Governor Makes a Mistake in Naming Men for the Brand Commission.

POPULIST PAPER OBJECTS TO W. C. CAVEN

Judge Frost Denies Petition of Bartley Bondsmen for Restraining Order Against Smyth from Prosecuting Them.

LINCOLN, May 29 .- (Special.)-It seems the governor has made another mistake in his appointments on the State Brand commission and has stirred up trouble in northwest Nebraska. The following from the Crawford Bulletin, a populist paper, regarding the appointment of W. C. Caven lowing paragraphs: shows up some of the peculiar political characteristics of that part of the state:

The news of his appointment to a position by a populist governor will fall like a wet blanket on the majority of populists of this territory, who consider him, in a political sense, as full of tricks as a dog is of fleas. He is not backward or sneaking about his operations, and is aware that there are a large number who, though outside of politics, place full confidence in him. would not trust him in political operations any further than they could throw a male critter of the bovine species by the caudal appendage, in evidence of which he stated that he failed to vote at the last general election because the "cusses would accuse him of voting he regulatern ticket." He professes to be a democrat, but playfully votes in a populist primary, allows himself to be elected a delegate to populist county and state conventions, and then carries himself during the campaign in such a manner as to create the suspicion that he is the distributor of republican "boodle," even to the extent of being necused of causing republican whisky to be sent to a strong populist precinct in order to influence votes in favor of the republican legislative ticket. The appointment may have been made on the ground that he is a political horse that requires "bitching," but as hear as we can learn, he is considered especially among populists, "a tricky political broncho," and liable to make a "break" at any time in any direction, no matter how he is

The temporary injunction is also vacated. Judge Frost expressed his willingness to have the case argued again before the full bench and this decision will probably prevent the prosecution of the bondsmen at the present term of the district court in Omaha. The written opinion of the court in this case is as follows:

This is an application for a temporary injunction. Because of the finality of the court's order, if the application is denied, the plaintiffs should be given the benefit of all doubt. It may also be said that the plaintiffs present a bill which appeals plaintiffs present a bill which appeals to which they do not hold any special restrongly to the conscience of the court, a lation, is really a suit against the state." bill which shows that as between them and the Omaha National bank, they are sureties and it is principal. this court.

Briefly stated, the plaintiffs ask the district court of Lancaster county to restrain William A. Poynter and Constantine J. Snoth, who, it is alleged, are respectively governor and attorney general of the state of Nebraska; their deputies and successors in office, from prosecuting in the district ourt of Douglas county a suit pending therein in behalf of the state, and against ex-State Treasurer Bartley and his bondsmen. The injunction is prayed for only as to one item in that suit, amounting to $201.884.05. As to that item, this court is asked to determine whether it was embezzled by Bartley, and if it was, to order that the Omaha National bank and the bondsmen on its depository bond be com-perled to pay said amount and to fully exonerate the plaintiffs from the payment thereof. The sum in question was on de-posit to the credit of the state treasurer in Omaha National bank, but was drawn out by the check of the state treasurer to illegally pay a warrant which had been is-sued for the sole purpose of transferring from the general to the sinking fund the lost to the latter by the failure of "About ten years ago I began to have trouble with my stomach," writes Mr. Win. Comolly, of sis Walmit St. Lorain, Ohio. against public policy and against the comity which it is essential should exist between the co-ordinate courts of this land. Let it be borne in mind that the Douglas county district court possesses just as ample powers to relieve from the injustice complained of as does this court. If the injunction asked can be granted, then there is logically no reason why some other court, or indeed, the district court of Douglas county, could not in turn enjoin the plaintiffs from prosecut-ing this action, providing the jurisdiction could be obtained over them. Conflicts of jurisdiction of this character would necessarily result in lessening the respect of the public for the courts, nor do former adjudications sanction such procedure. The law as announced by the better considered cases, gives to the court first acquiring jurisdiction the power to proceed to a final determination, and injunctions are ordinarily granted only to protect the jurisdiction of the court which has secured such priority. Our own supreme court has accepted this view. From the syllabus of the case of Prugh against the Portsmouth Savings bank, 45 Neb., 414, are taken the fol-

"Courts, Jurisdiction, Injunction-After a federal court has acquired jurisdiction of the parties and subject matter of a controversy a state court may not by injunction or otherwise interfere with the exercise of such jurisdiction.

"Accordingly, as a general rule, a state court will not enjoin parties to an action already in progress in a federal court from further proceeding therein."
"The exceptions to this rule are based upon the doctrine that in courts of concur-rent jurisdiction that which first has obtained jurisdiction of the parties and sub-ject matter retains it for all purposes, and by all necessary process will protect itself in the exercise of that jurisdiction." It is true that in that case the dispute over the jurisdiction arose between the state and federal courts. While there is a sentiment that the state courts cannot in-terfere with matters pending in the federal court, there are no reasons for the senti-ment except such as apply with equal force to conflicts between different state courts.

That was a case which appealed most strongly to the equitable powers of the court. It was sought to enjoin the United States marshal from selling a homestead and the court concedes in the opinion that the sale should be restrained, were it not that the state courts could not interfere. It is expressly said that the owner of the omestead must go to the federal court for

There are two chief reasons why, form-erly, it was necessary for courts of chancery to interfere by injunction with the litigants, in common law courts, to-wit: The latter provisions for bringing in new parties, which were frequently necessary in order to make a complete defense. These reasons, however, do not exist in this state. Under our code all distinction between actions at law and suits in equity are abolished. This permits not only ancillary proceedings be-fore the same court in order to obtain equitable relief, but also permits the setting up of an equitable defense in that very suit. There are also provisions for the bringing the governor and attorney general individ-ually, but it is in reality against the state. The state being sovereign cannot be sued except by legislative consent. The adju-dicated cases do not clearly draw the line of demarkation between what are suits against public officers, individually, and what are in reality suits against the state. The are in reality suits against the state. The attorney general has cited the case of Fitts against McGhee, which was decided by the supreme court of the United States in January of the present year. That is a suit against the attorney general of Alabama, and the court there held that:

"A suit to restrain officers of a state from taking any steps by means of judicial pro-ceedings, in execution of a state statute, ceedings. While that case is perhaps not absolutely conclusive of the one at bar, still it would seem to justify the attorney general's contention that the present suit is against the state. In answer to this the plaintiffs say that as the state has descended from the plane of its sovereignty by the institution for that purpose.

In view of what has already been said, of a suit concerning this matter in the disthe plaintiffs would be entitled to a temporary injunction were there no jurisdictional urge its sovereignty to prevent jurisdiction That rule loses its force when applied to the present suit, as it is an entirely independ-ent action. In order to get any benefit therefrom the plaintiffs must make this plea

In view of what has been said, the application for temporary injunction must be denied and the restraining order heretofore entered vacated. Plans for Memorial Day.

BRADY ISLAND SEES A RAILROAD. Burlington at Work on an Extension from Farnam. BRADY ISLAND, Neb., May 29.—(Special.)

This bit of a town, which claims to be the oldest in the state of Nebraska, but which has been stunted since its birth, is just now worked up over the prospect of becoming a railroad center. All of this is the result of the fact that the Burlington has commenced ome railroad construction in this neighborhood which is enveloped in enough of mystery to cause a world of speculation. Certainly a new railroad is coming. Surveyors have been laying out the line for it for some a gang of graders has started upon the route in two spots. This supplies enough foundstion for our dreams even if they know only the beginning point of the new road and are as yet in ignorance of its terminus. They know that it will leave the main line of the Burlington a few miles from Farnam, that it will run through Brady Island, that it will pass through Dawson and Lincoln counties and reach into Custer. It is pretty well established, too, that the extension is to run into Wyoming and that 423 miles of it have already been surveyed, but its terminal point is as yet unknown. Many peonect with the coast, but talk about this is

Farmers in this section of the country do not wish to disparage any other part of Nebraska, but they are confident that they own the richest and most fertile portion of 11, the local council having selected the the state. With the Burlington in this section in a position to compete with the Union Pacific it will redound to their benefit, as they will be able to more easily and cheaply ship their products.

Scott's Emulsion of Codliver Oil with Hypophosphites is pure and palatable.

For years it has been used for coughs and colds, for consumption, for those whose blood is thin or colorless, whose systems are emaciated or run down.

For children it means health and strength, stronger bones and teeth, and food for the growing mind.

Baby gains in weight and thrives when Scott's Emulsion is added to its milk.
