KILLS HIS WIFE AND HIMSELF.

Frank Brush of Fort Madison Guilty of Murder and Suicide.

FORT MADISON, Ia., Dec. 6 .- Frank Brush murdered his wife at noon today and then committed suicide. They had lived unhappily for several years and had decided to separate. This morning they repaired to a lawyer's office and had separation papers drawn, then left the office together. As they started downstairs Brush stepped back and without warning shot his wife back of the right ear. She rolled to the bottom of the steps and died as those who first reached the scene were picking her up. Lawyer Casey left his office upon hearing the pistol shot and reached Brush's side as he turned the weapon upon himself. Brush caused Casey to keep his distance by threatening him with the pistol and then deliberately placed the weapon to his temple and shot himself, dying instantly. Each was about 30 years of age. They leave one child.

Some of the aldermen insist that the mayor should call a special meeting for the purpose of disposing of the bids one way or the other. As the property owners will not consent to have the paving laid at the prices contained in the bids, there will be but one thing for the council to do and that is to reject them. There are some who claim to know that it will be useless for the city to advertise again for bids on asphaltum, as owing to there being no plant for such paving in this city, bids at a lower figure than those already submitted cannot be secured. As the cost of readvertising is only a matter of a few dollars some of the aldermen are in favor of doing so. There is plenty of time, they say, before the matter need be finally settled, as no paving can be laid until spring, and between this and that time there will be ample opportunity to find out if asphaltum cannot be laid in this city at a price approximating that charged for similar work across the river. It is understood, however, that since the bids on the asphaltum were received a number of the property ownwho were at first in favor of this material now say that they see it will be considerably more expensive than brick and are anxious to see the street paved with vitrified brick. An Eagle Grove man has in his possession a curious medal which he dug up while out in Washington state. On its obverse side is a picture of President Monroe, with the lettering in a circle, "James Monroe, Presi-dent of the United States, A. D. 1817." Or the reverse side are pipes and tomahawks crossed and below them two clasped hands, one the naked hand of an Indian and the other the gloved hand of a white man. The medal is a counterpart of one owned by a Waterloo jeweler and which was found in Nebraska. It commemorates a compact en tered into with the Indians.
