Interest in the autumnal festivities of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben has had its apparent effect on the society circles of the exposition city. What with arranging parties for viewing the street pageants on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, dances and preparing costumes for the grand coronation and state ball on Friday evening. the devotees of local society have been all agog with excitement during the last week over the coming of the king.

Beautiful beyond description will be the appearance of the immense Den on Friday evening when it is arrayed in its royal garb for the coming of the king and queen Artists and artisans have been busy for a week in decorating the big building with banners and incandescent lamps, all of the striking Ak-Sar-Ben colors of red and green and yellow. A great waterfall, which will be attractively illuminated, has been constructed at the south end of the hall. while a throne twenty feet above the level of the floor occupies a commanding posttion at the north end. About the throne are the handsomely furnished boxes for the ladies of the court, the ladies in waiting and the maids of honor. The dancing space this year will be greater in extent than ever before and the dancers will for once have the advantage of a smooth floor.
