Short foreheads, prominent brows, belong to the man of action. High, well-developed temples, to the man of thought. A perpendicular, flat forehead, with wrinkleess skin stretched tightly across it, may be briefly dismissed as the forehead of the fool. Eye bones which project so sharply as to cause the hair of the brows to bristle sentus for intrigue. L4 Hung Chang, the great Chinese minister, and Prince Bismarck are good examples of this class. A forehead square on the temples and retreating into the hair on either side is a sign of retentive memory and excellent judgment. Lord Kitchener of Khartoum has the typical forehead of a leader of men. Short, compressed, with prominent eye bones and thick, straight brows, square and receding on the temples. A man with this ous memory, and to act upon his conclusion with promptness and decision.
