

GO TO GEOLOGICAL FIELDS

Party of Scientists Will Visit Wyoming as Guests of Union Pacific.

WILL MAKE EXHAUSTIVE EXPLORATION

Recent Discoveries of Remarkable Curiousities arouse Interest of Scientists and Membership in Party Eagerly Sought.

Never before has such deep interest been taken in a geological expedition as is manifested by scientific men all over the United States who have eagerly accepted the invitation of the Union Pacific railroad to join an exploring party for the purpose of visiting the far-famed geological fields of Wyoming, which have been designated by Prof. Wilbur C. Knight, occupant of the chair of geology in the University of Wyoming, as "the greatest treasure-locked region in the entire world."

This expedition has been arranged by the Union Pacific officials because of the widespread interest which has been created among geologists and students by reason of the recent discovery of reptilian fossils of enormous size as well as other remarkable curiosities. Only those with a most vivid imagination can form any idea as to their size. Huge mammals of elephantine dimensions, mingled with numerous orders of large animals that have long been extinct, besides such as mammoths, rhinoceros, dogs, cats, elephants and monkeys; great sea monsters, fishes of innumerable description and fossil leaves that prove conclusively that in early ages Wyoming was the home of great forests of tropical and semi-tropical trees.

It is expected that fully 120 scientists, representing all of the larger universities of the United States, among them Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Cornell, American Museum of Natural History, New York, Smithsonian Institution, Northwestern, Chicago, Columbian-Field, and many others, will compose the party. They will take charge of the expedition, and the party will have as members correspondents of the press, representing some of the leading weekly and daily newspapers and illustrated periodicals.

The start will be made from Omaha Tuesday afternoon at 8:45, and the party will be transported in special cars to Laramie, where the exploration will begin. Mr. A. Darlow, of the passenger department of the Union Pacific, will escort the party to Laramie, and then Prof. Knight of the university of Wyoming will take charge. At Laramie the party will equip itself with all necessaries for an extended journey. It will probably consume forty days. The main direction will be northwest and the itinerary will be terminated at the Grand Canyon of the Platte. On the homeward journey a new route will be taken, so that the same territory will not be traversed twice, and the trip will consequently be as varied as it can possibly be made. It is purely for the benefit of geologists and everything will be done to make it a success from this standpoint. The geological fields of Wyoming by the distinguished scientists will make the trip a most important one, and its results will probably take a prominent place in the natural history investigations of the present century.

OLEO ROADBEDS ARE A SUCCESS.

Prevention of Dust the Principal Feature of the Oiling Process. A new departure in practical railroading has been taken in the recent experimental tests of the efficacy of oiling railroad beds. The originator of this idea advanced great claims for his discovery, and these roads which have tried it are more than pleased with the results. An oil, especially prepared for this use, which is odorless and non-inflammable, will be used. A special car in the center of the track and on the outside of the rails for four or five feet. The principal benefit of this crude oil is that it is a preventive of dust, and one application given the track keeps it free from dust for about a week. The advantages resulting from this are plainly apparent to railroad men. The prevention of dust does of necessity relieve the wear and tear upon machinery. It lessens the number of hot-boxes, and not only is the allaying of dust of benefit to a railroad from an economical standpoint, but it makes traveling much more bearable, and, naturally, enhances the pleasure of passengers. Another advantage of this oil is that track so treated does not absorb water. Moisture will not penetrate through the oiled outer crust, but runs off the track surface into the ditches, thus improving the roadbeds greatly. Vegetation is also destroyed by use of the oil. The few roads which have already experimented with it are more than pleased with the results. The only western road that has given the new discovery a trial is the Burlington, and four miles of its track on the Wyoming division have been treated with this crude oil. Superintendent Calvert seems to be well pleased with the experiment thus far, and is making arrangements to continue the work later in other places. It is estimated that it takes about 2,500 gallons of oil to the mile.

DISSOLVES THE VOTING TRUST.

The Oregon Railroad and Navigation Company Committee Acts. NEW YORK, July 15.—The executive committee of the Oregon Railroad and Navigation company has dissolved the voting trust which controls the property. The Central Trust company voting trustee will receive the voting trust certificates assigned to it and give temporary certificates until the original stock can be restored to the owners, about August 1. The trust agreement provided that holders of $2,000,000 of Oregon Navigation common stock could terminate the trust by providing an acceptable guarantee of payment of 20 per cent dividends on the preferred at 4 per cent a year. Ten per cent has already been paid, leaving only 10 per cent to be guaranteed. The dissolution was based on the application of the Oregon Short Line, owners of more than 250,000 shares of common stock, which company furnished acceptable bondsmen to guarantee 10 per cent dividends to be paid in the next two and a half years. The dissolution of the voting trust has no direct connection with a change of officers and directors. The stockholders will merely vote for their own choice at the next annual meeting. No slate has been made up, although the Union Pacific is in control by ownership of the Oregon Short Line. It is said that the dissolution of the trust has no direct connection with the Clearwater territorial controversy with the Northern Pacific.

Resist Rates for Handling Rice. NEW ORLEANS, July 15.—The determination of the railroad and Southern Pacific companies to resist the rates fixed by the railroad commission for the handling of rice from the country districts threatens seriously to interfere with the prompt transportation of this year's crop to market. To-day the new rates of the railroad commission go into effect and the Southern Pacific has brought a suit for injunction at Baton Rouge to prevent their operation on the ground that they are unjust. Captain J. B. Woods of the St. Louis & New Orleans line declares the steamboats will make no attempt to handle rice this season unless old conditions are restored.

Two more of the "1700" series of big locomotives recently ordered by the Union Pacific, have arrived from Dunkirk, N. Y. They are Nos. 1719 and 1720, and will be used for freight service. W. R. Kelley, general collector for the Union Pacific; H. S. Abbott, special master-in-charge, and G. M. Lamberton, general counselor, left Friday night in special car No. 100 for a visit to Denver.

A defective covering of the roof at the Burlington depot permitted an ugly blotch of water to mar the beauty of the ceiling. This has just been repaired by a new fresco and the roof is now in a sound condition.

DIES FROM NATURAL CAUSES

Coroner Finds There is Nothing Suspicious in the Death of Mrs. Caroline Nelson.

At a post-mortem examination of the remains of Mrs. Caroline Nelson, sister of Fritz Pries, one and one-half miles north of Florence, it was learned yesterday morning that the deceased had come to her death as a result of an aggravated case of peritonitis. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon, which was attended by two sons of Mrs. Nelson—Frank Nelson of Chicago and George Nelson of South Omaha—and a number of relatives.

When Mrs. Nelson was taken sick George Nelson was called to her bedside by his uncle, Fritz Pries. Mr. Pries told him when he saw her Thursday, July 6, that she was very ill and might not live long. As the young man returned to the city he was informed that if his mother died his uncle would bury her temporarily. Young Nelson came back to his work and went out to see his mother again the following Monday. He found that his mother was dead and had been interred by his uncle not far from the house. He expressed a desire to see her remains and they disinterred them. Then young Nelson learned that his mother had been buried in a coffin which had been used before. A brother of Fritz Pries had been killed accidentally ten years before, and the same coffin had contained his remains for a decade. When his sister died Pries wrapped her body in a blanket and buried it near the house. Later he disinterred the remains of his brother and buried the bones in the grave occupied by Mrs. Nelson's body, which was transferred to the old coffin and placed in a new grave.

When Frank Nelson was informed of his mother's death, he came here to make an investigation. He visited Coroner Swanson and induced him to have a post-mortem examination. Accompanied by Dr. J. C. Moore, D. W. O'Neill, Ed Brailey and Frank Nelson, Coroner Swanson went yesterday morning to make the desired investigation. The party found Fritz Pries at his home, but no arrangements had been made for exhuming the body. Pries declined to assist in digging up the coffin, again saying he had opened the grave twice, and did not propose to repeat the task. He secured a shovel and fork and let the party do the work. Each tried it for a few minutes, but all labor was too much for Frank Nelson finally hunted up a Dane to complete the job. The Dane removed the dirt until nearly to the coffin, when the odor became so offensive that he refused to complete his bargain. Again the party went to work and after the coffin had been opened by means of a lid of the coffin was removed. Straps were fastened around the body, and it was lifted toward the top, where it was laid beside the grave. Dr. Moore made an examination which convinced him that the deceased had died of natural causes. She had been ill for twelve years, and he gave peritonitis as the cause of her demise.

After the examination the grave was enlarged, the remains were transferred to a neat coffin and decently buried.

HIS VIOLIN IS SILENT NOW

Alf Lindbloom is Charged with Stealing $25 by His Alleged Chicago Wife.

While resting from his labors Friday afternoon Alf Lindbloom was arrested at his room, corner Twenty-sixth and Leavenworth streets, by Detectives Helfeld and Donahue, on the charge of being a fugitive from justice. A young woman who claimed to be his wife was also brought to the station with him.

Lindbloom has been in Omaha two weeks filling an engagement in a local concert hall. He is a violinist and has the reputation of being a good one. His trouble is due to a complaint lodged by a Chicago woman who claims to be his wife. She states that he stole $135 from her and left the city, taking another woman with him. He is charged by the Chicago authorities with grand larceny.

A message was received yesterday afternoon from the Chicago authorities requesting that Lindbloom be held, as an officer and Mrs. Lindbloom would leave there Saturday night for Omaha.
