BELLES AND BEAUX ARE KEPT ON THE MOVE

Brilliant Events Follow One Another in Rapid Succession Just Before the Coming of the Lenten Season.

Brilliant events have followed each other in rapid succession during the last elx days termined to crowd in as many gay affairs as possible during the one short week that yet remains before the sad and solemn season of Lent will call a halt, and a deadly quiet and depressing duliness will reign supreme over the gay world, and the happy faces of society's devotees will wear a sweet though sad expression. The numerous festivities and brilliant gatherings of these last two pre-Lenten weeks will make the contrast all the greater, but they will also be food for pleasant memories and reflections, and so cheer one and all the members of Omaha society through the sad, long days

A good many of the younger set will be busy during the coming week selecting appropriate valentines in honor of their favorlie saint's day and practicing mysterious and disguised caligraphy in order to completely deceive the fortunate or unfortunate recipients thereof. Everybody has been really altogether too busy to be indisposed even ever so slightly, and indeed the dreaded and unwelcome intruder in many homes has at length discovered that he is entirely de trop, and so his name-gripthe unbending severity and ley front exhibited by the clerk of the weather have been utterly disregarded by the swell set. frost than he has been able to inflict upon society's loyal in-spite-of-all-weather devo-

The most notable events of the many swell affairs which have occurred during the last six days were the elaborate and exquisitely appointed luncheon given by Mrs. Harbach in honor of Mrs. Benjamin F. Smith, and the elegant and perfectly devised whist luncheon given by Mrs. Frederick Davis, the card party given by Mesdames E. M. and W. W. Morsman, Mrs. Contant's kensington luncheon and the delightful dancing party given by Mrs. C. W. Hamilton in honor of her daughter.

Judging by the many entertainments which appear on the social calendar for the coming six days this week will be as important and enjoyable a one in the annals of Omaha society as its immediate predecessor. It really is most thoughtful and considerate of the tactful hostesses and talented promoters of brilliant affairs to afford so many chances to the sweet young debutantes of the fast-fleeting season, and indeed to all who are in the front rank of Omaha's social world, to air their ravishing tollets as many more times as possible before the black veil is drawn, and they must all, alas! retire from the gay world for a brief season and become reconciled to the depressing gloom which will hang like a heavy mantle over all.

Morris-Brady.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season was that of Miss Alice A. Brady of this city to Mr. Francis Joseph Morris of Cheyenne, Wyo., which took place at the Church of the Sacred Heart on Wednesday morning. The bride was very becomingly gowned in cream satin with pearl trimmings. Her veil was artistically draped and held in its place by tiny white resebuds. She carried a bouquet of exquisite bride's roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Suste Brady, sister of the bride, looked extremely pretty in pink and carried bridesmaid roses. The bridal party was ushered to the altar to the strains of the "Wedding March," from Lohengrin, by Messrs, D. E. Murphy and E. J. Mahoney. Closely following in the order named came the groom, Mr. Joseph Morris, and his best man, Mr. Dan F. Lee, the bridesmaid. Miss Susie Brady and finally the bride, leaning on the arm of her father, Mr. Philip F. Brady. The imposing ceremony of the Catholic church was performed by Rev. Father Judge. A nuptial mass was celebrated, at which the numerous friends of the bride ettended, attesting to the popularity and esteem in which she is held. During mass Mr. W. R. Moran rendered Wiegand's "O, Salutaris," and Miss Rose A. Brady, another sister of the bride, and Mr. J. V. Brennan sang "Holy Mother Guide Their Footsteps," in a most impres sive manner, while Miss Margaret Cannor presided at the organ. After an elaborate wedding breakfast had been served at the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs Morris left for their future home at Chevcane, where they will be at home to their many friends after March 1.
