TROUBLE AT THE CHRISTENING

Allied Forces Having a Time Selecting a Name for the Party.

DEMOCRATS INSIST ON OLD PATRONYMIC

Argument Over Naming the Family's last week, First Born Nothing as Compared with that Now Being Waged in "Reform" Political Circles.

LINCOLN, Oct. 3 .- (Special.) - There is afternoon at 1 o'clock. an undercurrent of political strife among the fusionists in this state that is bearing this morning in the Young Men's Christian on something further in the future than association rooms and elected officers for the coming November election. For more than a year the "allied forces of reform" have realized that a time will come some day when the fusion deal must be dropped and the crowd marching under its three banners must unite under one name. It is this question of a name that is worrying the popocratic politicians, and in the consideration of the question such small items as party principles and party platforms are allowed to cut no figure. The democrats are sure that the party must bear the name "democrat," because it would then be in line with the only branch of the fusion party that is cutting any figure in national politics, and would receive the assistance of the national committee, as well as the immediate support of democrats who come here from other states. To make these claims still stronger the Smyth-Maret-Dahlman element asserts that the democratic votes in the election of last fall outnumbered those of the populists and silver republicans together. make this seem perfectly reasonable they point to the fact that prior to 1890, when the two old parties occupied the field in the state, the normal republican majority was about 15,000, and that now, after the large increase in population, the organization of the populist party and the fusion of the populists and democrats against the common enemy, the republicans are still casting nearly one-half of the total vote. Matheson, W. Young and Z. A. Kirkle. Col-This argument is used to prove that the populists in the present fusion deal are furnishing only about 20,000 votes aside from those that originally belonged to democrats to inquire. Why should we give up our party name when we have 85,000 votes and the populists only have 26,000? Must Be Settled Next Year.

This sort of argument does not have a soothing effect on the populists. They argue that they have the larger share of the votes in the deal and that if there is a move to condense the names of the allied forces into the single name "democratic" they will forthwith put a middle-of-the-road populist party in the field. It is noticed, nowever, that this talk is confined entirely to those members of the populist party who were formerly republicans and that those who were democrats prior to 1892 are all with the democratic crowd. This has led to the turning down of populists in some counties and to the exclusive nomination of populists with democratic antecedents in other

That the struggle over the adoption of a name must come next year there is now not the slightest doubt and in the preparations going forward the politicians of the silver republican school are receiving no consideration. The democrats believe that those of the silver republicans who vote the fusion ticket this year may be depended upon to vote the democratic ticket in the future, the play grounds of the school and was while the populists are equally certain that a majority of the so-called silver republicans Miss Meader, and punished for the misde-were populists before they declared them-meanor. The boy has populists had to furnish a majority of the votes in the silver republican orimanes in order to allow the latter party to hold a legal convention and get on the ticket in Richardson county, and the same fusion leader states that practically the same condition exists in every county where the silver republicans pretend to have an organiza-

In Thayer county the "allied forces" are having a family quarrel because the democrats in a recent convention selected for a place on the county ticket a populist who is not popular in his own party, and this leads the People's Champion, the populist organ of the county, to make a few remarks, as follows:

There is always a set of fellows at the county seat who have axes of their own to grind and make it their business to manipulate conventions. We predict that ever fusionist in the court house, and every one who hopes to get into office, will use every endeavor to whip the populists into When a man gets a "bee in his bonnet" he is liable to be willing to sacrifice principle, and even party itself, for the sake at the county fair. In the finish of a heat farmers—not "practical politicians." they come to the county sent it is natural for them to consult these politicians to find out what is going on. This gives the schemers a chance to get in their work, and so conventions do not always express the real animal fully thirty feet. He thinks he was sentiments of the people. But many of the populists left the old parties because they resented ring rule. They do not propose to submit themselves to it now, and the "court house gang" will have a good time whipping them into line. State House Gossip.

CENTRAL CITY, Colo., Oct. 3 .- (Special.) -The continuance of such fine dry weather, the finest at this time of the year in the memory of the oldest resident, is responsible for a good deal of surface work being done, and especially is this so in the outly ing districts, where an unusual amount of assessment work is being accomplished. The month now drawing to a close has been one of increased tonnage, as the shipments for the month will show, and some high grade ore has been produced, all helping to swell the production of the Little Kingdom of Gilpin.

The East Notaway mine still continues to hold the attention of everybody in this county, and everybody is wondering what ing at the court-martial trial the next ore will run. The lessees will Rev. Less than six months ago the lessees were offered $40,000 by one party and $50,000 by another party for the property. but while some of them were willing to sell for those sums, others held it, and fortunately for themselves that they did.

The section in which this property is lo cated is one of the best in the country and its record for producing a good grade of ore is hard to beat. This section is at the junction of the Russell and Lake districts and in a radius of less than 200 feet square are located the Golden Wedge, Annie May, East have at times produced more or less of highgrade ore. bility for his utterances on the occasion. In a straightforward, simple, yet graphic manner, he told the story of the Oregon's wonderful trip from San Francisco around Cape Horn; of the terrible extremes of heat and cold passed through; of the nervous strain which the constant dread of ment of the blockade and the great battle of July 3, followed by a nervous collapse. He told how, after he reached Denver in his weakened condition, he repeatedly refused to lecture, only consenting finally because his efforts might be of benefit in a financial way to the Young Men's Christian association, himself declining to re-

Chaplain McIntyre, in his lecture of August 8, stated that Mr. Scott of the Union Iron works had for years been trying to secure a battleship contract, but on account of the greater influence of the eastern builders with the government and the idea that prevailed in the east that westerners could not build battleships, he had been unsuccessful until the awarding of the contract for the Oregon. He then praised the construction, but witness heard nothing about "politicat pulls" nor to the effect that eastern con-

Chaplain McIntyre, the defendant, was then put on the stand. He said that he was in exceptionally fine physically condition when he sailed from San Francisco on board ing through the intestines and coming out i the Oregon, when it started on its memorable voyage around Cape Horn. He told the story of that trip. He said that while passing through the tropical regions the vessel was placed in a condition of readiness for battle. Hatches and gangways were closed, preventing the circulation of fresh air. The temperature ranged from 95 to 107 degrees in his quarters. The ice machine failed to work satisfactory, so that
