the headquarters of the Telocvicna Jednota Gregg said, and until something of the sort sokol during the last four years, was chosen occurs there will be no room for new again for the coming five years. This selection was one of the concluding acts of the national convention of the society, which has been in session in this city for three days. An adjournment sine die was taken last night at 10 o'clock.

New York was not chosen, however, until at the conclusion of an animated fight between the east and the west. Cedar Rapids Hoctor they say that he has burt himself and Omaha were both after the prize. R. V. Miskovsky led the fight for this city. Omaha would have won had the St. Louis delegates thrown in their votes with the rest of the west. When it was seen that Omaha could not get the prize its strength was thrown to Cedar Rapids, but New York finally was chosen by the slight majority of five votes. St. Louis again refused to cast its votes with the rest of the west. The headquarters will consequently be in New York for the coming five years, for the convention fixed 1993 as the date for the next national meeting. This extends the interval between conventions from four to five years. Milwaukee was chosen as the place of meeting.

Fred Martini of New York was elected as the national sokol chief. His aids are Joseph Stibr of Cleveland and Fred Englethaler of Cedar Rapids. Rudolph Havelka of this city was offered this latter office in the western division, but he declined the honor

The following was elected as the committee to have charge of the normal school for instructors to be established in Chicago: Joseph Cermak, Dr. Stulik and Joseph Pecival, all of Chicago.

A motion was made to add a sick bene ficiary department to the society, but this was tabled. Resolutions were passed thanking the Pokrok Zapadu for its courtesies and the local committee for the arrangements it had made for the convention These matters consumed a large part of the final session of the body yesterday afternoon and evening. The remainder of the time was spent in listening to the reading of the rules and regulations as they have been amended. They were passed in lump

At yesterday morning's session it was de cided to hold the next national tournament in Cleveland in 1990. The tournament of the middle division will be held at St. Louis in 1901, the tournament of the eastern division at Baltimore in 1902 and the tournament of the western division, in which Nebraska is located, in 1903 at Cedar Rapids. A radical move was made in the estab lishment of a sort of beneficiary department for the benefit of the active turners. A law was adopted according to which every active turner who is injured in the course of the sokol work will receive $1.50 a day until he recovers If he is injured permanently he will be presented with a benefit raised through 25-cent assessment upon every members in the society. At present the benefit would amount to nearly $1,000.

ment upon every For every society which has a membership of 100 or less the expenses of one delegate will be paid; for every society with more than 100 members the expenses of two delegates will be paid. This action was taken because the sokols in some of the smaller towns have such a small membership that they cannot afford themselves to pay the expenses of their representatives. In this manner a full representation can be secured at every convention. The first assessment will be levied in 1900 so that enough money to pay all these expenses of delegates can be raised by 1903.

Special premiums will be given yearly to every sokol that maintains children's classes throughout the year as follows: For a class of between 25 and 50, $10; for a class between 50 and 100, $20; for a class above 100, $35.
