DETHRONED FATHER DIED IN A PRISON

Interesting History of Missionary Dr. Claybrook, Who Has Been Attending the Mixed Congress—Will Lecture Again Tonight.

Rev. W. E. De Claybrook preached yesterday morning and evening at the Zion Baptist church at Twenty-fourth and Grant streets. Dr. De Claybrook is from Denver, where he has charge of a colored Baptist church in that city. He has been in Omaha since last Tuesday attending the mixed congress just concluded.

A history which is varied and unique has this interesting preacher. The blood of kings flows in his veins and for generations past his ancestors have all been of a royal family that ruled the blacks, sometimes with despotic rigor, but generally with kindness and love. He is of the Maori tribe of New Zealand, where, until about 10 years of age, he lived in the regal household of his father. The tribe consisted of 250,000 native New Zealanders and inhabited the islands.

At 40 years of age his father was overpowered, dethroned and placed in prison, where he died shortly after his loss of the sovereignty. After the death Dr. Claybrook, with his mother and five children, moved to France to escape the English rule. All then professed the Roman faith. At 14 he came to America with no education and able to speak only his native tongue. The English missionaries became interested in him and sent him to the University of California, where he was converted to the Protestant religion and where he graduated with high honors.

Upon graduating he was sent to Africa, where for seven years he was superintendent of the English mission. For several years following the end of his work in Africa, Dr. De Claybrook acted in the same capacity in South America. He has visited his native country four times since he left it as a child. Several years ago he gave up his missionary work and became pastor of the Denver Baptist church mentioned.

Dr. De Claybrook is of distinguished mien and bearing. Tonight he will give a lecture at the Zion church on the customs, character and habits of the native Africans. He has with him several idols, native dresses, ornaments, etc., which he will use as illustrations.

BETTER VIEW OF THE CREATOR.

Rev. Eastman's Analogy Drawn from the Acre of Elisha's Prayer.

Rev. L. R. Eastman occupied the pulpit at St. Mary's Avenue Congregational church yesterday morning and selected for the text of his sermon II Kings, vi, 17: "And Elisha prayed, and said, Lord, I pray thee, open his eyes that he may see. And the Lord opened the eyes of the young man; and he saw; and, behold, the mountain was full of horses and chariots of fire round about Elisha." The central thought of the discourse was that the manner of seeing and saw the mountain occupied by the act of the young man, who had been blind, and he saw; and, behold, the mountain was full of horses and chariots of fire round about Elisha.

Recurring to the text he said the young man referred to had once before had his eyes opened and saw the mountain occupied by a vast army of his enemies. Through the teachings of Elisha he learned to have faith in God, and when the prayer of the prophet was answered as outlined in the text the young man beheld a greater army, and he saw that he was made up of his friends, who had come to succor him. The army had not changed, but the position from which the young man looked at the assembled force had undergone a change, and his eyes were opened.

"I had a white flower in my hand," said the minister, "and the child in the audience says I have a pretty little daisy. The farmer in New England, who finds these flowers crowding out his growing crops in the field, pronounces it a detestable weed. When the child becomes older and passes through a course of education he analyzes the flower from a scientific standpoint and finds that it has taken several generations of study and attention to develop the little plant into its present stage. Later in life he will look even further than the scientific research, and will see in the little flower a living testimony of the glory of God's handiwork."

"People do not understand why we worship Christ. They do not understand why we sing that beautiful hymn, 'Jesus, Lover of My Soul.' They seem to think it is a commendable way on their part to make a light of this worship and to attempt to destroy its influence, but their offense is against Christ and not against His followers. Paul kept up his persecutions of the Christians until Jesus spoke to him and said: 'Paul, cease thy persecutions. Henceforth thou shalt be a preacher of the Gospel. Then Paul's eyes were opened and he saw his error and went away a faithful follower and teacher of Christ."

"The light of this life is the thought that the Lord came not into the world to be ministered to, but to minister to the world of the divine mercy of God, but it is far above any conception we may have of it. The highest and best visions of God in this life are to be found in such pictures from nature as the rising and the setting of the sun, and when the sun is setting, the light of this world we shall see Him not as we believe Him to be, however exalted that may be, but as He really is. If you would learn how God treats the humble, read the lesson of His lifting Mary to her feet and shielding her from the slings of others. If the poor and sinful would learn of God's love they should stand in the light of the cross."

AMUSEMENTS.

It would seem that "Triby" can pack a house from pit to dome as it did the Creighton last night, in spite of the torrid atmosphere, that the passion for the play is not dead in Omaha. It has been seen here almost times without number—presented by the original A. M. Palmer company and by some of indifferent merit. The performance of Sunday was looked forward to by the patrons of the house with considerable interest for several reasons, one of which was the fact that Franz Adelman was to make his initial bow to an Omaha audience from the rear side of the footlights, though in the front, with violin in hand, his figure is familiar to Omaha theater patrons. He received a gracious reception on his first appearance as Gecko. So far as the play is concerned it was a long journey for him, but he was able to convince his friends that he could act as well as talk the part. Miss Kennark's "Triby" will not suffer by comparison with others seen here. She has the presence, which is so essential to the part, and its action is as well suited to her as anything she has essayed. She never appears at her best in roles requiring vigorous treatment, but rather in those which require more delicate handling. Frederick Montague as Svengali is not quite so happily cast. His acting of the part is very good, but he has a voice which nature has attuned to fall pleasantly on the human ear, and though his art as an actor enables him to appear the ill-favored Svengali, it is too much to expect the voice to sound the discordant notes which jar upon the nerves of his auditors. Hal Davis as "Tuffy," Wilson Enos as the Laird, Charles Lothian as "Billey" and Walter Greene as "Dodo" were all equal to the demands of their respective parts. Miss Berkley as "Mina" Vimal had a role much more fitting than fell to her lot last week and did one of her most creditable pieces of work. Of the other members of the company, though having less conspicuous parts, it is but just to say they did what was allotted to them well and contributed to make of the performance a most enjoyable production.

One of the most pleasing features of the performance was the song "Ben Bolt," which was rendered from the wings by Miss Bowen. She has a rich, melodious voice and rendered the beautiful song in a most artistic manner. Another feature of the performance was the curtain call at the end of the fourth act. While the audiences at the Creighton are by no means cold, it is seldom that they become so enthusiastic as this.

Seven acts constitute the entertainment at the Trocadero this week and Billy Van, the monologist, and Scott and Wilson, the comedy acrobats, lead the bill. Josephine Harvey, the phenomenal trombone soloist, and La Belle Male, who does a serpentine dance on a slack wire, are other features of the bill. Armstrong and O'Neil do a bag punching and athletic comedy act with boxing finale. Florence McKnight sings ballads very prettily and Loto, who is a man dressed as a woman, but for what purpose it is not apparent, does a mediocre balancing and contortion act. Leonard Adair, billed to enact an act, entitled "Who's Who in the Back," did not appear at the evening performance. The team went on in the afternoon, but owing to some difference with the management they were not given a place in the evening's bill.

The Dorothy Morton Opera company, which is to be seen this evening and all this week at Boyd's theater, will arrive this morning at 6 o'clock in three special coaches on the Missouri Pacific train. The company comes directly from St. Louis, which city it left yesterday morning after a season at Urbig's Cave.

FIRE ON CAPITOL AVENUE Residence Occupied by P. J. Barr Damaged to the Extent of Two Thousand Dollars.

The residence of P. J. Barr, 4651 Capitol avenue, was badly damaged by fire Saturday night, the loss amounting to $2,000. The blaze originated in the explosion of a lantern which had been filled with gasoline instead of coal oil. Fred Barr was carrying the lantern when the explosion occurred and was quite badly burned on the hands. The location was so near the fire protection that the blaze had a good start before help arrived and one portion of the building was mostly consumed. The roof also was damaged to a considerable extent. The building is the property of the Fidelity Trust company.

BANKERS STOP OVER A DAY

Look Over Signs of the Exposition While on Their Way to Denver.

Among the exposition visitors yesterday afternoon were a number of bankers of Illinois who spent the day in Omaha, en route to their national meeting in Denver. They arrived on the morning train from Chicago, the largest number of them coming in on the trains of the Burlington and of the Northwestern roads. Two extra sleepers were attached to the "Overland Limited" train of the Northwestern, and four additional sleepers were on the Burlington's express, making the train an hour late. The bankers were met at the station by the following representatives of the Omaha Clearing house association: C. H. Young, Luther Drake, L. S. Reed and Milton T. Barlow.

The visitors were escorted to the Omaha club, and on account of the heat of the day most of them gave up trips about the city and remained about the hotel and club apartments during the morning. A few of the bankers accompanied Mr. Yates to Trinity cathedral and listened to an able discourse by Dean Campbell Fair. Dinner was served at the club, and immediately afterwards the visitors went out to the exposition grounds. They put in the afternoon hours until train time on the grounds, and without an exception expressed themselves as highly pleased with what they saw there.

Most of the bankers left for Denver on the train of the Union Pacific and of the Burlington at 4:35 o'clock yesterday afternoon. With those who arrived here yesterday morning there also went out to Denver a number who came here on Saturday, and had enjoyed two days at the exposition. The Iowa bankers will arrive here this morning and will remain here until the afternoon train. Messrs. Yates and Wallace, representing the Omaha bankers, will probably leave for Denver this afternoon. At the convention they will make an earnest effort to induce all the bankers to visit Omaha on their eastbound trip at the close of the meeting.

Among some of the prominent bankers and their wives noticed here yesterday were: First Vice President Boucher of the First National bank of Chicago; James P. Hankey, Mr. and Mrs. Harold of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Preston of Detroit; A. C. Anderson of St. Paul, and Vice President Russell of the National association, Detroit.

HOT CHASE AFTER BICYCLE

Stolen Wheel Regained by an Odd Circumstance and the Thief Captured. A bicycle was stolen at 1 o'clock yesterday morning from a Bee reporter and regained by an odd chance within a few minutes. The supposed thief, who gave the name of Henry Miller, was also captured and is charged with larceny. The reporter entered a restaurant near Fifteenth and Douglas streets after midnight, leaving his wheel at the curb, and remained inside about half an hour. The bicycle had vanished when the owner reappeared and the only clue was a cyclist riding west on Douglas in the town of Sixteenth. The reporter gave chase in his best style, but was unable to diminish the distance between them and at Sixteenth and Capitol avenue the chase was given up as hopeless.

It had been a hot chase and the reporter issued against him, and the police were called. The chase was given up as hopeless. The reporter gave chase in his best style, but was unable to diminish the distance between them and at Sixteenth and Capitol avenue the chase was given up as hopeless.

GERMANS END THEIR FEST Nebraska Saengerbund Closes with a Program of Entertainment in Turner's Park. The Nebraska Saengerbund concluded its third annual session yesterday with an all-day picnic in Turner's park. Refreshment tables and picnic tables under protection from the sun's hot rays had been prepared and the whole decorated in German and American colors. Besides the 200 visiting singers there were twice that number of local Germans present with their families and the day was spent in a most enjoyable way. Each visiting society was provided with a table with its own banner hung at the head and each responded in turn in the program of entertainment. After singing by the various societies under the direction of Prof. Petersen there were a number of selections given by all the singers present. The program was concluded with a concert by the Fest orchestra under the charge of Prof. Steinmayer, which included ten numbers of a popular and patriotic nature. The numbers played were selections from "Martha" and "Behemian Girl," "The Plattdeutsche Patrol," "Mein Alles auf der Welt," "Potpourri," "Wein, Weib, und Gesang," "Fantasie" and the "Indian War Dance."

Games were arranged for the children during the day and the dancing pavilion was provided with a good orchestra for the entertainment of their elders. In the evening there was more dancing and a display of fireworks. These from out of the city were so numerous that they were not seen from the city. The Saengerbund will remain in Omaha in a body until Tuesday to see the exposition more thoroughly than their duties have hitherto allowed. These in charge of the picnic were Julius Kaufmann, George Helms and Jack Kopp.

HEARD ABOUT TOWN.

Dr. P. M. Hall and wife and C. H. Vanderhoof of Minneapolis arrived in Omaha Sunday to take in the exposition. The male members of the party covered the distance from the Flour City on their wheels, their cyclometers showing a total mileage of 497 miles during the trip of five days. Mrs. Hall came over the Rock Island and beat them in by several hours. The doctor and Mr. Vanderhoof are members of a small but select coterie of Minneapolis wheelmen known as "The Cripple Club," the chief requisite of membership in which is bodily scars caused by smash-ups. The doctor's specialty is his ability to fall from his wheel and dislocate both thumbs in a single season, while Mr. Vanderhoof's star act consists in breaking a collar bone and knocking out several front teeth in an unsuccessful attempt to bite off the end of a street car rail. Mrs. Hall is an enthusiastic wheelwoman and has several centuries to her credit. On their return to Minneapolis the doctor and Mr. Vanderhoof will be prepared to issue a treatise on "High Life on the Midway, and What I Know of Bicycling Over Missouri River Gumbo When the Mercury Registers 100 in the Shade."

Work Clothes.

Are you a workingman? Where do you work? What do you work at? Would you like to get more wages, or have you got wages to burn? There are workmen who kick because they don't get enough pay and then turn round and spend the little they get without thinking of the old saying, a dollar saved is a dollar earned. If you are a workingman, and if you want to spend your clothing money wisely—if you want to spend it well, if you want to spend it where every dollar will do a dollar's worth of work, if you want your spending money insured, The Nebraska is your store. Ever since we opened our doors in Omaha twelve years ago we have catered for the trade of the workingman, we have taken pains to get it, and have taken pains to deserve it, we have taken pains to increase it, and we have taken pains that no other store should ever give more to the workingman for his dollar than this Nebraska store. We go on the principle that the workingman can't get too much for his money and no matter what your work is we will agree to give you better clothes, better made clothes, clothes that will wear better than you can buy anywhere else for the same money and besides that you won't have to spend as much of your earnings here. We agree to do these things and we always do as we agree.
