

SUNSHINE FOLLOWS STORM

Visitors to the Exposition Have a Day of Real Enjoyment.

MANY STRANGERS PUT IN AN APPEARANCE

People from Out of the City Find Much to Please Them as They Pass Over the Grounds and Through Buildings.

At the exposition grounds yesterday all nature seemed to smile. The mud that was the result of the rain of the preceding day had dried up and left the streets and walks in perfect condition. This rain had also brightened up the lawns, giving them an appearance that indicated a May freshness.

One thing that was remarked upon yesterday was the number of strangers on the grounds, nearly all of whom were people from out of the city.

The exposition people are looking forward to a large attendance this afternoon. In the city the afternoon is practically a holiday.

Word has been received from Pine Ridge to the effect that the Indians have left there and that they will reach the city this morning.

WORK OF MANY NOTED ARTISTS

Fine Arts Building Filled with Pictures that Attract Attention.

Of all the buildings on the exposition grounds none attracts more attention than the one which houses the 1,000 or more paintings, water colors and sketches.

While the pictures may be seen to the best advantage during the day, they may be viewed at night, as all of the galleries are brilliantly illuminated.

Between the two sections of the building there is an open court, in which flowers and palms have been planted, while in the center a fountain is located, throwing out a stream of clear, sparkling water during the entire day.

In the New York collection a large painting on the south wall entitled "Summer," is especially pleasing. The sunlight of a summer day falls strong on the grass in the distance, while it filters and flickers through the leaves and branches of the orange trees.

Another gem in this collection is a marine scene by Sheppard. An expanse of sea and sky is lighted by a full moon, whose beams fall glimmering on the dark, billowing water.

Endorsed at Home

Such Proof as This Should Convince Any Omaha Citizen.

The public endorsement of a local citizen is the best proof that can be produced. None better, none stronger can be had.

of the fishing boats, is entitled "The Whimpers' Return."

"The Coming Shower" shows a rocky coast leading away to a green meadow in the foreground. The threatening weather is foretold by the soft, gray mistiness of the sky.

"The Founding of Maryland" shows the unloading of the ships' stores and the landing of the colonists with their flags and banners among the wondering aborigines.

All pictures of religious subjects are grouped in one room, where the statue of Christ, by Kelson of Boston, is placed.

"Lost in the Fog," while not a large picture, is yet full of feeling. A dense fog envelops a boat containing two fishermen, one of whom is blowing into a whistle.

A small painting by Schreyer is well named "On the Alert." An Arab, mounted on a magnificent black horse, is watching and listening alone in the wilderness for the sound of a parlor horn.

"Forging the Shaft," or "A Welding Heat," is a picture that is replete with life, toil and furnace heat.

A homely, yet wonderfully lifelike scene is that depicted under the title, "No Response." The interior of a seaman's home shows the parish priest hearing a boy with his catechism lesson, while the grandmother sits by, evidently much mortified by the ignorance the boy betrays to the listening priest.

Essentially sober in color, yet faithful in drawing and detail, is the interior view of the fisherman's shop entitled "The Hanging of Nets," by Elizabeth R. Coffin.

"A Critical Moment" represents a cowboy attempting to lasso an Indian, who, while riding at full speed, aims to shoot his pistol at the cowboy.

"Charity," by Girard, attracts much attention by reason of the completeness of the small details in the scene.

The exhibition of deep sea diving given by Captain Sorcho last evening was witnessed by a large delegation of photographers, who expressed much surprise at the data performed.

Over at the Streets of Cairo Fatima is doing her household work that pleased and amused to many last season.

The doors to the Philippine village are kept locked these days, none being admitted while the workmen are putting on the finishing touches in the theater and around the lake and the pavilion.

All of the soldiers who served in the Cuban campaign are greatly impressed with the spectacle of the West. The harbor, showing Hobson sinking the Merrimac in the harbor of Santiago. The little theater is run upon what is known as the electric plan.

The show "The Disappearing Woman" is designated by the name heretofore mentioned, it might more properly be called the "Disappearing Woman."

The high-diving carnival opened to a big house last night and did a great business all of the evening.

There is a good deal of interest being felt in the horse races that are to be pulled off on the half-mile track on the exposition grounds at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

On the racing there are three races—two pacing and one running—all with heats. The first pacing race will be of the 2:20 class with five entries. For this a purse of $150 has been hung up.

The running race is a free-for-all and promises to be a good one. Up to this time there have been five entries for each race.

MUSICAL FEATURES OF EVENING. The Venetian carnival was repeated upon the Lagoon Friday night and made a great hit.

The music for the occasion was furnished by Godfrey's band, the Indian band and the Hawaiian club, the members of the latter organization singing such popular Hawaiian airs as "Ninipo," "Walpunaolu" and "Alohae."

The universal opinion prevails that the members of the Hawaiian quartet are as fine singers as have been heard upon the exposition grounds and the mere announcement that they will sing in public is sufficient to bring out a crowd.

In carrying out the plan of the carnival last night the two bands alternated, while the Hawaiian quartet sang with the features. In addition to the singing of these features a number of the Indian boys rendered several vocal selections that were received in a most enthusiastic manner.

Assault on a Watchman. Young Fellow Who Had Been Refused Admittance to Exposition Grounds Seeks Revenge.

A watchman named Bloomfield, employed by Manager Craven of the Fair's spectacular fireworks on the exposition grounds, was assaulted Thursday night by a young fellow named Ben Willis, but was not seriously hurt in the conflict.

Since the opening of the exposition Willis has been employed as one of the Spanish soldiers who take part in the spectacular exhibition of Pain's Battle of Manila.

CONCESSIONAIRES AT MANAWA

Enjoy an Outing and Organize a Club to Repeat the Event Each Week.

The Midway moved over to Lake Manawa Friday afternoon, when most of the concessionaires and some of the employees took a day off to enjoy themselves.

The pluckers first took a swim in the lake and cultivated a good appetite for the outings which were served in the summer garden of the Manawa hotel.

The day was found to have been so well spent that a permanent organization was effected, the purpose being to hold frequent outings which would be open to all.

The supervising architect of the Treasury department at Washington has received word on the taking of the levels of the Federal building in Omaha. The levels have been taken every year, since the building was erected. The structure has settled five inches in that time, but the lowering has been practically uniform on all sides.

Owing to insufficient advertising the South Side Improvement club did not have a meeting Friday night. President Powers stated that the members had not been notified through the daily papers of the proposed meeting and therefore he would not try to hold one.
