PRESIDENT M'KINLEY AS A TRAVELER

Record of Some of His Predecessors—Preparations Along the Road—Failure of the Project to Build a Special Train.

George Washington was the original traveling president and in his day it was no small undertaking to get about the country.

When President Cleveland made his first trip west he paid fare for himself and all the members of his party.

Hauling the president's special is an expensive undertaking. On most roads it means side-tracking all other business for the time.

To arrange the schedules for a president's journey is a matter of some difficulty.

stopped to chat with a friend like any other citizen and when they traveled no one thought of standing gazing at them or of forcing himself upon them for a handshake.

There was only one president who had a private car. That was Lincoln, the man above all others who was simple in his tastes.

Just after the election of President McKinley some railroad men got together and planned a special car for the president which was to be finer than that of Queen Victoria's.

Nothing has been done toward building this train and the project seems to have fallen through. So the president in his outings will use other persons' cars as most of his predecessors have done.

Sleeping car companies put at the disposal of the president their finest cars and railroad officers tender the use of their private coaches.

Only one railroad man disagrees with this proposition so far as is known. He was the general passenger agent of a line running east from St. Louis when President Harrison visited that city.

through certain places enroute to his destination. Public sentiment demands that he stop for five minutes here and for half an hour there.

The president has his own stenographer take note of what he says in his impromptu speeches and then carefully revises the manuscript.

The president chooses the members of his party. With the exception of the train crew every man or woman aboard is his guest.

A sick woman is to be pitied because she is miserable and because she has not yet learned that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will make her well.

The "Favorite Prescription" was developed over thirty years ago in the regular practice of Dr. R. V. Pierce who is a specialist in all cases of female weakness.

EXPATRIATED DUKHOBORTSI

Hon. Peter Jansen Visits a People Who Seek Haven of Rest.

PERSECUTED IN THEIR NATIVE COUNTRY

Promises of a Home, Free from Mo- lestation, and the Right to Re- lieve 7,000 to Canada.

Hon. Peter Jansen of Jansen, Neb., returned to his home yesterday from a trip to Manitoba, where he has spent the last two weeks in visiting the settlement of Dukhoborts in the northwest of that province.

Mr. Jansen found a village of tents, containing 7,000 men, women and children, who had left their homes in Russia that they might find a place where they can worship their Creator in any manner they please, and without being troubled by the terrible persecutions to which they are subjected.

The Dukhoborts correspond to the Quakers or Friends of this country. They exist as a separate community, making their own clothing and living in a simple, provident manner that wins the admiration of all who become acquainted with them.

They are neat in their dress, exceptionally cleanly in every way, and lead an exemplary life. While unsuccessful in his attempt to bring some of the sect to the United States, Mr. Jansen says he hopes that there may be brought over from their native land, which has persecuted them so long.

The fact that the "CAPADURA" cigar costs but five cents does not mean that it is a five-cent cigar. The average good ten-cent cigar cannot equal it in the smoking quality.

It is a long filler, clear Havana with a selected Sumatra wrapper. It is made and graded with as much care as cigars that cost two or three times as much.

It is Perfecto shape and 4 1/4 inches long. You can buy bigger cigars for the money, but no nickel cigar on earth equals it in quality.

It is always reliable—always a clear, firm, aromatic, satisfying smoke. See that it is wrapped as shown in the cut, and see that the pouch has not been broken.
