

SOCIETY IN A DIZZY WHIRL

Marriages and Engagements and Comings Out Keep People Busy.

RECORD OF LAST WEEK STANDS HIGH

Some Notable Supplicants Announced and Four Queens Added to the Long List of Omaha's Stately and Beautiful Young Women.

"If I were going to announce my engagement I'd wait while all things cooled off a bit," remarked a prominent society girl the other day.

Cupid had not been the whole thing by a great deal, though his manifestations have been numerous of late.

"You'll get all that a-comin' to you, and a whole lot more before you get through," was the timely salutation extended to one of the debutantes of the last week by a girl who has run through the whole gamut of society affairs.

The debutantes who were formally presented during the last week came in pairs. There were two pairs, and they were all queens.

Aside from the brilliant coming-out parties given in honor of Misses Marie Cronau, Bessie Towle, Lydia Moore and Eva Kennard there were during the week several notable receptions.

Delightful in every way was the afternoon tea given by Mesdames Dell H. Goodrich and De Vere Sholes at the residence of the latter, 1117 South Thirty-second avenue, on Tuesday afternoon.

During the coming week there will be a number of small affairs. The Cotillon club will make its bow for the winter season at a party to be given at Morand's hall.

Eight Dinner Parties and a Dance. The "eight charming hostesses who leagued themselves together to make their party so happy" yet once again! gave eight pretty dinners on Wednesday evening, which were followed by a palm dance at Forest Hill.

Mrs. J. E. Summers, Jr., gave a white rose dinner, silver candelabra with moonlight shades. Easel plate cards with hand decorated terrapinch figures. Covers were laid for twelve.

Mrs. George Mercer had a pink rose dinner, the decorations including silver candelabra with pink rose shades. There were covers for eight.

Mrs. Arthur C. Smith gave a yellow chrysanthemum dinner, with guest cards for twelve. Mrs. Warren Rogers gave a red rose dinner, with covers laid for six.

Mrs. Peck entertained at a yellow chrysanthemum dinner, with yellow plate cards. There were covers for twelve.

Mrs. Myron Learned entertained ten at dinner. The color decorations were yellow. The dance was the most brilliant of the season.

The Kountze residence was lavishly adorned in palms and long stemmed chrysanthemums. The orchestra was stationed in the south end of the hall. The color scheme of the dining room was yellow. There were eighty guests present.

Debutantes Are Launched. The festivities given in honor of the coming out of Misses Eva Kennard and Lydia Moore by Mrs. Frank Kennard consisted of a reception on Thursday afternoon and a dance on Friday evening. They could well be called a rowdy party.

On Thursday evening in the spacious residence was a veritable rose bower. The color scheme in the reception hall was pink. The drawing room to the left was fragrant and beautiful with great clusters of La France roses. The piano was literally buried with these blossoms. In front stood the receiving party.

Mrs. Frank Kennard was gowned in a black brocaded grenadine over black silk, appliqued with white satin bowknots. Miss Kennard wore an elegant cream mouseline de sole applique with Breton lace. Lace insertion and frills of narrow ribbon gave the flaring skirt an overskirt effect. The bodice had a yoke and sleeves of lace with butterfly shoulder knots.

Mrs. Moore wore a tulle silk with trimmings of liberty silk. Mesdames Harry Deuel, Harry Jordan, Samuel Burns, R. C. Moore and George C. Towle assisted through the rooms in entertaining.

Glowing meteor roses formed the principal decoration of the dining room. From the center of the polished mahogany there gleamed a great bank of these roses, flanked on either side with silver candelabra, the candles shaded with the prevailing color. Great ropes of smilax were caught from the corner of the room to the chandelier. Large sprays of cut glass stood on the sideboard filled with roses. Mrs. Charles Wilhelm served chocolate and Mrs. Richard Carrier coffee. Miss Mabel Taylor wore an exquisite Dolly Varden pink and cream striped silk, sprinkled with dainty flowers; Louis XIV vest of rose silk. Miss Louise Squires wore a fitted rose-colored organza; desollette. Miss Grace Allen, who wore a cut cloth suit with a white tuxedo Van Dyke vest, assisted in the dining room.

Punch was served in the library. The vases used here were American Beauties, and all the appointments of the room were in touch with the color of this flower. Miss Beulah Sharp served the punch. She wore an extremely pretty gown of mouseline de sole of the American Beauty color, with black lace insertion.

On Friday evening the long drawing room and the dining room were transformed into a ball room. The orchestra and piano were stationed in the hall, while nearly 100 young dancers celebrated the double debut. Elegant refreshments were served in the library.

Dual Debut. On Tuesday Misses Bessie Towle and Marie Cronau were joyfully welcomed into the gay and happy throng called society through a reception given by Mrs. George C. Towle, followed by a brilliant dancing party in the evening at the elegant residence of Mr. and Mrs. Towle, 124 South Twenty-fourth street.

The guests were received in the east drawing room by Mrs. George C. Towle and the two fair young debutantes. The floral decorations of the handsome residence were artistic. The large reception hall was prettily ornamented with palms. The drawing room was banked with palms and a profusion of La France roses. Yellow chrysanthemums predominated in the library, while the dining room was in a room of more solemn occasions, but she speedily forgets it when she catches the bright faces of the buds that are to take society by storm.

"You'll get all that a-comin' to you, and a whole lot more before you get through," was the timely salutation extended to one of the debutantes of the last week by a girl who has run through the whole gamut of society affairs. And she ought to know, for the few seasons that she has helped to enliven have been up to the limit, and she has never been accused of being reticent. It was a curious welcome for an old girl to hand out to a bud, but "it's proper, so it goes."

The debutantes who were formally presented during the last week came in pairs. There were two pairs, and they were all queens. No wonder Dame Society felt rich. What a hand! Which one of the four was the queen of hearts is a matter of futurities, or will be answered by the sporting editor in the regular department of questions and answers. No answers by mail.

Aside from the brilliant coming-out parties given in honor of Misses Marie Cronau, Bessie Towle, Lydia Moore and Eva Kennard there were during the week several notable receptions. That of Mrs. Wilhelm, in honor of Mrs. George H. Palmer, was one of the largest affairs of the season.

The star event of the week for the upper segment of the society circle was the double bill presented to a large audience on Wednesday. The eight dinner parties served to blocks of eight and ten ten persons were beautiful affairs throughout, and the dance at the home of Miss Kountze, which followed was a magnificent occasion, well sustaining the reputation of the hostess as an entertainer.

During the coming week there will be a number of small affairs. The Cotillon club will make its bow for the winter season at a party to be given at Morand's hall. The Murphy-Love nuptials on Thursday at high noon will attract quite a number of the many friends of the contracting parties from both sides of the river.

Eight Dinner Parties and a Dance. The "eight charming hostesses who leagued themselves together to make their party so happy" yet once again! gave eight pretty dinners on Wednesday evening, which were followed by a palm dance at Forest Hill. The dance was given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Kountze. The story of the dinner parties follows:

Mrs. Alice A. Peterson gave a Persian violet dinner. In the center of the table was a silver candelabra with shades of natural flowers, flanked on either side with plateaus of violets. There were name cards for eight.

Miss Grace Allen entertained at dinner with covers for twelve. Her guest cards followed the popular fad and were bowknots decorated with water-color heads, the handwork of a popular young society woman.

Mrs. J. E. Summers, Jr., gave a white rose dinner, silver candelabra with moonlight shades. Easel plate cards with hand decorated terrapinch figures. Covers were laid for twelve.

Mrs. George Mercer had a pink rose dinner, the decorations including silver candelabra with pink rose shades. There were covers for eight.

Mrs. Arthur C. Smith gave a yellow chrysanthemum dinner, with guest cards for twelve. Mrs. Warren Rogers gave a red rose dinner, with covers laid for six.

Mrs. Peck entertained at a yellow chrysanthemum dinner, with yellow plate cards. There were covers for twelve.

Mrs. Myron Learned entertained ten at dinner. The color decorations were yellow. The dance was the most brilliant of the season.

The Kountze residence was lavishly adorned in palms and long stemmed chrysanthemums. The orchestra was stationed in the south end of the hall. The color scheme of the dining room was yellow. There were eighty guests present.

The Cotillon club will give its first party December 8 at Morand's hall. Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Kountze, Miss Kountze, Miss Peck and Miss Anderson constitute the committee on arrangements.

Fifty invitations have been issued by Mrs. John C. Wharton for a formal luncheon to be given at her residence on Wednesday at 1 o'clock. The tables will be small, round ones and arranged to form the letter "T."

The marriage of Miss Pauline Whiting Lowe of this city to Lieutenant William Wells of the Tenth United States cavalry, U. S. A., will be solemnized at the Unitarian church on Thursday of this week at noon. It will be a military wedding. The best man will be Lieutenant David Stone of the Twenty-second infantry and the matron of honor will be Mrs. S. L. Bell, the bride's sister. Immediately after the ceremony Lieutenant and Mrs. Murphy will go to Fort Douglas, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Miss Alvina Weller of Grand Island, Neb., and Mr. Howard Leavitt of Grand Island, formerly of New York City, were married at the home of Canon Robert Doherty in this city on Tuesday at noon. The bride was gowned in an elegant green cloth tailor-made suit. The bodice had an apple green vest with Limerick insertion. The jacket was richly braided in black. Misses Louise Doherty and Mae Hetzel of Avoca were bridesmaids. Mr. David Leavitt of New York City, nephew of the groom, was best man. The rectory was artistically decorated with roses and chrysanthemums. After the ceremony an elegant luncheon was served. Name cards were placed for seventeen. Mr. and Mrs. Leavitt left on the afternoon train for an extended eastern trip. Mr. Leavitt is the son of the late David Leavitt of New York City. The bride is a graduate of Brownell Hall. Pacific Coast Forests. The Pacific coast forests are "inexhaustible" - far from it - but, with proper use and care, says the Engineering Magazine, they are a valuable resource to the future needs of home and foreign consumption. The forests now standing are mature and are being cut in a systematic manner. They are adapted only to timber growing. Moreover, the native species, if protected from fire, as a rule, readily reproduce. The lumber industry is a legitimate and necessary business, despite certain objections. If properly managed, its future has more in store for it than all that has been held by herold fields have yielded.

Explanation in Order. Detroit Journal: "This little pig went to market," sang the happy mother, and the child laughed in glee. No! H. Shortness - Shortness Hamm, the husband of a father. "I began over in Kansas when things were wild and booming out there," relates the veteran newspaper man in the Detroit Free Press. "I was as ambitious as a society belle with a rival and there wasn't any chance I wouldn't take to score a scoop. "There was a big murder trial on about twenty miles back in the country. The man who had been murdered was a wealthy, popular ranchman and the whole community was awaiting the outcome of the trial with the greatest expectancy. One evening at 5 o'clock the jury was sent out to deliberate and to decide the fate of the prisoner at the bar. At 11 o'clock the judge announced that he would wait no longer, but would convene court in the morning and see if the jury had agreed. The other reporters scattered. I sat on the court house steps wondering if there was not some way in which I might immortalize myself. "Anyone to have seen me running to the hotel a few minutes later would have thought I was crazy or going for a doctor. I bought a box of fine cut, opened it, placed a note inside, fixed the thing up to look as though it had never been tampered with, hurried back and induced a deputy to pass the tobacco in to Bill Thompson, a special friend of mine. At 1 o'clock a note fluttered from the jury room. Ten minutes later I was riding like wild for the office. I dashed through town at a Paul Revere gallop, sprang from the saddle and just stepped to speak with a man in his shirt sleeves, his face daubed with printers' ink. "How is it?"
