

DAY FOR SUNFLOWER STATE

Dedication of the Building Marked by Very Pleasant Ceremonies.

BRINGS OUT PROGRESS OF THE WEST

Advances of the Twin Territories of 1824 Strongly Evidenced by the Showing of Prosperity Made by Two Great States.

The Kansas state building on the lower portion of the bluff tract was crowded with natives of the Sunflower state when the party of state officials and members of the exposition commission reached the building at 11 o'clock yesterday. The interior of the building was handsomely decorated with bunting, potted plants and flowers. The exercises commenced without delay. President George W. Glick presiding. The trumpet corps of the 2nd regiment of Toppeka opened the ball with several trumpet calls, including "First call," "Reveille" and a quickstep. A male quartet from Topeka sang "The Flag Without a Stain," and was encored.

President Glick announced that a telegram had been received from Governor W. Leedy reading like this: "I am too busy to get away. Please express my regrets."

Vice President J. E. Frost of the Kansas commission was introduced to deliver the address of welcome. He spoke as follows:

It may be the origin of the history of our nation, which, in its achievements, makes it possible for us to meet here today to dedicate this building as a memorial to the progress of the west. The sources, development and boundless promise of the mighty west.

On that notable day congress passed the act creating the twin territories of Nebraska and Kansas and while the men of that day undoubtedly foresaw a great future for this then unpeopled region, who could have foreseen the marvelous growth which the two states have attained in the half century that has since elapsed? What prophetic vision could have revealed the scenes that surround us here today within the boundaries of the western continent of a vast wilderness? The twin territories, become states, have grown side by side in close friendship and generous rivalry, surpassing in their growth and achievement the hopes of their creators and today they clasp hands, while Kansas renders ready tribute to the progress of her sister state as exemplified in the splendid creations with which we are surrounded.

I esteem it a great pleasure, a high privilege on behalf of the Kansas commission and of our fellow citizens of the Sunflower state to welcome to the dedication of the Kansas state building our friends who honor us with their presence this morning.

We congratulate the managers of the Transmississippi and International Exposition upon their daring spirit and matchless pluck in conceiving and undertaking their great enterprise and upon their tireless energy and skillful management in putting it in successful operation.

We most cordially welcome the representatives of Nebraska and of Missouri and of Iowa, of the great northern plains, of the great southwest, of the Rocky mountain regions and of the Pacific slope, component parts of this magnificent Transmississippi domain; we welcome the delegates of Illinois, which great brother has sent to both Kansas and Nebraska a greater proportion of its population than any other state in the union; we welcome the delegates of the Badger and the Hoosier states and from the grand old Empire state, from stanch New England, the sunny south and from all the others.

From whatever state or territory, "One for all and all for one," you are all Kansans by adoption.

President Wattles' Response. President G. W. Wattles responded on behalf of the exposition. He reviewed briefly the marvelous progress which has been made in the prairie states of the west during the last half century, eclipsing the progress of any other section in a similar time. In addressing the convention he spoke of the peculiar propriety of holding a great exposition to display to the world the magnificent resources of this great region. The president complimented the people of Kansas on the fine showing which has been made of the resources of their state and especially on the handsome and commodious state building which has been erected for the accommodation of the people from the Sunflower state. The grand result of the efforts of the commission and the state officers of Kansas in raising funds for the exhibit of the resources of the state were commended in high terms by President Wattles, who promised a promise of the future, as indicated by the energy and ability shown by the state in this instance, were cited by the speaker as most encouraging. The resources and products of the state were discussed somewhat in detail, and in conclusion he expressed the hope that the investment made in the exposition would be returned to the state a thousandfold.

A bugle song by the quartet and several trumpet calls by the trumpet corps met with hearty applause and F. D. Coburn, secretary of the United States Board of Agriculture, was introduced. He announced that he would speak about "Some Kansas Facts and Fictions." He asserted that Kansas has been more written about and talked about and less understood than any similar aggregation of people, land, sunshine and air known to modern history, more misapprehended by those who knew her virtues best and more aspersed by those upon whom in her varying mood she has frowned.

Turning to a discussion, in detail, of the resources of the state, Mr. Coburn said in 1860 the state produced one-eighth of the total yield of corn in the United States; in 1892 one-seventh of the total yield grew in Kansas. Last year it grew more wheat than all of New England, New York, Virginia, Delaware, Maryland and Georgia combined. She has a mile of railroad for every 150 inhabitants, an equal one mile to each 700 people in the eight North Atlantic states. The census shows that nearly 70 per cent of her farms are owned by those who cultivate them. The wealth of New York state increased 25 per cent from 1880 to 1890 and the whole country increased 50 per cent in the same period, while the wealth of Kansas increased 137 per cent. The speaker concluded with an eloquent peroration in which the advantages of Kansas were extolled in language which held his hearers in rapt attention and was followed by a burst of applause.

Flowers from West Point. WEST POINT, Neb., June 22.—(Special.)—J. D. Neigh went to Omaha Monday and took with him an elegant basket of cut flowers to be set out along the colonades in the grand court of the exposition grounds. They were composed principally of pond lilies, for-get-me-nots and roses.

ORDER OF THE EASTERN STAR Grand Chapter of Nebraska in Session Now at the Omaha Masonic Temple.

More than 400 persons were in attendance last night at the meeting of the grand chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star for Nebraska held in the Masonic temple. Mrs. Helen H. Stires of Columbus, grand matron, presided at the meeting and introduced Mrs. Anna C. Peters of Omaha, matron of Vesta chapter, who made an address of welcome to the delegates. Mrs. Eva M. Baldwin of North Platte, associate grand matron, responded to the welcome. Following the addresses came the explanation of ritual and floral work, the ritual work being done by Vesta chapter of Omaha and the floral work by Eleta chapter of Lincoln.

After the explanation an informal reception was held and the meeting was adjourned until this morning. Sessions will be held throughout the day today and it is expected to complete the work of the order before evening is over. The local members of the Eastern Star will entertain the delegates tonight with a reception at the Masonic temple.

The Right Kind of a Friend. I was seriously afflicted with a cough for several years, and had tried a more severe remedy than ever before. I have used many remedies without receiving much relief, and being recommended to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, I bought a friend, who, knowing me to be a poor fellow, gave it to me. I tried it, and with the most gratifying results. The first bottle relieved me very much, and the second bottle has absolutely cured me. I have not had as good health for twenty years. MRS. MARY A. BEARD, Claremore, Ark.

IOWA AND THE EXPOSITION

World's fair, and had been strongly in evidence at the Nashville and Atlanta expositions, the Texas, Oregon Palace at the Iowa State City, Mo., the New Era Exposition at St. Joseph, Mo., and the Iowa Coal Palace at Ottumwa. What he has done for Iowa's exhibit in the Agricultural and Horticultural buildings at Omaha calls forth admiration from everyone, particularly his statistical work and his big sixteen-foot ear of corn. The exhibition has been a natural enough looking eagle out of corn, also beneath it the significant motto, "The Banner State." The commission secured plenty of space for its own elaborate display, 1,600 square feet.

What the Great Hawkeye State Has Done Toward Helping the Fair

Kept Up with its Lead.

Iowa was the first state to make any appropriation for the Transmississippi Exposition. As early as March, 1896, its general assembly passed a bill for $10,000, which Governor Francis M. Drake approved the following month. The bill provided that the executive council of the state, consisting of Governor Drake, Auditor C. G. McCarthy, Treasurer John Herriott and Secretary of State George L. Dobson, should appoint a commission to prepare an Iowa exhibit as soon as the national government recognized the enterprise.

The commission was selected soon after congress took action and it met in May, next year, at the call of the governor and organized as follows: Ex-State Senator S. H. Mallory, a prominent Chariton banker and railroad contractor, who was chairman of the Iowa commission to the Chicago World's fair, as its president; Allen Dawson, the editor of the Des Moines Leader, vice president; George W. McCold, an extensive farmer and stock breeder at Logan, treasurer, and Frank N. Chase of Cedar Falls, Ia., secretary.

Mr. Chase had been member of the State Board of Agriculture for twenty-six years and was the secretary of the Iowa commission at the Columbian exposition. He was also in charge of Iowa's agricultural display at the New Orleans exposition in 1884 and the next year was sent by Governor Sherman to Iowa's representative to the "Three Americas" exposition at New Orleans. At Atlanta he was the special agent of his state. To Mr. Chase the commission turned over the general superintendency of the agricultural, horticultural and dairy exhibits at Omaha, but as his onerous position necessitated his entire personal attention and allowed him no time to attend the commission meetings Captain John H. Merry, the assistant general passenger agent at Manchester for the Iowa divisions of the Illinois Central railroad, was appointed on the commission from Mr. Chase's district and to him was given the transportation branch of the commission's work.

Executive Committee Organized. The executive committee of the commission was composed of Hon. S. B. Packard, formerly governor of Louisiana and collector at Liverpool, Eng., under President Hayes; E. D. Cook of Iowa, a prominent Republican and R. H. Moore of the Ottumwa Democrat. Ex-Governor Packard, like Messrs. Mallory and Chase, had also had plenty of experience in the exposition line. He was in charge of the live stock exhibit from Iowa at the World's fair and chairman of the auditing committee. The remainder of the commission was appointed a auditing committee, namely: John H. Wallbank, a leading merchant of Mount Pleasant; Attorney J. E. E. Markley of Mason City, Owen Lovejoy of Jefferson City, Dr. W. Erwin, manager of a big Sioux City dry goods establishment.

The commission and Secretary Chase set to work immediately to see what could be done to give Iowa the showing due. It was felt that not much could be accomplished with so small an appropriation as $10,000 and an agitation was started looking toward an additional appropriation by the state legislature.

At the suggestion of the Department of Promotion of the Transmississippi board members of the Iowa commission visited Omaha in person and they returned elated over the prospects of the exposition. They found everything far beyond what they had been expecting and they so reported to the executive council.

A schedule of what Iowa should have at Omaha was formulated by the commission and submitted to the executive council, the estimates given amounting to a total of $57,000. It was hoped that when the next legislature assembled the necessary $25,000 additional, at least. Among the things the commission had in view was a fine building for the state's exclusive use, and, of course, a complete exhibit of the agricultural, horticultural and dairy resources of the state, for the general buildings of the exposition.

Pushing the Bill Along. In due time a bill for a second appropriation and for the amendment mentioned was introduced in the house by Hon. L. E. Potter of Pottawattamie and a similar proposition was put forward in the senate by Senator N. M. Pusey of Council Bluffs. This was in January of this year. The appropriation of $25,000 was passed on March 27 and soon received the approving signature of Governor Leslie M. Shaw.

The legislature did not appropriate this second sum without first gaining a full and satisfactory assurance of the successful development of the Transmississippi Exposition's plans. About 100 members of the two branches of the legislature went on an excursion to Omaha on January 28, soon after the $25,000 appropriation bills were introduced. President Gordon W. Wattles and many of the members of the exposition executive committee accompanied the excursionists. Along with them also came Governor Packard, Secretary Chase, Chairman Frank F. Merriam of the house appropriations committee and Messrs. Moore, Wallbank and Cook of the Iowa commission. Their personal visit satisfied them beyond any possibility of doubt that the amount of the appropriation was never changed. Senators Allison and Gear, Congressman Perkins with his Sioux City Journal and the editors of Iowa generally did all they could to urge the appropriation. It might also be added that Iowa's delegation at Washington voted steadily for the congressional appropriation of $200,000 until it passed.

Commission at Work. With the $25,000 now placed at its disposal the commission's efforts were redoubled, and it systematized its work so as to secure the best results, segregating various branches thus: To ex-Governor Packard was assigned that of the live stock exhibit; to Mr. McCold, manufactures and machinery; to Secretary Chase, agriculture, dairy and apiculture in particular, though the general supervision of all the exhibits was left to him; to ex-Senator Mallory, horticulture; to Allen Dawson, woman's department; to Mr. Markley, mines and mining; to Mr. Lovejoy, forestry; to Mr. Erwin, the decorative work and installation, while Mr. Moore looked after the very important detail of the press.

Specialists being necessary also, L. G. Chase of Manchester was selected as the immediate superintendent, under Mr. Chase, of the agricultural, dairy and apiculture exhibits, and A. F. Colman of Corning was placed in charge of the display of fruits. As a great deal of money was intended to be used in the very attractive feature of decorating with nature, Mr. Erwin was selected to Mr. Markley, mines and mining; to Mr. Lovejoy, forestry; to Mr. Erwin, the decorative work and installation, while Mr. Moore looked after the very important detail of the press.

Specialists being necessary also, L. G. Chase of Manchester was selected as the immediate superintendent, under Mr. Chase, of the agricultural, dairy and apiculture exhibits, and A. F. Colman of Corning was placed in charge of the display of fruits. As a great deal of money was intended to be used in the very attractive feature of decorating with nature, Mr. Erwin was selected to Mr. Markley, mines and mining; to Mr. Lovejoy, forestry; to Mr. Erwin, the decorative work and installation, while Mr. Moore looked after the very important detail of the press.

EARLY RECOGNITION OF THE BENEFITS OF THE TRANSMISSISSIPPI FAIR BACKED BY AN ENERGETIC COMMISSION TO A SUCCESSFUL ISSUE.

Iowa was the first state to make any appropriation for the Transmississippi Exposition. As early as March, 1896, its general assembly passed a bill for $10,000, which Governor Francis M. Drake approved the following month. The bill provided that the executive council of the state, consisting of Governor Drake, Auditor C. G. McCarthy, Treasurer John Herriott and Secretary of State George L. Dobson, should appoint a commission to prepare an Iowa exhibit as soon as the national government recognized the enterprise.

The commission was selected soon after congress took action and it met in May, next year, at the call of the governor and organized as follows: Ex-State Senator S. H. Mallory, a prominent Chariton banker and railroad contractor, who was chairman of the Iowa commission to the Chicago World's fair, as its president; Allen Dawson, the editor of the Des Moines Leader, vice president; George W. McCold, an extensive farmer and stock breeder at Logan, treasurer, and Frank N. Chase of Cedar Falls, Ia., secretary.

Mr. Chase had been member of the State Board of Agriculture for twenty-six years and was the secretary of the Iowa commission at the Columbian exposition. He was also in charge of Iowa's agricultural display at the New Orleans exposition in 1884 and the next year was sent by Governor Sherman to Iowa's representative to the "Three Americas" exposition at New Orleans. At Atlanta he was the special agent of his state. To Mr. Chase the commission turned over the general superintendency of the agricultural, horticultural and dairy exhibits at Omaha, but as his onerous position necessitated his entire personal attention and allowed him no time to attend the commission meetings Captain John H. Merry, the assistant general passenger agent at Manchester for the Iowa divisions of the Illinois Central railroad, was appointed on the commission from Mr. Chase's district and to him was given the transportation branch of the commission's work.

Executive Committee Organized. The executive committee of the commission was composed of Hon. S. B. Packard, formerly governor of Louisiana and collector at Liverpool, Eng., under President Hayes; E. D. Cook of Iowa, a prominent Republican and R. H. Moore of the Ottumwa Democrat. Ex-Governor Packard, like Messrs. Mallory and Chase, had also had plenty of experience in the exposition line. He was in charge of the live stock exhibit from Iowa at the World's fair and chairman of the auditing committee. The remainder of the commission was appointed a auditing committee, namely: John H. Wallbank, a leading merchant of Mount Pleasant; Attorney J. E. E. Markley of Mason City, Owen Lovejoy of Jefferson City, Dr. W. Erwin, manager of a big Sioux City dry goods establishment.

The commission and Secretary Chase set to work immediately to see what could be done to give Iowa the showing due. It was felt that not much could be accomplished with so small an appropriation as $10,000 and an agitation was started looking toward an additional appropriation by the state legislature.

At the suggestion of the Department of Promotion of the Transmississippi board members of the Iowa commission visited Omaha in person and they returned elated over the prospects of the exposition. They found everything far beyond what they had been expecting and they so reported to the executive council.

A schedule of what Iowa should have at Omaha was formulated by the commission and submitted to the executive council, the estimates given amounting to a total of $57,000. It was hoped that when the next legislature assembled the necessary $25,000 additional, at least. Among the things the commission had in view was a fine building for the state's exclusive use, and, of course, a complete exhibit of the agricultural, horticultural and dairy resources of the state, for the general buildings of the exposition.

Pushing the Bill Along. In due time a bill for a second appropriation and for the amendment mentioned was introduced in the house by Hon. L. E. Potter of Pottawattamie and a similar proposition was put forward in the senate by Senator N. M. Pusey of Council Bluffs. This was in January of this year. The appropriation of $25,000 was passed on March 27 and soon received the approving signature of Governor Leslie M. Shaw.

The legislature did not appropriate this second sum without first gaining a full and satisfactory assurance of the successful development of the Transmississippi Exposition's plans. About 100 members of the two branches of the legislature went on an excursion to Omaha on January 28, soon after the $25,000 appropriation bills were introduced. President Gordon W. Wattles and many of the members of the exposition executive committee accompanied the excursionists. Along with them also came Governor Packard, Secretary Chase, Chairman Frank F. Merriam of the house appropriations committee and Messrs. Moore, Wallbank and Cook of the Iowa commission. Their personal visit satisfied them beyond any possibility of doubt that the amount of the appropriation was never changed. Senators Allison and Gear, Congressman Perkins with his Sioux City Journal and the editors of Iowa generally did all they could to urge the appropriation. It might also be added that Iowa's delegation at Washington voted steadily for the congressional appropriation of $200,000 until it passed.

Commission at Work. With the $25,000 now placed at its disposal the commission's efforts were redoubled, and it systematized its work so as to secure the best results, segregating various branches thus: To ex-Governor Packard was assigned that of the live stock exhibit; to Mr. McCold, manufactures and machinery; to Secretary Chase, agriculture, dairy and apiculture in particular, though the general supervision of all the exhibits was left to him; to ex-Senator Mallory, horticulture; to Allen Dawson, woman's department; to Mr. Markley, mines and mining; to Mr. Lovejoy, forestry; to Mr. Erwin, the decorative work and installation, while Mr. Moore looked after the very important detail of the press.

Specialists being necessary also, L. G. Chase of Manchester was selected as the immediate superintendent, under Mr. Chase, of the agricultural, dairy and apiculture exhibits, and A. F. Colman of Corning was placed in charge of the display of fruits. As a great deal of money was intended to be used in the very attractive feature of decorating with nature, Mr. Erwin was selected to Mr. Markley, mines and mining; to Mr. Lovejoy, forestry; to Mr. Erwin, the decorative work and installation, while Mr. Moore looked after the very important detail of the press.

Specialists being necessary also, L. G. Chase of Manchester was selected as the immediate superintendent, under Mr. Chase, of the agricultural, dairy and apiculture exhibits, and A. F. Colman of Corning was placed in charge of the display of fruits. As a great deal of money was intended to be used in the very attractive feature of decorating with nature, Mr. Erwin was selected to Mr. Markley, mines and mining; to Mr. Lovejoy, forestry; to Mr. Erwin, the decorative work and installation, while Mr. Moore looked after the very important detail of the press.

World's fair, and had been strongly in evidence at the Nashville and Atlanta expositions, the Texas, Oregon Palace at the Iowa State City, Mo., the New Era Exposition at St. Joseph, Mo., and the Iowa Coal Palace at Ottumwa. What he has done for Iowa's exhibit in the Agricultural and Horticultural buildings at Omaha calls forth admiration from everyone, particularly his statistical work and his big sixteen-foot ear of corn. The exhibition has been a natural enough looking eagle out of corn, also beneath it the significant motto, "The Banner State." The commission secured plenty of space for its own elaborate display, 1,600 square feet.

Iowa's results so far in contributing to the general success of the Transmississippi Exposition fully justify the lead it took in the matter of pecuniary promotion. Its building—prettily east and overlooking a style of a French chateau—is one of the very best. It is directly west of the Nebraska building on the bluff tract, in the center of the group of state buildings. Joseph Taylor of Cedar Rapids were the architects—prettily east and overlooking the beautiful valley of the Missouri river, toward Iowa and its own Council Bluffs.

The peculiarity of the building is its great semi-circular veranda in front, embracing and such of the two arms of it, remaining in a large unbroken—decidedly unique but comfortable arrangement, because airy and convenient, affording every facility for music and public speaking. The building proper is two stories high and is near the viaduct connecting the bluff tract with the east end of the grand court, around which are the large exposition buildings.

It is the headquarters of Iowa visitors and their friends, a place for rest and comfort and contains the offices of the commission, a postoffice, bureau of information, room, baggage room and other conveniences. It is also proposed to use the basement for quarters for a band of forty pieces, which the commission hopes to be able to maintain during the exposition for the purpose of giving daily concerts at the building.

HOW THE WIGWAM WAS BUILT.

The Pottawattamie Wigwam, which will be the home of the people of Council Bluffs during the exposition, stands on the bluff tract close to the Iowa State building and is undoubtedly the most unique structure on the exposition grounds. The structure, while not claiming any architectural beauty, is conceded to be a faithful representation in mammoth proportions of the tepee or dwelling of the noble red man of the plains. The building is eighty-three feet high and is surrounded by thirty-foot flag pole, from which "Old Glory" will proudly wave night and day, rain or sunshine, during the exposition. The circumference of this unique building is about 150 feet and contains four stories which are reached from the center of the building by a handsome and wide stairway. The windows are built in imitation of the openings peculiar to the red man's tepee and the entire building is covered with heavy ducking painted to represent the texture of the tepee or dwelling. The plans were sent to construct their abiding place. The first floor will be devoted to exhibits, the second to the fruit and horticultural display of Pottawattamie county and the third will be reserved as a parlor and waiting rooms for women and children. On the fourth floor will be a smoking room for the men and from this floor, which is plentifully supplied with windows, a magnificent view of the entire exposition can be had.

The idea of the wigwam was conceived and carried into effect by Iowa delegates to the exposition. It was first proposed by Council Bluffs Exposition association. This association was the outcome of a mass meeting held in July, 1897, in the city hall of Council Bluffs for the purpose of forming an organization to arrange for a representative exhibit of the products and resources of Pottawattamie county at the exposition. On August 12, 1897, the association was formed and an executive committee of fifty representative citizens chosen by a popular vote to carry out the purposes of the organization. The idea of Pottawattamie county having a building of its own at the exposition was suggested and met with approval. To Victor E. Bender, one of the executive committee, belongs the credit of the idea of the Wigwam or big Indian tepee, as it was by him conceived and structured the appropriateness of such a structure secured by popular subscription, aided by a donation of $2,000 from the county funds by the Board of County Supervisors. In all something over $2,000 was collected by subscriptions from the citizens and business men of Council Bluffs, in addition some $500 was raised by selling Wigwam buttons.

The officers of the Council Bluffs Exposition association are: President, A. C. Graham; vice president, Dr. J. H. Claver; secretary, C. H. Judson, and treasurer, E. W. Hart. The entire construction of the Wigwam was placed in the hands of a special committee of the association, of which Victor E. Bender was chairman and Dr. J. M. Barstow, Prof. J. C. Hisey, Leonard Everett, M. Wollman, O. P. Wickham, H. W. Binder, A. C. Graham and Colonel W. F. Baker the other members. To the untiring energy of the president of the association, A. C. Graham, who personally supervised the building of the Wigwam from the laying of the foundation to the successful completion of this most unique building.

The executive committee of the Council Bluffs association comprises the following citizens: Victor Jennings, W. S. Baird, Victor E. Bender, George Carlson, H. E. Forsythe, Samuel Haas, J. C. Hisey, J. E. Helmebeck, C. H. Judson, W. A. Maurer, N. M. Pusey, H. W. Sawyer, L. M. Treynor, M. Wollman, Leonard Everett, George E. Wright, J. C. Mitchell, H. P. Barrett, H. W. Binder, G. N. Bowen, E. F. Clark, A. C. Graham, E. W. Hart, A. F. Hancock, A. S. Hazleton, F. H. Keys, William Moore, J. A. Patton, W. I. Smith, E. H. Walters, A. W. Wyman, Emmet Tinley, L. A. Custer, J. M. Barstow, E. A. Babey, W. C. Boyer, J. H. Claver, J. P. Greenhalgh, J. P. Hess, J. A. Herold, W. C. James, C. F. P. Froom, J. T. Oliver, M. F. Rohrer, E. F. Test, O. P. Wickham, O. Younkerman, Lucius Wells, H. B. Jennings.

DEATH RECORD.

F. M. Barrett. DEADWOOD, S. D., June 22.—(Special.)—F. M. Barrett died at his home at Barrett, Wyo., a short distance from this city, yesterday. The deceased was well known in the Hills, having made Deadwood and other Black Hills towns in the early 70's as a salesman. He invested about $30,000 in Hay creek coal land along the line in Wyoming and laid out the town of Barrett, which bears his name. Owing to the failure of the railroad building he well known as a coal dealer in his investment. His remains will be buried in South Sielard, Wt.

Colonel Crofton, U. S. A. WASHINGTON, June 22.—Colonel R. E. A. Crofton, retired, of the army, died here today, aged 65 years. He was appointed to the army from Delaware at the outbreak of the civil war and was a brave and brilliant officer. Since the war he had been stationed principally in the west. The railroad riots at Chicago occurred during his administration at Fort Sheridan and he took a prominent part in their suppression. He was involved in troubles at the Fort Sheridan post.

Madison County Pioneer. BATTLE CREEK, Neb., June 22.—(Special.)—P. J. O'Neill, one of the first settlers in Madison county, and a man who has associated himself with its growth and prosperity, dropped dead of heart disease while eating his dinner yesterday. He was about 60 years old and leaves one son and three daughters. His wife died about fifteen years ago. Funeral services will be held from the Catholic church Saturday.

Dick Jones. DEADWOOD, S. D., June 22.—(Special.)—Dick Jones, one of the oldest settlers in Deadwood, whose name has figured many times in big mining deals, died yesterday at the age of 70. Jones never became rich, although he handled many big deals. He was buried in this city.

None Other—

Than Drexel L. Shoeman ever went to so much trouble in buying shoes for comfort—No more comfortable shoes for $2.50 than Drexel L. Shoeman's. The shoes are made in the oxford and high cut styles—the new patent vesting tops—a combination of style and foot ease never before found—We're not going to say a word about the price—except that it is our usual low price for quality shoes. Ladies of Omaha and those here sightseeing to ask for this shoe—then we'll tell you all about it—You don't need to buy—but we know you will.

Drexel Shoe Co.,

Omaha's Up-to-date Shoe House. 1419 FARNAM STREET

If Our Navy

Ever gets into Santiago harbor how Spain will howl—some people howl when they have teeth extracted—its mainly the cause of the dentist—added to our skill acquired by over thirteen years experience—ten of it here in Omaha—we have a little application we apply to the gums that makes it possible for us to extract without either pain or gas—No bad after effects and only 50c—the same with all our work—the best that can be done—at the most reasonable price—Examinations made free—Lady attendant.

BAILEY,

13 Years 2d Floor Paxton Bldg. Experience. 10th and Farnam.

A Reckless Man

Or impudent woman are those who do not speedily get a remedy for the dangerous coughs, colds, bronchial troubles, etc., that will lead to pneumonia, pleurisy and many fatal diseases if not attended to in time—A prepared remedy or a doctor's prescription is imperative—Our skill and judgment can be relied upon in either event—We are the largest retail drug store in Omaha—and its never necessary for us to substitute—for we have everything.

The Aloe & Penfold Co

Largest Retail Drug House. 208 Farnam Street. OMAHA

KANSANS ENJOY IT

(Continued from First Page.) Wednesday night, June 23, are not yet entirely settled upon.

The financial status of the convention is reported to be encouraging, payments on subscriptions having been nearly completed. The convention is also commending the attention of the newspapers of the western cities, and the publicity committee has orders for articles from a number of influential papers.

The committee will meet again on Friday or Saturday.

MIDWAY WILL HELP CELEBRATE.

Concessionaires' Club Desires to Join the Midway. At a meeting of the Concessionaires' club, which was held in the Press building yesterday, the organization was completed and regulations for the government of the club adopted. The election of officers resulted in the selection of the following: President, H. De Zorbo of the Giant See-Saw; vice president, E. O. Felder of the Moorish Wigwam; secretary and treasurer, C. H. Holbrook, Jr., of the California Gold Mine. The executive committee consists of J. A. Gorman, P. C. Mattox, E. W. McConnell, A. F. Turpin and E. H. Cagney.

The constitution and by-laws were adopted after considerable discussion and the question of a 25-cent evening admission to the exposition was discussed to some extent, but laid over without action.

H. F. McGarvey, representing the exposition management, addressed the club relative to the participation of its members in the Fourth of July celebration at the grounds. The suggestion was favorably considered and the club will arrange for one of the most novel and interesting parties that has ever been seen in the western hemisphere. E. O. Felder, J. A. Gorman, E. D. Colvin, Fred Thompson and P. C. Mattox were appointed a special committee to arrange for the parade.

Iowa's Enormous Register.

One of the most unique features of the Iowa building will be the register which contains spaces for over 100,000 names and is supposed to be one of the largest books ever manufactured. The contract for this immense document was let by the Iowa commission two months ago and it has just been completed. The book is thirty inches wide, thirty-two inches long and ten inches thick. It contains nearly 2,000 pages and weighs 350 pounds. It required a team and a half of paper that weighs 200 pounds to the team and thirty square feet of the best quality of leather. Three books of gold leaf were used in the lettering and ornamentation and the total cost of the book was about $300. The registers will be deposited in the Aldrich historical collection at Des Moines as a souvenir of the exposition.

Looking for a Band.

No arrangements have yet been made by the Musical department for a band to give daily concerts on the exposition grounds. Negotiations were opened with Director Green of the Seventh Ward band to play an engagement of one week, but Mr. Green said that a number of his men were playing permanent engagements and he could not ask them to break these for a short engagement. Attempts to secure the services of other bands were also unsuccessful.

The Atlantic (Ia.) band will accompany the Iowa delegation to Omaha today and will play on the grounds.

Phiney's band is under engagement to play at the exposition for a short period commencing July 7.

Luncheon for the Officers.

After the dedicatory exercises at the Iowa building this afternoon the members of the executive council of Iowa, the members of the Iowa Exposition commission, the position officials and distinguished guests will be entertained at luncheon at the viaduct cafe.

A Reception to Governor and Mrs. Shaw.

The members of the executive council and their wives will be held at the Iowa building from 5:30 to 6:30 p. m. On this occasion music will be furnished by the Apollo club of Council Bluffs, a mandolin club of fifteen members.

Preparations for Swedish Day.

The preparations for the celebration of Swedish day tomorrow are practically completed and the local committees who have

WELCOME IOWA!

Special Iowa Program at the ...

GERMAN VILLAGE DEUTSCHES DORF. STEPHEN VON SZINNYEY, General Manager.

Kirschner's Famous Lady Orchestra. Edna Davenport in New Songs. Stella Davenport in New Songs. The Only Cool Place on the Grounds. A RESORT FIT FOR LADIES.

The matter in charge are jubilantly confident that the occasion will be one of the most notable of the week. The staging clubs from Stromaing, Stanton, Walsfield and a number of other Nebraska cities arrived yesterday. The Red Oak (Ia.) club is also in the city and those from Sioux City and other cities will arrive today. Dr. J. A. Elander of Chicago and Dr. Carl Swenson of Lindburg, Kan., were among the notable arrivals yesterday. There will be a rehearsal of all the clubs at Patterson hall at 2 o'clock this afternoon and tomorrow the visiting singers will be entertained at lunch by the Omaha club.

Music for Today.

The exposition music for today, June 23, will be: 2 p. m.—Dedicatory ceremonies at Iowa building. 2 p. m.—Grand choral concert by the Chicago Apollo Club, William L. Tomlin, director, with Thomas orchestra accompaniment at the Auditorium. 9 p. m.—Fireworks.

Exposition Notes.

The car containing the Minnesota mineral exhibit has been lost somewhere on the road. It was started a week ago, but has evidently been sidetracked somewhere and a tracer has been sent out to locate it.

Owing to the late arrival of trains the dedication of the Iowa building will commence at 2 o'clock today instead of at 11 o'clock, as heretofore announced. The exercises will be held in the Iowa building, and pocketbooks containing money, handkerchiefs and various other knick-knacks are in the check room of the Nebraska building awaiting identification. The exhibitors are now en route to Omaha and calling at the Nebraska building and proving their right to the property.

The German village is at the front again with a special program for Iowa day. Manager von Szinnyy promises nothing that can add to the enjoyment of his guests and the village is already the most popular resort on the grounds. The Tyroler waltzers are one of its most enjoyable attractions and have scored a genuine hit with its patrons.

Charles McWhorter of New Orleans, secretary of the Southern Cypress Lumber association, is in the city arranging for space for an exhibit to be made by the association in the Agriculture building. The exhibit is now en route to Omaha and Mr. McWhorter will remain to look after its installation. A full line of express lumber of all grades will be included in the exhibit.

<