MILLIONS ON MILLIONS. ar the Most Costly Luxury Which Any Nation Can Indulge. War is the most costly luxury in which any nation can bidulge, says a London paper. The state of the national Webt forms a war thermometer which, by its rapid rise in times of strife, and its steady, though slow, fall of strife, and its steady, though slow, fall in times of peace, indicates very clearly the effect of warfare on national finance.

Thus, in the French war that began in 1702 England's debt increased to the extent of nearly $1,500,000,000, and again during the Napoleonic wars about $1,600,000,000. In the forty years of peace that followed it decreased $465,000,000, but over $200,000,000 were added during the Crimean war and Indian mutiny. The decrease during the comparative peace that Britain has enjoyed since that time is over $750,000,000, the debt now amounting to nearly $3,285,000,000. amounting to nearly $3,285,000,000.

At the present time every nation is not only arming its solders with the newest and most destructive weapons ever devised by man for the slaughter of his fellow man, at an armual expenditure of millions of dollars. -Britain alone spending over $200,000,000 per for immediate use in the event of war large sums of money, amounting in some cases to $35,000,000 or $40,000,000. Such sums ca these, however, merely represent the expendi-ture necessary for the initial operations of an international campaign.

Even in times of peace the bare possibility of war alls a heavy item to the taxpayer's yearly bill. In France the annual cost per inhabitant is about $4.25, while in Britain is is only 25 cents less. Crange to say, the peaceful Hollander comes next with $3.75; then the warling German with $2.50, its then the warlike German with $2.50. Denmark every man pays $2.25; in Russia and Spain, $2; in Austria, Italy and Belgium, $1.75; and in Portugal, $1.50; while Uccle Sam escapes with the comparatively small sam escapes with the comparatively small outlay of $1 per annum for the maintenance of his army and navy. As long as peace endures these sums just suffice to secure the necessary efficiency; when war breaks out they are wholly knidequate.

What a great war really costs may best be gathered from a short review of the sums that have been spent in warfare during the last half century. The cost of the recent Graeco-Turkish war cannot be accurately estimated yet, but, even taking curately estimated yet, but, even taking the shortness of the campaign into consideration, it must be nearly enough to ruin both the nations concerned. The most costly struggle of recent times was the American civil war of 1861, when the outlay of the North amounted to 4,800 million dollars and that of the south to 2,300 million dollars—a total expenditure of no less than 7,100 million dollars. No Euroless than 7,100 million dollars. No European war within the last fifty years has incurred such an immense outlay as this, but the Franco-Pruesian war cost, at the lowest estimate, 2,500 million dollars, while the Crimean campaign involved an expenditure of 1,700 million dollars and the Russo-Turklah war of 1877 over 1,000 million dollars. These sums represent the cost of the greatest of the world's wars during the present century, but the 330 million dollars spent by Austria and Pruesia in 1866 and the 300 century, but the 330 million dollars spent by Austria and Prussia in 1866 and the 300 million dollars which was the cost of the Italian war of 1859 are not inconsiderate items in the great bill of international butchery. Besides these, the Zulu and Afghan wars of 1879 cost about 300 million dollars, while 230 million dollars is a small estimate for the various avacilities to Mayles. May for the various expeditions to Mexico, Mo-rocco, Paraguay and Cochin-China. The sum thus accounted for is over 13,900 million dolairs and the numerous smaller struggles of the last twenty years will easily bring up the total to something like the gignitic amount of 15,000 million dollars, a sum which, if divided, would allow about $12.50 to every person on the globe, or rather more than $3,000 to every man, woman and child in Lordon and child in London.

So much for the pecuniary cost of war.
But what about the cost of human lives?
In the American civil war, which again heads the black list, the northern states lost about 280,000 men and the southern ctates 520,000, a total loss to America of 800,000 lives. The Russo-Turkish war was, in proportion to the money spent, still more destructive, no fewer than 225,000 men being slain, while the Franco-Prussian war involved the loss of 60,000 men to the victors and over 150,000 to the vanquished. The latter number also represents the total loss during the Crimean war, while the Italian war of 1859 and the Austrian war of 1866 each resulted in the slaughter of 45,000 men. cach resulted in the Saughter of 45,000 men.

Forty thousand lives were sacrificed in the Zulu and Afghan campaigns, while the various expeditions to Mexico, Morocco, Paraguay and Cochin-China cost about 70,000 men. This number brings the total up to about 2,200,000 men and the other warn of less importance increase it to the appalling number of 2,500,000 human lives of-fered up to the god of war, at an average cost of $5,000 within the last fifty years.

Septengenarian Takes a Young Wife

For the third time George E. White, the wealthy cattleman of California, has taken unto himself a wife. This time the bride is a pretty, young woman not more than one-third his age. He is 72. His first wife died soon after she married him. His second wife was his neice. After a few years they found they could not be happy and he let her get a divorce.

Potsdam. N. Y., in the lttle vilage of South Colton, is a family ramed Trim, which has been having its rhate of trouble lately. The young son fell in love with the pretty daughter of a neighbor much against the latter's wishes. Notwithstanding the father's opposition to the match, young Trim succeeded in seeing the object of his affections often enough to keep her convinced of the strength and sincerity of his passion, and after several moths of clandestine courting he succeeded in getting the girl's consent to his plan for an elopement and marr'age.

One night he drove to a point near the girl's house and found her waiting, according to appointment. She jumped into the buggy and they proceeded to the residence of a justice of the peace, a few miles down the river, when in a few moments the words were pronounced that made them man and wife.

The Trims then drove to the home of the bridegroom, and while they young man went to the barn to stable his horse his wife entered the house.

Stie had known her aged suiter but about the witch the witch the welding was arranged. He was an ardent lover and an energetic man for his years. His beard was kept a shining black with a liberal use of dye, and in the fire of his love he strutted about with all the vigor of a youth.

His blazing diamonds and frequent and costly presents captivated the young woman. When a wedding trocked to it and the bride age lover looked to it and the bride gown which showed off the price of a justice of the peace, a few miles down the river, when in a few moments the words were pronounced that made them man and wife.

The Trims then drove to the home of the bride, supported the groom. Only a few of the friends of the bride were present at the ceremony.

There was a breakfast after the marriage had been performed and then the newly
