FORCING FUSION ON SMITH

Democrats Override All Opposition to Their Chosen Candidate.

OTHER POPOCRATS FEEBLY PROTEST

"Free Silver Republicans" and Populists Undertake to Suggest Other Names as More Acceptable, but Are Simply Frozen.

The handful of so-called silver republicans in Omaha are taking a firm stand in the contest for the fusion nomination for congress in the Second district by displaying a bold front, and manifesting a disposition to block the democratic machine. While not openly opposed specially to a democrat being the nominee of the three conventions, they have sought to dictate the nomination. But now having reached the end of their string they admit that the democratic machine is master of the situation.

Such silver republicans as J. W. Carr, Dr. J. J. Saville and a few others, some time ago announced that they would not endorse the nomination of Dudley Smith, who is the choice of the manipulators in the democratic ranks. They held that Smith is not really a free coinage man, that his social tendencies are all toward aristocracy, and that he is an enemy to organized labor, all of which they said would be serious sources of weakness in the campaign.

At first they talked of bringing out one of their own following as a candidate, hoping that in a conflict between the democrats and populists they might capture the nomination. Later, learning that the democrats would not consider them as a factor in the contest, they turned their attention to trying to dictate the naming of a democrat. They took up W. S. Poppleton, but Mr. Poppleton put a stop to it all by declaring that he was not a candidate for the nomination, as his private interests are in such condition that he cannot afford to neglect them at this time for any public office. This announcement, coming almost at the eleventh hour, leaves the conventions being held on Saturday, leaves the silver republicans practically without anything to stand upon, and Dr. Saville now says they will probably have to accept Smith as their candidate.

It is reported today that the populists may bring a candidate for the congressional nomination in the person of Dr. A. J. Cook. This is taken to be an effort to force the democrats to make concessions on the legislative ticket. Populists say the silver republicans will come to Cook before they will to Smith, and that this will place them in position to make it more than interesting for their democratic brethren.

Dr. Cook will not discuss his proposed candidacy definitely. He said a number of his friends have been to him to urge the use of his name in this connection, but he hopes all parties may select some good man "upon whom they can unite harmoniously." Some of the populist labor leaders, who pretend to represent organized labor, are taking an active part in the work of selecting the fusion candidate, directing their efforts especially against the nomination of Smith. Their grievance is that when Governor Holcomb was considering appointments to the state exposition commission, the name of T. F. Sturgis of this city was presented as a candidate for one of the places. Mr. Sturgis is state organizer for the International Typographical union, and prominently identified with organized labor interests. The charge is made that the name of Sturgis was favorably considered by the governor, but that Smith, who was a member of the legislature at the time, interfered, and urged that a representative of organized labor on the commission would foment labor troubles and embarrass the work of building the exposition. It is alleged that this interference by Smith defeated the naming of Sturgis, and the representatives of organized labor promise to make their influence felt should Smith be nominated for congress.

These things are not, however, apt to change the state of the democracy. While Senator Howard of England may receive a few scattering votes in the convention from the democrats, he has no serious following. Several democrats say that while Howard is good to laugh at, he is too ambitious, and could not be considered seriously as a candidate for congress.

FEDERAL BUILDING NOTES.

George A. Dix, postoffice inspector in charge at St. Louis, is in Omaha attending the exposition.

M. B. Scott, commissioner of internal revenue, has passed upon a point in the new internal revenue law which was raised in Omaha. He has decided that where an Omaha bank writes to a Chicago bank to have certain money placed to its credit in a New York bank, a 3-cent revenue stamp will be required for the order from the Omaha bank, and another on the order from the Chicago to the New York bank.

BOHEMIAN DAY AT THE FAIR

Great Gathering of the Representatives of This Race Already Here.

NOTABLE CELEBRATION IS PLANNED

Demonstration on the Streets and Exercises on the Grounds Laid Out on an Elaborate Scale by Local Committees.

Bohemian day at the exposition. It will call together the biggest and greatest gathering of people of Bohemian birth or nativity that has ever met in the transmississippi country in its history. It will be one of the big days in the history of the transmississippi Exposition. It is estimated that anywhere between 7,000 and 10,000 Bohemians will take part in and witness the celebration of the day.

The advance guard of these guests of the city are arriving by hundreds. Regular trains are crowded with them, and special cars are attached to many of the trains to accommodate the incoming. Most of the visitors are from Nebraska, Iowa and Kansas. There are others, however, from Wisconsin, Oklahoma, the Dakotas, Illinois and from states in the west. The perplexing problem now is to take care of all these visitors. Even with the comparatively light arrivals of today the hotel accommodations on South Thirteenth street, where the visitors naturally congregate, are already taxed. The visitors are given a royal reception. They are met at the depot by special committees, who give all possible information. South Thirteenth street is a mass of flags and bunting. Every business establishment is displaying the Bohemian and American colors. Bohemians accept every opportunity to extend the glad hand of welcome and hospitality to their guests.

BOHEMIAN DAY AT THE FAIR

point will be the auditorium, where the exercises of the day will occur.

BOHEMIAN DAY AT THE FAIR

At the conclusion of the program the Bohemian turners will give an exhibition upon the Grand Plaza. This will conclude the formal celebration of the day.

In connection with the Bohemian day is also to be held a turnfest of Bohemian turners of the transmississippi country. This will take place at Turner park at Thirteenth and Vinton streets, and will last two days—Sunday and Monday. On Monday evening a reception will be given the turners at Metz hall, at which the prizes will be awarded to the winners of the tournament.

Twenty-Fourth Street Not Alone.

OMAHA, Aug. 25.—To the Editor of The Bee: It was with feelings of some little satisfaction I read the report on page 7 of this morning's Bee regarding the indignation of North Twenty-fourth street merchants as to the condition of said street. No doubt each and every individual in the city would like to see Twenty-fourth street in a passable condition, but the objections raised by councilmen are just in every way. Let us draw a parallel case and carry your readers to Vinton street on the south side. Here we have only four blocks in the chain of the only southern outlet to the city where more travel, actual commerce, the life blood of our town, will be found than on any other suburban street in Omaha, the only thoroughfare between Omaha proper and manufacturing Omaha or South Omaha.

The cases are not exactly parallel, as the north side property owners are regarded as wealthy while the property owners on Vinton street are poor laboring people that have paid or nearly paid for paving the street with cheap pavement, while they have never for a day enjoyed the privilege of a ride over the street accepting in the poor man's carriage, the street car. This street is a disgrace as viewed by our visitors, whose first questions are: "What are your main thoroughfares? Let us look at them." The north side have resented benefits to no end by the locating of the exposition, inside the grounds the parade will disband and the next gathering

DECORATE DOCTOR WITH TAR

Citizens of Illinois Town Punish a Man Whose Ways of Life They Disapprove Of.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 26.—A special to the Post-Dispatch from Carrollton, Ill., says:

Dr. L. C. Davis has been horse-whipped, tarred and feathered and driven out of this city by a mob of indignant citizens. Dr. Davis came to this city about two years ago as the representative of an Indianapolis sanitarian. He became acquainted with Miss Maud Hensler, the daughter of J. W. Hensler, a well known wagon maker and blacksmith and respected citizen of this city. After keeping the girl's company nearly a year they disagreed and on returning reported themselves married. They took up their residence in Aiton, where a child was born. Mr. Hensler on making investigation discovered that they had not been married. He went to Aiton and had Davis arrested and compelled him to marry his daughter. Since then, Hensler asserts, Davis has been extorting money from Hensler by threatening to take his life. Davis caused a disturbance. Hensler had him arrested and locked up in the county jail. On signing an agreement to leave the city Hensler declined to prosecute him and he was released. Instead of leaving he returned to the Hensler residence last night and being afraid of him Hensler had him again arrested and locked up in the city prison. Shortly after midnight last night a mob, supposed to have been led by friends of Hensler, broke into the jail and took Davis out. He was taken to Hensler's shop, where another party beat Davis with whips and tarred and feathered him. His life was spared on the promise that he would leave the city.

BLUE LAWS IN CLEVELAND

War of Retaliation Spreading Among Shop Keepers and Merchants Over Sunday Law.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 26.—A blue law crusade reached its climax yesterday in the arrest of N. Hexter, a news dealer; J. C. Newman, a cigar dealer; William Clark, restaurant keeper, and A. M. Baum, a restaurant keeper, for doing business on Sunday in violation of the common law. The trouble started last winter when the Retail Clerks' association caused the arrest of several clothing stores who kept their stores open Sunday forenoons. Then the Retail Grocers' association proceeded against those in their business who kept open on Sunday forenoons. The Retail Butchers' association decided Tuesday night to cause the arrest of all in their line of Men Arrested and Charged with Being Dangerous Footpads Are Quietly Dismissed from Custody.

Working for Free Cause.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—The first active step in securing the abolition of the Welland canal tolls has been taken by the transportation committee of the Board of Trade. At a meeting of that committee it was determined to ask the directors to name a committee of three to confer with the boards of trade at Minneapolis, Duluth, Milwaukee and other northwestern points for concerted action before the Anglo-American conference at Quebec. It is expected a strong delegation will be sent to Quebec to work for "an open hour" to the lakes. The transportation committee took this action after hearing from a delegation of marine men.

Men Arrested and Charged with Being Dangerous Footpads Are Quietly Dismissed from Custody.

J. P. Kelley and Robert Buckley, the two men whom the police arrested Wednesday night and charged with having attempted to cut a stranger with knives, and also with having later robbed T. L. Wilderman, a stranger of $28 and his watch and clothing, were discharged by Judge Gordon. No one appeared to prosecute the men. Even the police officers who made the charges against the men failed to appear in court. Sergeants King and Haider, who are doing night duty, have of late been making arrests indiscriminately and booking charges against prisoners that they fail to substantiate, and the above case is one of them. The facts in the case, as related by one of the defendants, are that he and his friend were walking north on Eleventh street about 2 o'clock Thursday morning when they were insulted by two men who had revolvers. On their resenting the insult the men acted as though they were going to assault them and they drew their knives to defend themselves. They deny ever having met Wilderman, who, the police assert, identified them as the men who had him up and robbed him.
