LEADING FIRMS AFFECTED. As there is considerably over $3,000,000 worth of fire insurance on Omaha property handled through outside agents, the local insurance men are endeavoring to bring the laws to work against the firms doing business with what they inest are nonresident companies. One of the oldest schemes in business is the odd penny scheme. When you go into a store and see an article marked at an odd figure like 1.37 or 1.69 or 1.93 you can make up your mind in nine cases out of ten that it pays a bigger profit than an article that is marked at a straight price. The man who invented the odd price trick did so to make money. He made it. He died nearly twenty years ago worth four million dollars, and some stores continue to charge heavy royalties for the use of his patent ever since. We don't use the odd-penny scheme. We don't like schemes. We want all of your time and your attention for the quality of the goods we sell you instead of bothering you to figure out how much you save on a 1.50 suit when you get it for 1.89. Today we open up for Easter a new lot of fancy little Junior suits at 1.00, 1.25, 1.50, 1.75 and so on by quarters up to 3.75. That's as high as they go. You can find stores where they will allow you to pay 4.67 or 4.98 for the same suits. Unless you have some decided objection to saving money on your Easter purchases for the boys you will come and see the grand suits at 2.00 and 2.50 and the exquisite suits at 3.00, 3.50 and 4.00. These last are new arrivals in Serges, Tricots and fancy Worsteds and they are better than any we have ever shown for the same prices. Better we said-b-e-t-t-e-r.
