SHIPMENT AND DISTRIBUTION OF MONEY

Instructive Computations on the Cost of Planting and Pumping Civilization in the Philippines-Supplies Needed.

The money sent to the Philippines every our troops in the east. month to pay the American land forces, if all of it were in gold, would weigh almost exactly a long ton-precisely speaking, 2,220 pounds. If all in aliver it would tip the scales at 35,400 pounds. Thus it appears tracts, However, one can say that the exthat in wages alone the army in the archipelago consumes seventy-four pounds of gold labout 20 cents. Reckoning it at this rate, per diem, or 1,180 pounds of sliver every the total is easily calculated. There are now day. Putting it otherwise, our fighting mer on the islands draw from the treasury of and officers. The officers number about 850, the United States a little over three pounds which estimate leaves 27,150 men to be fed. of gold per hour or about four-fifths of an ounce every minute.

The pay of the American troops in the far-distant archipelago amounts to $600,000 argument against expansion, but merely to a month. Just about every sixty days a paymaster leaves San Francisco for Manila with $1,200,000 in cold cash. This money is placed by the War department to the credit of Colonel Cox, chief paymaster of the department of the Pacific at the sub-treasury in San Francisco. He hands it over to the officer selected to convey it to the Philippines and it is taken directly from the sub-treasury to the steamship, under guard by a file of soldiers.

Most of the money is in gold, double eagles, eagles and half-eagles. This is chiefly because silver weighs so much; but there is some silver also, in dollars and in subsidiary coin, as well as a few thousand dollars in notes. United States notes have not yet obtained general recognition in the Philippines and not being easily disposed of on that account, gold and silver are more convenient for ordinary dealings. Another objection to silver out there is that The "sales articles" referred to include varipeople in that part of the world are accustomed to accept the white metal at or canned fruits to bottled mince-meat; pens near its bullion value, and they do not realize that Uncle Sam's stamp makes it thread and needles, tobacco, and even candy, worth 100 cents on the dollar. Gold, on Great quantities of merchandise of this sor the other hand, "goes" everywhere.

Bags of Coin.

At the sub-treasury the money is put up in bags-the gold in sacks of $20,000 each, and the silver in bags of $1,000 each. The bags are packed in wooden boxes specially made for the purpose. It is necessary that the boxes shall be strong, because of the pounds avoirdupois, while silver dollars weigh 59 pounds for every 1,000. Two bags of silver, or five bags of gold go to each ectly 291 pounds and represents $100,000, and weighs 118 pounds.

Fractional silver, however, weighs less-$1,000 worth of it tips the scales at a little over fifty-five pounds-and of such subsidiary coins considerable quantities are sent to Manila, where change is needed as much as in this country. Before the outbreak of hostilities with the natives practically all of the cash forwarded to the Philippines was in gold, but the proportion of silver is increasing, and the next consignment will include quite a lot of nickels. These last, of course, are very heavy for the value represented, $1,000 worth of them weighing 220

The boxes in which the money is packed are of white pine an inch thick, and are put together with screws which are countersunk and further secured, each one of them, with a seal. On the top is written the name of the paymaster who is to have charge of the cash, with the words "Manila, P. I." The boxes, with their precions loaded upon a wagon that is like a huge safe held Tuesday evening in the city hall. on wheels, and, guarded by the soldiers, are conveyed to the transport in waiting. The steamship, as is ordinarily the case with passenger vessels of her class, has on board burglar-proof vault. In this place of security the money is deposited, to be removed only on reaching Manila.

Paying the Soldiers.

When the steamship arrives at Manila the pay officer in charge eyes to it that every box of money taken out of the specie room is intact, with seals undisturbed. Under guard by a file of soldiers they are carried ashore, and are handed over to the senior paymaster at Manila, who verifies their contents and receipts for them. Then, as they are required, this chief custodian of the funds doles them out to the subordinate paymasters. Pay day comes once every two months in the Philippines.

Each paymaster is assigned to pay certain troops, and if the latter happen to be in the field he must follow them and set up the "pay table" in the camp, under the shelter of a tent. Maybe the pay table is an empty keg: it matters not. The money is carried along in a small "field safe," which is a portable steel box. Waiting their turns in line, the soldiers receive what is due them according as their names appear on the muster roll at the pay officer's elbow. Volunteer officers must come to the pay table like the men to get their wages, bu officers of the regular army get their remuneration in a more dignified fashion, pre-

It is magnificent to see the young girl face the future so fearlessly, but it is not life. No young woman is ready for married life unless her physical condition is up to the standard of marriage, in the health of all the delicate womanly organs, and rarely is that the case.

Young women entering upon the state of marriage will find no friend so helpful as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives vigor and elasticity to the organs peculiarly feminine, prevents the drains that ruin the health, and makes the ordeal of motherhood so easy that it is practically almost painless.

"At an early stage of married life," writes Mrs. Flora Arn, of Dallas, Jackson Co., Mo., "I was greatly bothered with painful periods, also a troublesome drain which rendered me very weak and untit for work of any kind. I became so thin there was nothing left of me but skin and bone. My husband became alarmed and got me a bottle of 'Favorite Prescription.' After he saw the wonderful effects of that one he got me two more, and after I used those up there was no more pain, and I began to gain in flesh very rapidly."

The bit of missionary work that was done y the members of the Omaha Wheel club when they invited the city councilmen to attend a smoker a week ago has resulted in an appropriation of $200 by the council for the purpose of putting the Florence bicycle path into repair. The councilmen have also

It is not expected that this amount of money will be needed to repair the path, as it is not in very bad shape. LARGE AMOUNT OF UNPAID BACK TAXES

Bad Effect on Credit of City-More Payments, However, Are Being Made Than in Any Year Since Boom Exploded.

City Treasurer Edwards is preparing to make another determined effort to secure the collection of the great amount of delinquent taxes standing unpaid on his books and especially of the delinquent taxes against which a considerable number of interest bearing warrants are outstanding. Within the next few days every taxpayer who has not paid his taxes of this character will be in receipt of a statement of his delinquency, accompanied with a request that he immediately forward a check to settle the account.

The amount of these delinquencies is having a bad effect upon the credit of the city. This does not result so much from cases where the regular tax is delinquent, but injury is being done by the delinquent special The warrants issued against the taxes. regular tax are sure to be taken up in a comparatively short time, as a general levy may be made to look after them and it may even be enforced. The conditions surrounding the warrants issued against special taxes, however, are different.

When warrants are issued to pay for the work that is done in any improvement district the holders must wait for their cash until the property owners in that district pay in the money assessed against them. The tax may not be paid for years and the holders of the warrants must wait. As a consequence the warrants are not readily negotiable, especially as there is always a chance that the tax levy will be knocked out on some technical grounds. There are today warrants against special improvement districts that have been outstanding ever since 1887.

This difficulty could be overcome if the tax collection laws were what they might be. Under the existing statutes the courts have declared that a tax title is not perfect. The consequence is that a piece of property may be offered at tax sale time and again and enough will not be offered for it to cancel the taxes. Property owners are aware of this fact, of course, and if they are not able to pay their special taxes they let them go until they can pay or have an opportunity to sell and wish to give a clear deed. Even in the latter cases the purgreat weight of their contents. This is the way that City Treasurer Edwards explains the large amount of unpaid taxes. Such delinquency on January 1, last, was $1,352,765.53. Since then $67,603.88 in special taxes have been levied and the colections have been $103,004.32, leaving a balance of delinquent taxes at the present date of $1,317,365,09. On January 1 the outstanding warrants against these taxes aggregated $343,110.98. Others to the amoun of $20,061.58 have been issued since that date, and the amount of those taken up has been $47,886.05, leaving $315,286.51 outstanding warrants at date.

"Holders of these warrants seem to think that the treasurer's department has not used due diligence in efforts to secure payment of these special taxes," says City Treasurer Edwards. "As a matter of fact, vertised each year. When the bottom fell out this consent of the Board of Education the property was left on their hands and a large amount of taxes was piled up against them for improvements that were put in in anticipation that the good times would continue. These hard times, however, are now passing. Since I have been in this office I have never seen so many delinquent taxes paid as this year, and with the continuance of the prosperity that is upon us I have little doubt that relief will be brought to holders of special tax warrants."
