Mystic Shriner's Salutation is Heard in Omaha Many Times.

MANY OF THE FAITHFUL JOURNEY HITHER

Large Caravans Reach the Oasls of Tangler and Are Given the Truly Hospitable Reception by the Local Nobles.

A season of festivities and general rejoicing was begun last night and will be participated in for three days by the nobility of the Mystic Shrine from all parts of the country. The occasion is under the auspices of Tangier and Sesostris temples of Omaha and Lincoln and will ambrace Tight fitting back—silk ribbon bows— crocheted with worsted—a cheap and comfortable morning sacque—at $1.30 a varied form of entertainment from the dignified ceremonial session to revelries on the Midway. The visiting Shriners arrived Ladies' Sacques-tight fitting back-full in large delegations during yesterday and dcuble breasted front—large cords and buttons—crocheted with worsted—a natty sacque and a good seller—at today. Over 200 were in the party from Kansas City, about 100 each from St. Joseph, Mo., and Leavenworth, Kan., fifty from Deadwood, S. D., and smaller parties from Atlanta, Ga., Pittsburg, Pa., Chicago and a dozen other points. Nothing will be spared to make their visit pleasant and profitable and $5,000 has been raised by the local temples for that purpose. The head-Reduced to 25c a garment—former price 5cc. This brought Stuht quite informal and the Shriners spent the to his feet with a substitute motion to adopt evening in forming acquaintances and having a general good time. A good orchestra was in charge of the music and refreshments were served late in the evening. A number of the local reception committee. consisting of ninety of the leading Shriners in this vicinity, were present and the visitors received the welcoming benediction, "Peace be with you and on you be the peace." in a most cordial manner.

The program already published for the 'Shrine day" festivities today will be one of the main features of the entertainment. The Auditorium and the Nebraska building will be the official headquarters on the grounds and light refreshments will be served with the mystic accompaniment of

Where They Go Today.

Tomorrow morning will be devoted to an inspection of South Omaha packing plants upon the invitation of Swift and Company. The Shriners will march in a body to the Union Pacific depot, where they will board two special trains at 9:30. Provisions have been made so that the packing industry can be appreciated under the most favorable circumstances and after the sightseeing trip a lunch will be served previous to the return to Omaha. In the afternoon the nobles and their ladies will spend the time apart in order that the former may transact certain secret business. This will be done in a ceremonial session at Boyd's theater, when all the official business of the meeting will be disposed of. There are about fifty novices who will tread for the first time the burning sands and plead for admittance at the gates of Mecca. Other matters of a routine character will be con sidered and completed in time for the reception at the Masonic hall at 5:30 p. m This will not be an extended affair and the time will be mostly taken up with preparations for the grand parade two hours later. The women friends of the Shriners will occupy themselves early in the afternoon with matinee at the Creighton theater es

> > What the Shriners Consist Of. The rites of the Shriners as applied during the present festivities were first instituted by the Mohammedan Kallph Alee, sonin-law of Mohammed, in the year of the Hegira 25. The order soon widened to include Christians and Mohammedans alike as Randall has received many letters from the benevolent and fraternal purposes of it appreciated, and it spread from Its Arabic origin to Europe and finally to America. One of the most noted patrons at present is the kheatve of Egypt, whose good feeling toward Christians is generally recognized. The order was introduced in the United States by William J. Florence, the actor, in 1871 as a delegate specially empowered for that purpose. # CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Stuht Charges Extravagance and the Council Votes Down His Motions Just as Usual.

At the meeting of the city council last night Councilman Stuht again made insinuations to the effect that his fellow mem bers have been, to say the least, extravagant in spending city money. His opportunity offered when the finance committee $35,000 settlement money received from the sinking fund.

A motion was made that the report be re the report. A suggestion was made that if the mency is placed in the sinking fund, no portion of it can be used in paying for work at the city jail and paying other bills.

"That is exactly what I want-place the money where the council cannot get at it," declared Stuht. "A short time ago the council expended in paying bills that would not stand in the courts a good portion of the $300,000 refunding bonds recently voted. Those bonds were secured under the pretense that the city would save money by taking up outstanding warrants that were drawing 7 per cent interest by issuing the 4 per cent bonds. I want to prevent a grab on that $35,000."

"Will you state one case where the coun cil paid bills that would not stand in the courts?" angrily demanded President Bing-

"I will furnish you the items at the next meeting," responded Stuht.

The motion to recommit the report was passed. It was again suggested that an early meeting of the council should be held to consider financial matters.

Two bids were received for putting up election booths for the fall election. H. B. Mayo offered to do the work for $3.29 without returning the booths to place of storage. Mary L. Stevenson offered to set up the booths and return them for $9.49. The first bid was rejected because it was not accompanied by a certified check and a motion was made to accept the other bid. This met with vigorous objections from Councilmen Stuht and Lobeck, who insisted that the price is too high. After a lengthy discussion the motion was withdrawn and both bids were rejected. The city comptroller was instructed to readvertise for bids to be received up to 5 o'clock on Thursday. Action will be taken at a special meeting of the council Thursday afternoon,

Report of the Secretary. The secretary and treasurer, Frank Eurich of Woodward Lawn, Detroit, made his report, in which he advised changing the name of the association that it will not imply that only superintendents are eligible to membership, as any one connected with the care or management of cemeteries may join. He thought such change would contribute to increasing the membership, which had remained about stationary for a number of years. In his financial statement he reported the expenses for the last year at $432.30, with a balance on hand of $256.46.

An amendment to the by-laws was made whereby all applications for membership shall be referred to a committee on membership before action by the association. Hobert of Minneapolis advocated the doing away with monuments and mounds in cememarked by posts only as high as the grass establishing a uniformity in the grounds, which has a far more beautiful effect than ndiscriminate monuments and ideas of landscape gardening by lot owners.

A paper by Bellett Lawson of Wilkesbarre, Pa., on "What Trees and Shrubs Are Suitable for Cemetery Embellishment," was ead and in it the writer divided the country into four sections, with a certain class of trees and shrubs for each section, based upon climatic conditions. He was opposed to experimenting with trees which were not adapted to the locality, but thought superintendents should use judgment in selecting only those which experience had shown vould do well. An hour was then devoted to discussing various matters suggested by the papers read and it developed an interesting session, as many new ideas were brought out. At the close of the debate the meeting adjourned to Lininger's art gallery, where they spent the rest of the afternoon.

Question of Sunday Funerals. The feature of the meeting last evening was an address by Rev. S. Wright Butler of this city on "Sunday Funerals." The speaker paid a beautiful encomium to the work of the cemetery superintendents, saying they are the guardians of the most sacred treasures of the people. On the question of Sunday funerals he said it is a matter which the members of the association feel more keenly than pastors, because they have experience every Sunday. He feels that the Sunday funeral is possessed of too much of a commercial nature, where this day is selected that the services might not interfere with business, and as a time when there will be a large turnout by the public. He thinks a week day funeral, with a small attendance of genuine mourners far more

This afternoon the members of the association will visit the cemeteries of this city, and the water works at Florence, and will return to the city by way of the exposition. Night Watchman Gorman at the Creighton theater succeeded early this morning in cap-turing one of the persistent burglars who have made numerous attempts during isst few weeks to rob the stock and cash drawer of W. O. Hubberd, saloon keeper in the building. The watchman was passing through one of the lower corridors when he heard the sound of footsteps in the ball above, where entrance had previously been effected through a window. Gorman around the building and reached the v just as the burglars, who had become alarmed, were climbing out upon the fire es-cape. He ordered them back into the building and next heard them running downstairs There is a heavy door at the north estrance of the theater, but the robbers threw their weight against it and burst through almost into the arms of a passing policeman. They had no difficulty, however, in brushing by and making their escape. They were pursued to no avail by several revolver shots. Only two men were involved in this dash, as the third man lacked the nerve to face the policeman and went back to the fire escape. Gorman saw him carefully climbins out and ordered him to come down. The obber obeyed and was placed under arrest. He is William Haley, fresh from the reform school and about 18 years old.
