

THE OMAHA DAILY BEE.

E. ROSEWATER, Editor. PUBLISHED EVERY MORNING.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION: Daily Bee (Without Sunday), One Year, $10.00; Daily Bee and Sunday, One Year, $12.00.

OFFICES: Omaha, The Bee Building, South Omaha, 503 N. 24th Street.

ADVERTISING: All communications regarding news and editorial matter should be addressed to the Editor.

STATEMENT OF CIRCULATION: State of Nebraska, Douglas County, as: George H. Tschuck, secretary of The Bee Publishing Company.

Table showing circulation figures for Omaha, Nebraska, Douglas County, as of May 1906.

Now for Nebraska day! The doctors disagree, as usual, about the climate and healthfulness of Cuba.

The concert at the exposition grounds are worth twice the price of admission to the exposition rain or shine.

The man who travels the straight road can never be lost, and the man who travels in the middle of the road cannot be led astray.

The best sermon preached in Omaha yesterday was without words. The Transmississippi Exposition is text, sermon and prayer in one.

The Douglas county jail will soon lose its star boarder. Douglas county, however, is the one boarding house keeper that does not mourn the departure of its guests.

There is no reason why Omaha people should wait for a special day to visit the exposition. Every day should be a special day for them and the offerer the better.

The skin game gamblers are going right on without any fear of police interference because they know that the police are under instructions not to see any gambling.

A jubilee celebration on the forthcoming opening of the new Burlington depot, for which Omaha has waited so long and which it is no about to enjoy, would not be inappropriate.

States, cities, towns and associations that want special days at the exposition will have to apply early if they wish to get in at the front. The supply is sure to fall short of the demand.

The reports from the camp, field and navy hospitals will be watched to see if the claim of the medical profession to great advances in medical science since the last war is well founded.

When you want reliable news from the seat of war you will find it in the telegraphic columns of The Bee. When you want sensational war fakes you will always find them on every page of the Omaha Fakery.

Every one of the principal speakers on the Nebraska day program, with the solitary exception of the attorney who is to deliver the invocation, is a lawyer by profession. For a farmer state this is doing pretty well by the lawyers.

And now the popocrats are complaining loudly because Senator Hanna is doing nothing to draw the fire of their smooth bore guns. They denounce him when he does something and keep it up when he does nothing.

If the reform press can bring pressure enough on Governor Holcomb's reform police commission to protect the guests of this city from police protected skin gamblers and thieving fakirs, Omaha will feel grateful to the reform press.

With a one cent per mile rate from every station in Iowa and Nebraska within a radius of 150 miles from Omaha and very low fares from all other points, Nebraska day should be one of the reddest of red letter days.

Forty members of the house want to make speeches about Hawaii pending the consideration of the annexation bill; and yet there is not a new thing to be said on the merits of the case.

The City of Mexico is to spend $50,000 celebrating the completion of a new railroad 150 miles into the state of Guerrero. Our Mexican neighbors are attending strictly to business and can afford to burn a little powder celebrating their triumph of peace.

Posing for effect is not yet out of date in Georgia politics. The man who is pretty sure to be the next governor of the state has succeeded in becoming famous in his state as "the One Eyed Plough-boy of Pigeon Hoost."

DISCUSSING HAWAIIAN ANNEXATION.

Discussion of the resolution for the annexation of Hawaii was commenced in the house on Saturday and will be continued, according to announcement, during the first half of the present week.

While there is no doubt that President McKinley is in favor of annexation, we hesitate to believe the reports which represent him as aggressively urging that policy.

Our volunteer soldiers, whether in Cuba, in Porto Rico or in the Philippines, should be given an opportunity to exercise the right of suffrage.

When the people of Omaha and Douglas county voted $100,000 of exhibition bonds they had no idea that any part of this money would be diverted to side shows under pretext that Douglas county must make a separate exhibit of its agricultural and horticultural products.

We will not venture to predict what may be the result of the discussion in the house of the question of Hawaiian annexation. There is serious danger of the success of the annexationists.

Instead of being content with a recognition entirely out of place in an international exposition the Douglas county political truck gardeners insist upon using up more money than has sufficed to build the Georgia state building.

Now, however, that the Douglas county side show has been installed an expenditure of more than $2,000 or $3,000 for its care and maintenance during the exposition season would be a reckless waste and unwarranted diversion of public money.

Although John Wanamaker missed the nomination for governor of Pennsylvania because a majority of the delegates were for someone else the Philadelphia merchant prince is going to have something just as good in the form of a commission as lieutenant colonel of a regiment of volunteers.

Even when every letter that goes through the postoffice carries a postage stamp commemorative of the Transmississippi Exposition, the prominent man from Denver who has never heard of the great enterprise will still be produced on order.

The Oregon election proves that the republicans have nothing to fear by making a square stand in favor of maintaining the gold standard. They were not afraid before, but it is comforting to have the Oregon kind of assurance.

Talking of sound money these election reports from Oregon appear to be caused by a fulminate of gold.

Cuba must be a queer country, so far as climate is concerned, if the fall of Santiago occurs right in the middle of summer.

Two Oregonians have recently won golden opinions—the battleship and the state from which it got its name. Both have shown that they are able to take care of themselves, and at the same time fully capable of upholding the national honor.

It is said that 75 per cent of the applicants for enlistment in the regular army are rejected on account of defective legs and eyes.

John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

The only response to the appeal made by the wretched monomaniac impugning the exhibition directory to throw the Jonah overboard is the same contemptuous ignoring of its author that met him when he went through a similar performance with the organization that beat prohibition under the lead of the editor of The Bee.

War is also a good thing to dispel some of the sentimental fogs that gather over the stagnant pool of peace. Although Clara Barton, head of the Red Cross, has the same aversion to the use of tobacco shared by all women and her prejudices might naturally have led her to mingle temperance lessons with her

War is also a good thing to dispel some of the sentimental fogs that gather over the stagnant pool of peace. Although Clara Barton, head of the Red Cross, has the same aversion to the use of tobacco shared by all women and her prejudices might naturally have led her to mingle temperance lessons with her

War is also a good thing to dispel some of the sentimental fogs that gather over the stagnant pool of peace. Although Clara Barton, head of the Red Cross, has the same aversion to the use of tobacco shared by all women and her prejudices might naturally have led her to mingle temperance lessons with her

War is also a good thing to dispel some of the sentimental fogs that gather over the stagnant pool of peace. Although Clara Barton, head of the Red Cross, has the same aversion to the use of tobacco shared by all women and her prejudices might naturally have led her to mingle temperance lessons with her

War is also a good thing to dispel some of the sentimental fogs that gather over the stagnant pool of peace. Although Clara Barton, head of the Red Cross, has the same aversion to the use of tobacco shared by all women and her prejudices might naturally have led her to mingle temperance lessons with her

WORK OF CHARITY, YET SHE DIRECTED THAT TObacco SHOULD BE FURNISHED TO THE CAPTURED MEN OF THE SPANISH VESSELS AT KEY WEST.

Work of charity, yet she directed that tobacco should be furnished to the captured men of the Spanish vessels at Key West. The pack tins had been accustomed to refuse from childhood and to have deprived them of it would have been real cruelty.

Prohibition state committee is an office holder under the popocratic state administration, having been thus rewarded for his successful efforts in throwing the votes that usually go to the prohibition ticket to the fusion combination.

Reports from the west show that a number of scientific expeditions from colleges and special schools are already in the field making investigations, delving among the rocks and the trees for specimens of scientific interest.

The records of an insane asylum in St. Louis furnish food for reflection to those persons who have become chronic complainers about the imperfections of girls who labor as domestic servants.

Fullerton News (rep.): While there has been much casting around for an available man for governor this fall and for a man that will hold the entire strength of the republican vote there seems as yet to be no decided consensus of opinion on any one particular man.

Schuyler Herald (dem.): Democracy will lose none of its dignity, nor discredit its loyalty to the spirit of the reform forces, by respectfully, yet firmly demanding a just and fair recognition in the distribution of state offices in the fall election.

Wahoo Wasp (rep.): It may be true that Hon. J. N. Giffin and his friends expect to lead the Colon statesman into the governor's chair on the record made as umpire in that party's election.

Stanton Pickett (rep.): The present is no time for reviving old party differences or venting schemes for "settling even" with some other republican for real or fancied mistreatment in the past.

Ponca Journal (rep.): Brigadier General Charles J. Bills, whose home is at Fairbury, Neb., but who is at present moving to the front with one of Nebraska's regiments, is being highly spoken of for the republican nomination for governor.

Holdrege Citizen (rep.): The republicans of this state have decided to hold their state convention on the 10th of August.

Lincoln News (rep.): Hon. John Lawrence Webster, in whose brain burns a laudable desire to represent Nebraska in the United States senate, has been coming rapidly to the front in recent weeks as an advocate of territorial extension and of aggressive foreign policy.

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

STATE PRESS ON STATE POLITICS.

Hastings Tribune (rep.): Governor Holcomb wants a second term and he's going to ask for it if you'll just give him time.

Stanton Pickett (rep.): The present is no time for reviving old party differences or venting schemes for "settling even" with some other republican for real or fancied mistreatment in the past.

Wahoo Wasp (rep.): It may be true that Hon. J. N. Giffin and his friends expect to lead the Colon statesman into the governor's chair on the record made as umpire in that party's election.

Stanton Pickett (rep.): The present is no time for reviving old party differences or venting schemes for "settling even" with some other republican for real or fancied mistreatment in the past.

Ponca Journal (rep.): Brigadier General Charles J. Bills, whose home is at Fairbury, Neb., but who is at present moving to the front with one of Nebraska's regiments, is being highly spoken of for the republican nomination for governor.

Holdrege Citizen (rep.): The republicans of this state have decided to hold their state convention on the 10th of August.

Lincoln News (rep.): Hon. John Lawrence Webster, in whose brain burns a laudable desire to represent Nebraska in the United States senate, has been coming rapidly to the front in recent weeks as an advocate of territorial extension and of aggressive foreign policy.

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

A MEMORABLE DAY.

Celebration of the State of Illinois at the Exposition. Illinois day at the Transmississippi Exposition has been fixed for June 21.

Officers of the various municipalities of Illinois, the commercial and industrial organizations of the state, the business and social clubs, the educational institutions of the state, the great political parties by a friendly arrangement with their leading men, in which participation does not appear, and other public interests of the first importance will be represented on the appointed day at Omaha.

Chicago Tribune: "I advocate retaliation on the French for their assistance to Spain. I don't know; perhaps what we do to their language is enough."

Cleveland Leader: "What do you think the government ought to do with the Philipines?"

Chicago Post: "What department do you consider is doing the most effective work in this war?"

Washington Star: "Did you see the big picture of the battleship Oregon at the Centennial state?"

Buffalo Enquirer: "I am at a loss," murmured the commander of the American blockading squadron which watched the small Spanish hot-footing it over the hill.

Indianapolis Journal: "There are 208 bones in a human skull," said the Confined Philosopher.

Detroit Journal: "I shall seek fame at the cannon's mouth," exclaimed "Go!"

Detroit Free Press: Bored Correspondent (chucking to himself, "So we sang the Marseilles from Athens to the sea, while we were marching through Greece.")

Chicago Post: "There is just one thing that I want to know," he said to the man who charged the bulletin board.

How many more times will we have to bombard and take Santiago before we really get it? If the man with the chalk had only had a gun!

William Cullen Bryant. Oh, Mother of a mighty race, Yet lovely in thy youthful grace.

Acting Rear Admiral Sampson will become a commodore on July 3, upon the retirement of Rear Admiral William A. Kirkland.

St. Louis has distinguished herself by sending to the front what her newspapers claim to be the youngest soldier and sailor in their respective branches of service.

Henry Green, a wonderfully well developed lad of 14, is on the cruiser Montgomery.

One of the most interesting characters and patriots of Texas is the famous Seminole chief, Dembo Factor, who is 114 years of age and resides in the vicinity of Fort Clark.

Wellesley. Mass. June 12, 1896.—The young ladies of the boat crew of Wellesley College give their first exhibition here.

OUR DAILY BULLETIN

MONDAY JUNE 13

WELLESLEY, Mass. June 12, 1896.—The young ladies of the boat crew of Wellesley College give their first exhibition here.

Lincoln News (rep.): Hon. John Lawrence Webster, in whose brain burns a laudable desire to represent Nebraska in the United States senate, has been coming rapidly to the front in recent weeks as an advocate of territorial extension and of aggressive foreign policy.

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

Irreconcilable Clamor. John Morley, the great English liberal, professes astonishment that Americans "should wish to upstage themselves in the unrest and intrigue of militarism which are the torment and scourge of the old world."

IT'S A NEW STEP

In economy to attend our great sale.

tables to be closed out at just 50 per cent on the dollar. $20 Suits $10—$18 for $9—$15 for $7.50—$12.50 for $6.25—$10 for $5, etc.

Children's suits cut in same proportion—only a few sizes of a kind—come early and make your selection.

Children's suits cut in same proportion—only a few sizes of a kind—come early and make your selection.

Children's suits cut in same proportion—only a few sizes of a kind—come early and make your selection.

Children's suits cut in same proportion—only a few sizes of a kind—come early and make your selection.

Children's suits cut in same proportion—only a few sizes of a kind—come early and make your selection.

Children's suits cut in same proportion—only a few sizes of a kind—come early and make your selection.

Children's suits cut in same proportion—only a few sizes of a kind—come early and make your selection.

Children's suits cut in same proportion—only a few sizes of a kind—come early and make your selection.

Children's suits cut in same proportion—only a few sizes of a kind—come early and make your selection.

Children's suits cut in same proportion—only a few sizes of a kind—come early and make your selection.

Children's suits cut in same proportion—only a few sizes of a kind—come early and make your selection.

Children's suits cut in same proportion—only a few sizes of a kind—come early and make your selection.

Children's suits cut in same proportion—only a few sizes of a kind—come early and make your selection.

Children's suits cut in same proportion—only a few sizes of a kind—come early and make your selection.

Children's suits cut in same proportion—only a few sizes of a kind—come early and make your selection.

Children's suits cut in same proportion—only a few sizes of a kind—come early and make your selection.

Children's suits cut in same proportion—only a few sizes of a kind—come early and make your selection.

Children's suits cut in same proportion—only a few sizes of a kind—come early and make your selection.

Children's suits cut in same proportion—only a few sizes of a kind—come early and make your selection.

Children's suits cut in same proportion—only a few sizes of a kind—come early and make your selection.

Children's suits cut in same proportion—only a few sizes of a kind—come early and make your selection.

Children's suits cut in same proportion—only a few sizes of a kind—come early and make your selection.

Children's suits cut in same proportion—only a few sizes of a kind—come early and make your selection.

Advertisement for B & K BROWNING KING & CO. S. W. Cor. 15th and Douglas Sts. featuring a large illustration of a man and a woman.