still the fusionists keep the unbearable trio on the pay roll and appropriate liberally to aid them in their flendish work. The chairman of the 1897 legislative committee says in his report that the commit-tee found one of our railroad secretaries guilty of taking $700 from the state treasury in violation of the law. But the governor and the attorney general being fusionists no attention was paid to this steal.

The oil inspection bureau is a political fraud and only increases the price of our oil. But still the fusionists do not abolish those offices. It is humiliating to see men who in the past held high and honorable positions now become willing to accept these fraud-ulent political jobs which should be abol-

Populists agreed that fitness and ability alone should govern in making appointments to office; but still at the state capital can be found men drawing from $1,000 to $2,000 a year safary who are there purely for political reasons and the clerical work they do is not worth over $100 a year.

Populists were offered good fruit if they helped to plant the tree of fusion, but they have been shamefully deceived in the crop they are harvesting.

Ride on Free Passes.

The greatest surprise and discouragement Nebraska populists ever suffered was to learn early in 1897 that the newly installed clerks and deputies at the state house were all, with one exception, using passes as regularly as republicans ever Populists had claimed for many years 'a pass was a bribe" and now they found their own men, entirely insincers and utterfy hypocritical, spending most of their time securing passes and traveling on free pass jaunts. Not only this, but the fusion officials were found to be riding on special trains purposely furnished by the railroads for themselves and their friends. They were found to be well supplied with Pullman passes, express and telegraph franks. The greatly neglected, prevented all the needed railroad legislation which populists had promised and made it impossible to secure proper assessment of railroads and other

To add to the shame the state officials appeared before the last legislature and boldly declared that passes, special trains and gifts tendered them by corporations were a blessing to the state. They also persuaded one Sturgess, fusionist, in the legislature, to so report and endorse this new-found public blessing. Fusionists now stand before the people in a discredited po-silion. They assumed office under good promises, but have proved false and have shamefully betrayed their trust. Honest populists, who care more for oure government than for office, should wash their hands of all these misdoings and repudlate the treacherous fusionists. They defy law, they rob the treasury, they "hold up" persons and corporations in their power and it is admitted they are more thoroughly bribed and corrupted by the corporations than were the officials that preceded them.

The intolerance and persecution at the state house against criticism is so severe that no one who objects to this high-handedness and insists on honest populist practices is allowed to remain there.

Bitter Crop. The fruit we are gathering from fusion is a bitter crop indeed. The loss to the state,

We call upon all populists in this state who care most of all for good government and the great principles of the populist party to join with us in making straight populist nom-inations and the election of such nominees. We say to all private citizens who accept passes from railroads and gifts from corpor-ations that they are doing what no one has a right to do. What they received for noth-ing must finally be paid for by the poor. We express our conviction that all who hold office of any kind and then receive corporation gifts are corrupt and entirely unfit It shall be our aim to nominate for office only such as we know will keep them-selves free of such corrupt practices. State Auditor Declines to Turn Over Documents of Insurance Department.

ACTS ON ATTORNEY GENERAL'S ADVICE

Mr. 5myth Informs Mr. Cornell that He is Afraid the Weaver Law "in Wenk in LINCOLN, June 30 .- (Special.) -- State Auditor Cornell, acting upon the advice of Attorney General Smyth, has decided not to turn over the books and records of the state insurance department to the newly-appointed nsurance commissioner until the validity of the Weaver bill, transferring the insurance department from his office to the governor's, is firmly established. It has been rumored at the state house ever since the law was passed by the legislature that the auditor would refuse to relinquish his control over the insurance department. He has consulted the attorney general on the subject and it that he has decided to restrain Commissioner ance books and records.

Attorney General Smyth today furnished Auditor Cornell with a written opinion regarding the law, asserting that the law is that it is unconstitutional. The attorney general's opinion was written in response to three questions submitted by the state auditor. The first was whether the law was constitutional. The second question was: "If I surrender the department will I be relieved of all responsibility arising from the transfer?" The third question was: "If it is constitutional will I be governed by the insurance laws passed prior to the adoption of the Weaver act and placing the regulation of certain classes of insurance companies under my control?

The attorney general's replies are not decisive, but it appears from his opinion that the law might be declared unconstitutional if it is contested in the courts. Regarding this question he replies that there is a good deal of doubt as to its constitutionality. He adds that the law is full of crudities and inconsistencies and that one point relating to its constitutionality is now before the supreme court. He closes his opinion with the following statement:

"In view of these facts I am of the opinion that house roll No. 191 should be submitted

Auditor Cornell stated this afternoon that he was inclined to follow the advice of the attorney general and to another person he stated that he would not allow the books of the insurance department to be taken out of his office until the constitutionality of the law was decided.

Brand Commission Meets Today. Secretary of State Porter has notified the nembers of the State Brand and Mark commission to meet in his office in the state capital building tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The first business to be taken up by the commission will be the appointment of a secretary or chairman and after this the various applications for permission to use certain brands will be considered in the order that they are received at the office of the secretay of state. The members of the Brand and Mark commission are M. J. Blewett of Sioux county, J. H. Quigley of Cherry county, S. P. De Latour of Duell county and W. F. Porter, secretary of state. It has been reported at the state house during the last few days that an effort would be made to secure the removal from the commission of M. J. Blewett, appointed on the recommendation of Governor Poynter to take the place of M. S. Caven, whose appointment was announced, but whose commission was held up on account of serious protests from populists of Sioux and Dawes counties. It attempt may be made to induce the governor to try a third man for the place. It s reported from Sioux county that Blewett is not a cattleman and that the only live stock he owns is an old horse. The law be men engaged in the cattle-raising busi-

Quite a number of applications for permission to use certain brands for marking cattle have been received at the secretary of state's office within the last few weeks and all of them returned, together with the fees enclosed. As the commission can take no official action in registering any brand until after July 1 it was thought best to return them and to accept or place on file only those received after the law goes into effect.

The first application received at the secretary of state's office tomorrow will be marked No. 1, the next one 2 and so on, so that if more than one person desires to use the same brand the first applicant will be the fortunate one.

Labor Laws.

Labor Commissioner Kent has distributed notices calling attention to the different labor laws that go into effect tomorrow. The most important of these are the statutes relating to child labor, fire escapes and female labor. Mr. Kent has carried on an extensive correspondence with merchants n various towns of the state regarding the law relating to female labor. He says that all are willing to obey the provisions of the act, but they are undecided as to how to

It provides that no male or female child under the age of fourteen years shall be employed in any manufacturing, mechanical or industrial establishment excepting during the vacation of the public schools, unless during the year next preceding such employment child has for at least twenty weeks attended some public or private school where the English language is taught. It is also provided that such employment shall not coninue unless the child employed shall attend chool every year. Children under the age of ten years are unconditionally prohibited working in any manufacturing, mechanical, industrial or mercantile estab lishment. The penalty for the violation of the provisions of this act by any owner, superintendent or overseer, is a fine of not less than $20 nor more than $50. The fire escape law provides that "Within six months after the passage of the act all buildings in this state which are four or s largely upon the latter's statements that more stories in height, excepting such as the Weaver law is full of inconsistencies are used for private dwellings exclusively but including flats and apartment buildings Bryant from taking possession of the insur- shall be provided with one or more metallic ladder or stair fire escapes attached to the outer walls thereof, and provided with platforms of such size and dimensions and such proximity to one or more windows of each weak in places; he does not care to say story above the first as to render access to

Quite a number of disastrous fires have occurred during Chief Weidman's term of office and the merchants of the city are also agitating his removal. Dr. Gilchrist had the rare honor conferred upon him at the late meeting of the general assembly in Philadelphia of an election to succeed Dr. Owens as the corresponding secretary of the Board of Home Missions. A paper from the Central Omaha congregation, setting forth the high esteem in which Dr. Gilchrist is held by his people and reluctantly acquiescing in his decision, consisting of Revs. J. H.
