Union Pacific and Burlington roads reached a satisfactory compromise Wednesday aftermoon on the claims for viaduct maintenance ing, but on the list the pupil charged with moon on the claims for viaduct maintenance which have been in controversy for years. The attorneys for the roads made a verbal promise, subject to the approval of the executives over them, to pay the city $20,000 as soon as a complete and final agreement shall soon as a complete and final agreement shall of the books and contains a card for every book is listed in three card catalogues. The concessions on the part of the city consist practically of a cancellation of the city attorney and other officials have long agreed could not be properly taxed against the roads, and the items of "ordinary repairs," which the law as it existed prior to 1891 obliged the city to pay. The roads on their part agreed to add to the undisputed portion of the claim, which is $15,119, two ttems of painting for $3,500 and $1,400. The sum thus made up amounts to about $60 over the $20,000 agreed upon, but the city committee was willing to scale the compromise off to an even figure.

The roads were represented by Judge Kelly and Judge Baldwin of the Union Pacific and Assistant General Solicitor Kelby of the Burlington, and the city by the special committee appointed for the purpose, consisting of the president of the council, the chairman of the council finance committee, the city attorney, city controller and city engineer. Judge Kelly opened the conference with the statement that it was the desire of the roads, for the purpose of this conference, to consider each item of the owim by itself and without any reference to the time which some of the items have He wished it understood that any tentative propositions that might be made were not to be held as prejudicing the case of the roads should no agreement be concluded and also that the final agreement should be subject to the approval of the head of each road. The city officials agreed to Judge Kelly called attention to the fact that prior to 1891 there was no law on the statute books authorizing the city to charge the roads for the maintenance of viaducts and that prior to 1893 there was no action of Hill. the council on record showing that the city had done so by regular process. The roads admitted and had been willing to pay a claim of $15,119, but they maintained that they should not be charged for lighting or watchmen. In the $7,400 remaining after the items of lighting and watchman there were some items the roads objected to and all these items were expenses incurred before 1893, before which time the city had their payment. The city had been without the authority to do so until 1891, and had no except the street car company.

First Proposition of the Roads. The roads then made their first proposition, which was to add to the undisputed portion half of the amount remaining in dispute after the elimination of the lighting and watchmen items, or a total amount

City Attorney Connell asked Judge Baldcontemplated in the fav imposing on the city the expense of "ordimary repairs." He admitted that painting might fairly be called an "extraordinary repair." Mr. Connell then proposed that the roads, instead of dividing in half the undisputed balance, should allow the two items of painting and add them to the undisputed portion, arguing that such an arrangement would be entirely just if it were true, as Judge Kelly said, that the painting was not an ordinary repair. The amount of such a compromise would be $20,069. After a little conference the attorneys for the roads virtually accepted the city's offer by agreeing to pay $20,000. This was satisfactory to the members of the committee each of whom expressed his conviction that the settlement would be a just one. President Bingham qualified his approval, with the statement that by itself and apart from the viaduct matter, he considered the setsent a good one, but that otherwise h would not be willing to approve of it.

It was then mutually agreed that the attorneys and the committee would recommend to the heads of the roads and to the city council respectively the acceptance and approval of the result of the meeting. The ttorneys for the roads reminded the city officials that the settlement of the claims upon the basis agreed upon was contingent on the previously expressed determination of the city not to allow the closing of Seventeenth street to be a bar to the viaduct agreement. In reply City Attorney Connell said that it would be a breach of faith on the part of the city not to stand by the resolution which had made this con-

J. N. Keow, from two miles north of North Loup on the edge of Greeley county came into town y esterday and brought with him some fine specimens of this year's crop. Mr. Keow states that he had put in sixteen acres of poratoes this year, and expected to gather in about 3,000 bushels. At a price of 25 cents a bushel, delivered at North Loup, the sixteen acres will bring him 3750. Two acres that he pianted in onlons will yield about 600 bushels, and from these he expects a handsome profit.

Mr. Keow brought with him a half a sackful of the potatoes and onlons, and finer specimens have not been seen in this city for a good many years. The potatoes are large and solid, requiring little or no washing, and are of a most unusual size.

Mr. Keow says that his corn crop is not new are not stringy and woody. The onlons, too, are of a size seldom seen.

Mr. Keow says that his corn crop is not unusually large, that planted on the highland having been hurned, but that on the lowland is magnificent, though the yield is not as great as it has been in other years. The hot weather retarded the ear growth somewhat, although the growth of the stalks has been unusually large.

creased to 160. Of this total sixty-five are taking the commercial course. This large number of High school pupils causes conlotted to the High school class in the Central school building. One more recitation room is badly needed for the High school class, but nothing can be done to relieve the pressure until the new building at Twenticth and O is completed. Superintendent Wolfe is doing the best he can to take care of all of the pupils and is giving general satisfaction in this respect. Frank Seykora, the newly elected principal of the High school, is making himself quite a favorite already, and appears to be entirely competent to handle the school in the manner in which Superintendent Wolfe desires. It is expected that more children will attend school in two weeks from now, and what to do with the increase is a question which the Board of Education will be called upon to seriously consider at the next meeting. Several outside rooms have already been engaged, but it may be necessary to make temsiderable crowding, as only four recitation gaged, but it may be necessary to make temorary arrangements for other rooms pending the erection of the proposed building. When some of the basement rooms, which are still incomplete, are ready the pressure may be relieved slightly, but not enough to make any material difference. The number increases so rapidly that several additional buildings will be needed to properly care for the children. Unless a new High school is erected next year at least two more ward schools will have to be built. A bond proposition for the erection of a High school will hardly carry at this time, but in some circles it is thought that if the Board of Education submits a proposition at the coming fall election for the construction of two ward school houses, then the people will endorse the movement. By the erection of ward buildings the overcrowded condition of the Central school could be relieved and more room given to the High school class, thus obviating for the time being the necessity of a High school building. This plan was talked of last spring, but as the High school project was up nothing came of i Now the members of the board have ample time in which to bring about the submission of a bond question for ward schools before the November election. If the matter is taken hold of at once it can probably be brought to a successful termination and Unexpected Happens and the Two Parties Are Still Far Apart.

NOTHING ACCOMPLISHED BY CONFERENCE

Committee from Carpenters' Union Calls on the Contractors and Owing to a Misunderstanding Nothing is Done.

The unexpected happened Wednesday evening relative to the carpenters' strike, for the controversy was not settled, as was anticipated it would be. A committee from the carpenters' union waited upon the contractors under the impression that the builders were ready to make them a proposition, while the contractors thought the committee called to make a counter proposition to the one they made Wednesday night. The result was that nothing was accomplished and the matter is as far from a settlement today as it was a week ago Tuesday, when the carpenters laid down their tools.

As the matter now stands the contractors have made the carpenters a proposition, which was rejected by the union, and no counter steps at arbitrating have come from them. The contractors made the announcement Wednesday evening that they will not receive another committee from the union unless such a committee comes to them with full power to act and effect a settlement of the trouble then and there. The contractors feel that they have made a step toward a setttlement and as their offer was rejected and no counter one made them they will commence building again as soon as they can get men, putting to work all who may ask for a job, paying them 30 cents an hour and not inquiring whether they belong to the union or not.

The carpenters do not fear any such step taken by the builders, as they do not think the contractors dare to thus run the chances of offering an affront to the other building unions and precipitating a general and full-fledged strike. To that comes the side of the Building Trades union. They feel that the matter could be speedily settled if the carpenters would meet the contractors half way and as no such steps have yet been taken in that direction they do not feel as though they were called upon to longer remain idle. The trades union will meet tonight, when it is expected that it will take some decisive action in the matter one way or the other.

Work at the Exposition. When the carpenters' committee met with the contractors they admitted that union men were working for the Exposition company for 30 cents per hour. At the carpenters' headquarters it was learned that there was an agreement entered into with the Exposition company some time ago whereby the carpenters working on the grounds were to receive 30 cents per hour. Pending an investigation relative to the life tenure of that agreement, the carpenters have remained at work, with the understanding from the exposition people that if that agreement has expired the men are to be pald 35 cents in the future: but if the contract calls for the life of the exposition, the union will live up to its agreement and the union men will be permitted to work for 30 cents an hour until the exposition closes. At the contractors' headquarters it was stated that bricklayers would return to work today on the deaf and dumb asylum and that joists would be laid upon that job by men who are willing to work for 30 cents per hour. It was also stated that work trip.

CURES AFTER DOCTORS FAIL. Trinchera, Col., Dec. 15, 1898.

I wrote you last summer and you advised me to take Wine of Cardui and Black-Draught. I have taken three bottles of the Wine of Cardui and four packages of the Black-Draught, and I am glad to let you know that I am better ever since I took the first nine doses. When I first commenced taking your medicine I was in bed. I tried several doctors and they didn't do me any good, but now I can do all my work and not get tired. I think I have had all the troubles that could afflict a poor woman; my back hurt, as did my head and legs, and I had sick stomach every time I ate anything. Now I can eat anything and not hurt me and don't get tired. I think this is the best medicine that was ever discovered. Mrs. CORA ROBINSON. Mrs. CORA ROBINSON.

And yet this case of Mrs. Robinson's is only one of thousands. Every day in the year Wine of Cardui accomplishes wonders for weak, suffering women, where doctors failed to bring any permanent relief. Doctors do the best they can, but Wine of Cardui is the one natural remedy for female diseases. It contains the vital elements necessary to strengthen and regulate the delicate menstrual organs. Hence it never fails to benefit—seldom fails to cure. With the convincing evidence in favor of this wonderful remedy, no suffering woman should besitate to avail herself of it. That frightful backache, and those dreaded pains in the head and legs quickly vanish before the magic influence of Wine of Cardui. For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, The "LADIESORY DEPARTMENT," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga Tenn. Chattanooga, Tenn.

ARCHER, Marshall Co., Tenn., Dec. 1, 1898. My wife has been sick four months. The doctors pronounced it nervous prostration. I got her a bottle of Wine of Cardui. She has taken five doses only and it has done her more good than all the medicine she has taken from the doctors.
