The battle was brought off under the auspices of the New Louisville Athletic club before 1,500 spectators. A more evenly matched pair as regards size, science and temperament never entered the squared circle. Ryan did the leading clear through, but not until the fourteenth round did his blows make an impression. In this round, after considerable feinting, they got to close quarters, Ryan finally landing a terrific right-hand swing on the jaw. The force of the impact fairly raised Douglass in the air and he came down with a dull thud on the hard floor. He tried to rise, got to his knees, but fell back thoroughly knocked out. He fought a game battle and made a most excellent impression.

Ryan will now fight "Tommy" Ryan for the weiter weight championship.

CLOSING SESSION BANKERS'

Relation of Industrial Developments to Banking Discussed in Meeting.

PAPER BY JOHN W. FAXON OF TENNESSEE

Nominating Committee Presents Report of the Selection of Officials for the Ensuing Year and Then Adjourns.

DENVER, Aug. 25 .- The closing session of the twenty-fourth annual convention of the American Bankers' association opened with a full attendance, the election of officers being on the program. After prayer by Rev. Father Carrigan of St. Patrick's church, William Royall of Richmond, Va., read a paper on "The Need of Banking Facilities in Rural Districts." W. S. Wood of the National Bank of Commerce of Kansas City condemned the ideas advanced in Mr. Royall's address from first to last. He declared that the west had seen enough of currency issues by local banks. The banking business, he asserted, was highly developed all over the country. In the east large commerce had led to the establishment of banks of large capital while in the west smaller commerce had been satisfied with smaller banks. In the swest banks were too plentiful, competition had been so excessive that the banking in many cases not safe. He advocated the little country banks; then a plethora of Quite a delegation from the Laboring Men's an unsatisfied demand existed in another.

Mr. Bonebrake of Kansas disagreed with Mr. Royall's assertion that country districts lack banking facilities-especially in the west. He quoted figures to show the amount of money in the vaults of country banks in porary chairman and A. H. Murdock tem-Kansas. John P. Branch, president of the porary secretary. As the committee ap-Merchants' National bank of Richmond, Va., disagreed with all suggestions. He favored permitting country banks to issue currency on the same terms as city banks.

George M. Reynolds, cashier of the Continental National bank, Chicago, followed in a paper on "Uniform Laws for Holidays as sentiment can be worked up and that dele-Well as Days of Grace." John W. Faxon, assistant cashler of the First National bank of Chattanooga, Tenn., followed in a paper on "Banking as it Relates to Industrial Developments." He said in part:

That there has been great progress in our system of banking in the last half century no one will deny; and that we now have the satisfaction of seeing every dollar of currency worth a dollar in gold, every day we live, is an evidence of that progress. Many there are in this audience who can easily remember the uncertainties which surrounded commercial enterprises and industrial development not so many years ago, when in every business house there hung a Thompson or Dye's Bank Note Reporter, giving the latest quotations of discounts on the constantly fluctuating curcency with which our country was flooded. It was utterly impossible for a business man, at that time, to tell the profit on a transaction for by the time such more. transaction, for by the time such money had circulated to any great extent, it might have fallen or risen in value from 10 to 20 per cent. But now, thanks to that American idea that we must go forward and not backward, we have a stable currency, circulating throughout our entire realm, from Maine to Texas and from Florida to the highest point on the Pacific coast, where a dollar is always and everywhere a dollar. Let us hope that the people of this great nation will never destroy a system so satisfactory by tampering with it for the pur-pose of advancing the interests of any political party. Partisanship should be kept aside when it advocates schemes to put the greatest stumbling block in the way of inustrial development and commercial pros-

How strange it is that there are so many erroneous ideas in regard to banks and banking. Many of these er-rors can be traced to the teachings of those who, in order to curry favor with the masses for political effect, endeavor to prejudice them against banks by asserting that those who are engaged in banking abound in luxuries and indulge in a coptinuous round of pleasure, as they spend their days in extravagant living and in counting and gloating over their earnings, which they have "squeezed" in a doubtful manner and in devious ways from their customers.

A bank is not only a place for keeping in safety the surplus money of a community, but it is the point of concentration for cap-ital, so that that capital may be utilized in the best possible manner for the develop-ment of the industries of towns and cities and at the same time afford an opportunity to men of credit, engaged in manufacturing, contracting, merchandising or farming, (who have little capital of their own), to extend their business, so as to increase their own wealth and the wealth of the community in which they live as well as to furnish good or better wages to those who earn their living by manual labor.

It is estimated that 500,000 people in the United States hold shares of stocks in banks. These stockholders are from among the peo-ple of all classes in life, and it is estimated that there is $1,050,000,000 invested in bank stock in the United States by these people. Wealthy men, poor men, old men, young men, laboring men, married and single women, widows, administrators of estates, and guardians of orphans or of minor chil-dren, have all contributed, in small sums. generally not over from $100 to $1,000, to make up the capital stock of the bank. Capital separated from labor brings upon us industrial depression, but where capital and labor go band in hand the result is aland labor go hand in hand the result is al-ways commercial prosperity. The banks furnish the capital for carrying on indus-trial development and are thus the real pro-viders of money with which to pay the wages and salaries by which thousands of the la-boring classes are kept supplied with the comforts of life and through which means happiness is brought to the homes of their families.

Industrial development is a consequent result of commercial activity, upon which it mostly depends. Commercial activity is absolutely impossible without monetary advantages and the only menas of securing monetary advantage is through the instru-mentality of a sound banking system. In truth, industrial development, commercial success and monetary power are all inseparably interwoven tarough the indispensable province of banking.

The officers elected were then duly installed. The retiring president, Joseph C. Hendrix, was presented with a silver punch bowl by the members of the association. The convention adjourned sine die.

At the meeting of the executive council held at the Brown after the adjournment of the regular meeting of the association, Alvah W. Trowbridge of New York was reelected chairman of the council; James R. Branch, Virginia, secretary, and G. M. Reynolds, Chicago, treasurer. The question of choosing a city for the next annual convention was deferred until the spring meeting of the council, which meeting will occur in New York. There were receptions to delegates and their friends this afternoon at the home of President C. B. Kountze of the Colorado National bank at the Overland Park club house and at the Smelters.

This evening an excursion left here with several hundred of the visitors to take in Colorado Springs, Pike's Peak, Pueblo and Cripple Creek district.

A goodly number of republicans gathered branch bank system as the remedy for the at Pivonka's hall last evening in response trouble. Large city banks should absorb to the call for a meeting of laboring men. money could not exist in one locality while Republican club of Omaha came down to lend a hand in the organization of a similar club here. The meeting was called to order by Jerry Howard, who briefly stated the object of the call, and then John Mc-Carty of the Third ward was chosen tempointed to take up the matter of organizing s workingman's club here was not ready to report it was deemed advisable to postpone all action tending toward effecting an organization until next Tuesday evening. By this time it is thought that quite gations from all of the wards in the city will be on hand to take part in the organization of the proposed club.

As several well known republicans were noticed in the audience it was agreed that short addresses would be listened to before adjourning. T. W. Blackburn was called for, but said that he did not come down for the purpose of making a speech. He had noticed in the call for the meeting that it had been announced that Congressman Mercer would be present if it was possible for him to get here. Mr. Blackburn said that Mr. Mercer is in the west but is expected home today, and that he thought it probable arrangements could be made for the congressman's attendance next Tuesday evening. This remark brought forth round of cheers which went to show how popular "our Dave" is here.

J. H. VanDusen was next requested to make a few remarks and he started out by saying that he hoped the workingmen of South Omaha would organize, as the battle this fall must be won by the labor vote The speaker contended that the great strength of the republican party lay in the laboring man, and he spoke of the large number of toilers who had moved to this city since the election last fall. These strangers must be taken care of, Mr. Van-Dusen said, as the labor vote held the balance of power at the present time. The name of Judge Hayward, the republican candidate for governor, was mentioned and brought forth a round of cheers. In connection with state politics Mr. VanDusen said that the present condition of affairs demanded that the republicans step to the front at this time. The prop organized, should, in the opinion of the speaker, be officered and controlled by laboring men and conducted in the interests of the laboring classes. In closing Attorney VanDusen predicted victory for the republican forces this fall. The next speaker called for was William Mulhall of Omaha, who spoke briefly but to the point. He told why the great masses of the laboring men support the republican party. It is, he said, because the republican party is the party of labor and the party of the people.

After one or two more short addresses the meeting adjourned until next Tuesday night. During the interval the committee appointed to canvass the city for members will hold a session and map out a plan of action. This committee is composed of the following well known citizens: Phil Korn and H. Eisfelder of the First ward, P. Zelinka and B. Curran of the Second George Burns and Patrick Trainor of the Third and John Morrisey and Charles Cummings of the Fourth.

Gas Company Accepts Franchise. The Omaha Gas company has filed its a ceptance of the ordinance granting it wenty-five-years' franchise, which was passed by the city council on August 15. This ordinance was signed by Acting Mayor Barrett on the day following and the exist ence of the franchise commences from that date. Next on the program will be the filing by the gas company of a bond in the sum of $5,000, which is to indemnify the city against loss by reason of any damage on ac count of the excavations. It is expected that this bond will be presented to the council at the meeting to be held on the evening of September 1. As soon as the acceptance of the franchise ordinance is read and the bond is approved the company will be permitted to commence the work of laying mains. Mains were laid along N street from Twentieth to Twenty-seventh streets under the terms of the old ordinance, but work was stopped by injunctions at two different times. For street lights and lights in the public buildings the city is to pay at the rate of $1 per thousand cubic feet, while to private consumers the rate to be charged must not be more than $1.35 per thousand cubic feet. The ordinance further provides that the price of gas here is to be the same as charged in Omaha. All excavations must be made under the direct supervision of the city engineer and not more than 600 feet of streets or alleys will be allowed open at one time. All pay ing removed must be replaced in good shape and if this work is not satisfactory the city may have the necessary repairs made and charge the cost to the gas company.

A royalty of 5 cents per thousand feet will be paid to the city every year. One of the officers of the gas company stated that when work commenced here it would be pushed and that it was the intention to have gas in the business portion of the city this fall.

Burlington Making Improvements. The Burlington road has commenced to straighten out its main line through the northwestern portion of the city. Telegraph and telephone poles have been moved and grading for the new line is about to begin. Surveyors have been setting out stakes and a portion of the ground to be occupied by the new tracks has been cleared of weeds and brush. It is stated that a small depot will be erected near Thirtysixth and L streets. The plans for these changes were printed in detail in The Bee some months ago, at the time when the land needed for the imprevements was purchased.

Mr. Simpson is Pleased. Greenleaf W. Simpson, president of the Fort Worth Stock Yards company and one of the heavy stockholders in the Union Stock trict of Columbia, G. H. B. White; Florida, Yards company, was a visitor in the city

Fort Worth to his home in Boston, Mass., and stopped over here to take a look at the yards. The large number of improvements made since Mr. Simpson's last visit was a great surprise to him and he spoke in the highest terms of the condition of the property. As for the exposition, Mr. Simpson says it far surpassed his anticipations. It was a grend show, he said, and one well worth coming so far to see.

Guides for Visitors. Councilman Barrett has requested Mayor Ensor to station one or two policemen at the corner of Twenty-fourth and N streets during the day in order to direct strangers who arrive and depart by the hundreds every day. Barrett thinks that one and possibly two officers ought to be located at the intersection of these streets in order to answer questions asked by strangers and direct them to the packing bouses and stock yards. The idea is considered a good one and it is thought that the mayor will comply with the request. who was assaulted by a number of men a few nights ago, is getting better every day. Dr. James Kelly, who has charge of the case, said yesterday afternoon that the injuries received would by no means result fatally. The slow progress toward recovery made by the patient was due to other injuries received some time ago. Aside from a scalp wound two inches in length, Miller's injuries consist of bruises on the back of the head, chest and hands.

Prostrated by Heat. Albert Constantine, a laborer employed at Krug's brewery, was found by Officer Mc-Keon lying on Twenty-fourth street last vening, prostrated by the heat. The man was taken to police headquarters and a physician summoned. It was stated by the doctor that if Constantine had not been found when he was he would have soon died. Remedies were applied and Constantine revived sufficiently to be taken to his home at 1926 South Tenth street, Omaha.

Salvation Army Warning. Captain Charles W. Roshon of the Salvation Army, who is interested in raising a fund for the children's picnic to be given by the Salvation Army at Syndicate park on August 31, states that some unauthorized persons are soliciting money for this entertainment. The captain wishes to warn the people against contributing any money or goods to any person not armed with letter of authority from the officers of the local corps.

Butcher Badly Cut. While killing hogs at Swift's yesterday Jack Wilson, one of the butchers, was quite badly cut in the face. Just as Wilson raised his knife to stick a hog the animal kicked, striking the knife in such a way as to send the blade into the flesh. A physician was sent for and the wound dressed, yesterday. Mr. Simpson is en route from after which Wilson was taken to his home at 2511 South Twenty-fifth street, Omaha-

Magle City Gossip. City Atterney Mentgomery has returned from a western trip.

J. E. Hoffman of Halleck, Nev., had cattle at the yards yesterday. L. V. Niles of Boston, Mass., was a vis-iter at the stock yards offices yesterday. Mrs. C. J. Jenson of Sioux City reports that she was robbed of $8 while here visiting her brother-in-law, W. Judah, Forty-second and W streets. There was a small fire in the cooling house at Armour's yesterday afternoon. The blaze was extinguished without the aid of the city fire department. City Engineer Beal was engaged vesterday in running the lines for the new Joslin block which is to be erected on Twenty-fourth street between N and O streets. The working plans have about been completed and it is the intention now to commence grading the first of next week. There will be due on September 1 the sum of $1,071 on grading district No. 22. This district extends along O street from Seven-teenth to Twentieth street. As Treasurer Condition of August Miller. Broadwell has a sufficient amount in the August Miller, the Fourth ward grocer | fund to make this payment it will not be necessary to borrow any money from the bank.

> Business of the Police Board. The Board of Fire and Police Commisioners held a meeting last night for the payment of a small political obligation and to conduct a nominal investigation into the case of Michael Costello, who was recently discharged from the police department.
> The first was accomplished by the ap> pointment of W. C. Heaton, relative of a local popocratic editor. The investigation into Costello's case was held in executive session and was quite prolonged. Costello produced evidence to show that he had not been in an intoxicated condition as charged. He testified that he had been prescribed ertain opiate by a physician which had given him the appearance of intoxication. The evidence in the case was not completed and no decision was announced.

> Visitor's Difficulty with Scalpers. An exposition visitor who bought a scalp-er's ticket at a brokerage office at 1313 Farnam street yesterday was thrown outoors twice in one day in an effort to realize on it. He first presented the paste-board to the railroad conductor and was told that it was canceled and out of date and would accordingly be confiscated. The traveler protested, but to no avail, and when he complained further was put off the train by the official. He returned to Omaha and visited the brokerage office to demand reparation. He claims he was met there also by incivility and when he pressed the matter that he was thrown bodily out of the door. His next application for justice will be made at the police court.

> > Opium Joint Raided.
