

COLORADO COMES IN CROWDS

Citizens of the Centennial State Here to See the Exposition.

RAILROADS CARING FOR A GREAT RUSH

Lines Between Omaha and Denver Almost Swamped by the Flood of Travel That Results from Colorado Day Rates.

The citizens of Colorado are such a lot of hustlers that they have come to Omaha a day ahead of the time set for the celebration of their state day at the exposition.

The traffic swamped the regular trains of the Denver-Omaha line and crowded the special trains that were placed in service to help handle the crowds.

The special train of the Burlington, filled with Denver and other Colorado folk, pulled into the new station shortly before noon.

The Rock Island's regular train arrived at 5:50 a. m. with three extra cars, and was followed an hour later by a special in charge of Traveling Passenger Agent Clark of Denver.

The morning was one of the liveliest that has been seen about the two neighboring stations. There were lots of Omaha people down to see some of their friends who came in on some of the Colorado excursions.

COMING RESTORATION OF RATES.

Announcement from Canadian Pacific Causes Some Speculation Here.

The announcement of the Canadian Pacific that it will restore rates on September 25 is causing some speculation among passenger rates by the American lines.

The restoration of rates by the Canadian Pacific, most passenger men think, will at once be followed by a general restoration of passenger rates by the American lines.

The local passenger men will use their influence to have the $2.25 rate kept in to help the exposition and to protect the round trip tickets from Chicago from being scalped.

The latter tickets are now sold on two days each week for $14.75, but with the one day rate cut to $12.25 there is not much inducement for the scalpers to handle the excursion tickets.

The consolidation of the Vanderbilt fast freight lines will be effective on October 1. This announcement was made to the representatives of these lines at a conference held in Chicago this week.

The re-arrangement of offices of the Vanderbilt fast freight lines that will follow the consolidation was also made known at this time. Omaha will profit, rather than suffer from the new arrangement, but it is the only western city, except Chicago, in which some of the offices of the Vanderbilt fast freight lines will not be closed.

The Red line, which does business between Chicago and New York over the Lake Shore and the New Central roads, will continue to be represented here by J. Fred Hurd.

When the case against Mike Markeson, the South Omaha saloon keeper accused by Justice Albert S. White of bribery and of being the factor that kept the justice in the case, Thomas and other gambling cases, came up before Justice Foster yesterday, to which time it had been continued two weeks ago, a chance of venue was taken and the matter went over to Justice Houck's court.

Justice Houck dismissed it without prejudice in the afternoon.

Markeson, however, was at once arrested and taken before County Judge Baxter and arraigned. To both the counts of the complaint he pleaded not guilty, and Judge Baxter set the preliminary hearing for the 21st inst. Markeson being allowed his liberty until then on $1,000 bail.

BRUTAL WORK OF BURGLARS

Victim Beaten, Bound and Thrown on the Railroad Tracks.

NIGHT WATCHMAN JAHN'S EXPERIENCE

He Frustrates an Attempt at Robbery and Suffers from a Terrible Assault at the Hands of Two Men.

Gustave Jahn, night watchman for the Henry Rice grocery company at Calhoun, a small suburban village twenty miles north of Omaha, was brutally beaten with revolvers by two robbers whom he had frustrated in an attempt to rob the store shortly before midnight Wednesday night.

After Jahn's incarceration from the beating the men bound him hand and foot with strips torn from a horse blanket and carried him a quarter of a mile to the tracks of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railway and laid him across the rails to be ground beneath the wheels of the train due within the hour from Omaha.

When Jahn returned to consciousness a short time later he managed to free himself from his bonds and aroused the town. Although several posses of men secured the country in all directions no trace of Jahn's assailants could be found other than a small laprobe found on the main road to Omaha, which it is believed fell from the buggy in which the men are supposed to have left.

The men are supposed to have been from Omaha, and it is the belief that a plan had been formed by them to loot the town, but was spoiled by Jahn's interference. Jahn is lying at his room in Rick's building in a very serious condition.

His story is that about 11:45, as is his custom, he made his way to the rear of Rick's store, intending to enter that way to go to his bedroom, which is situated in the rear of the store. He said he had barely turned the corner of the building when two men sprang at him with revolvers. Instead of leveling the weapons at him he says both men attempted to strike him, and as they struck demanded the keys of the store. Instead of complying with the demand, he says he threw the keys away and attempted to run, but the men were too quick for him. One of them struck him on the head with a revolver and he fell unconscious. He knew no more until he awoke bound hand and foot on the railway tracks.

Jahn is an employe of an adjoining lumber yard, but always sleeps at the store as a watchman.

Fred H. Frahm, manager of the store, came to Omaha at noon and reported the matter to the police and asked their co-operation in hunting for the men, who he is confident are residents of this city.

SESSION OF VETERINARIANS

Time of the Morning Session Devoted to the Discussion of Various Matters of Practice.

After reading a few proposed amendments to the constitution, which are to be voted on at the next meeting, the American Veterinary Medical association yesterday afternoon held its 12th annual session at the Hotel New York in New York.

The discussion of the treatment used by one doctor with satisfactory results, as looked upon by another, as next on the program. After the debate on this paper had been closed Dr. L. A. Merrill of Illinois presented his views on "Arytenoiditis: A New Surgical Treatment for Roaring."

It was the purpose of the doctor to give a practical demonstration of the operation, but this being impossible, he explained the working of his principle orally.

In the afternoon there were more papers as follows: "Radical Operation for Contracted Hoof" by Dr. C. C. Lyford of Minnesota, in the course of which he introduced a number of photographs to illustrate the points he wished to make; "Practical Points in a Country Practice," by Dr. S. S. Whitbeck of Iowa, and "The Practicability of Immunizing Breeding Cattle by the Tick Method," by Dr. John W. Conway of Missouri.

The discussion of these papers was passed over owing to lack of time. Late in the afternoon the association adjourned. The meeting place for next year will be decided by the executive committee.

The United States Experiment Station Veterinary Medical association held its second annual meeting last night in continuation of the regular session of veterinarians.

This inner circle of the regular body is made up of members of the faculty of different colleges and of similar institutions and meets to consider questions which have been investigated during the year by private research. Those in attendance were Dr. White, state veterinarian of Missouri; Dr. Merrill, McKillop Veterinary Institute, Chicago; Dr. Mitchell, Evansville, Ind.; Dr. Salmon, chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Law, Cornell university; Dr. Conway, University of Missouri; Dr. Peters, University of Nebraska; Dr. Cary, Alabama Polytechnic Institute; Dr. Nelson, Washington Agricultural college; Dr. Reynolds, University of Missouri.

Papers were read upon the following subjects: "The Tubercle Bacilli and Making Tuberculin," Dr. Cary; "Filing Reports of Laboratories," Dr. Salmon; "The Value of the Experiment Station Veterinarian being Connected with the State Board of Health," Dr. Reynolds; "The Exhibit of the United States Experiment Station Veterinarians at the Paris Exposition in 1889," Dr. Peters.

At the conclusion of the program the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Dr. James Law, president; Dr. John Conway, vice president; Dr. A. T. Peters, secretary. Other business was completed at the annual session of the veterinarians which was brought to a close.

KEEPING TRACK OF CHINESE

Seventeen Who Escaped from Nashville Are Captured at Los Angeles—Watching Omaha Contingent.

Word has been received here by government officials that seventeen Chinese, who escaped from the Nashville exposition, and who disappeared after that show closed, have just been arrested at Los Angeles, Cal., and will be deported. It is announced that the government will keep a close surveillance of the Chinese contingent at the Transmississippi Exposition, to see that none of them are diverted to other channels than that for which they were allowed to come to this country. It is known now that the concessionaires here were entitled to 500 tickets, and that the recent importation of forty-one was all right, and they should have been received without question. In fact, twelve more are due on the allotment for Omaha, but it is not expected they will be sent here with the exposition in its present advanced stage.

It is full of pretty songs, graceful dances and humorous situations.

His Encounter with Her.

OMAHA, Sept. 8.—To the Editor of The Bee: Any one who has the misfortune to be in contact with some of the police of Omaha cannot help but think all the time that the police are a nuisance. A few days ago I went out in the woods in the western part of Omaha with a target gun and a dog. I was hunting for a rabbit. I knew I was run down by Sergeant Her (they call him Dan for short) and was told in an uncivil way to "git." He had on a cap and a pair of trousers, and a pair of shoes. I attempted an explanation, but I was soon given the well known phrase: "Whatever I say you say nothing." It is needless to mention that he did not own the land, or any other as far as that is concerned. Now I claim to be a law-abiding citizen. I am also an American citizen by birth. I do not know all the law that is on our books and if I violate any law all I ask is to be held in a civil way. It was too bad, and I was made pleuripetentary at Cut Off Lake when the police were there. He would have room there to spread his authority.

Work of a Friend Officer.

J. A. Newton, a stranger, and a friend quarreled while taking a walk on Sixteenth street and the friend, left Newton's side and hailed an officer, with: "Say, Mr. Officer, do you see that man," pointing to the stranger who was continuing on his way. "Well, he is a possum robber and he wanted for the robbery of a postoffice in Wyoming, committed some time ago." The officer, without asking the stranger his name or further particulars, left him and arrested Newton. The stranger faded from view.

Newton was surprised at his arrest and indignantly protested, but was taken to a cell. He insists that he is innocent of the crime charged and that it was trumped up by his erstwhile friend for spite. He refuses to tell his friend's name, and the police do not know if he or whose instigation came from, he cannot substantiate the charge.
