Are the Prey.

The experience of an Omaha young man in the last few days seems to indicate that this city is the operating field of a pair, or, possibly, a quartette, of eminently skillful buncoe steerers. The men are as yet unknown to the police, as they have only recently set to work to make a living in these parts, and the caution which they have exercised is, in its way, admirable. Their manner of sounding strangers is such that one who is approached and then abandoned as an unromising specimen would probably never realize that he had been an intended victim. Sunday evening the young man in ques tion, who is well dressed and has much of the appearance of a man of the world, was rather idly sitting about the office of a prominent hotel when another man, somewha older but of equally pleasing appearance, dropped into a chair beside him and began a light conversation. After several remarks had been passed on trivial subjects the newcomer asked the young man if he had any engagement for the evening. The other very innocently took out his watch, studied it a Totals 13 15 24 12 0 | moment, and replied that he had a sort of a half engagement, not binding, but which he felt obliged to keep unless something unusual turned up. The stranger then said that he had an engagement to call upon two young ladies and preferred not to go alone if it were possible to find some eligible partner. He asked the young man to accompany him, telling where the young ladies lived and giving the name of their father, a prominent wholesale dealer of the city. The young man, while not very suspicious at the ime, concluded that he would keep his fictitious engagement, and after thanking his new friend very cordially bade him good night. There was a largely attended meeting of and civic societies in the city Tuesday night the number of these claims may be iesin the rooms of the Commercial club, sened. Chairman R. O. Bailey presided and M. J. Ford, jr., was secretary.

The gathering was for the purpose of talking over the proposed fraternal, civic making thorough repairs before winter sets and military parade under the auspices of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben that will take place Wednesday, September 27. Reports were given from many different societies during the first part of the meeting and every one was optimistic in tone and the speakers all spoke in enthusiastic terms of

From the reports now in over thirty different secret societies have signified their intention of taking part and in many cases several lodges of each organization will swell the numbers materially. The affair has been endorsed by the Central Labor union and in the neighborhood of thirty unions will also take part. A committee of the parent organization is now in the field working up interest and the cutlook is good. Besides this, there will be military organizations and many handsome civic floats. The South Omaha Equestrian club has signified its intention of appearing in the procession and there will be several other unique features, one of them notubly being the Indians at the exposition. An invitation was read from the executive amittee tendering the freedom of the exosition to those in the parade on that evenng and it was accepted. The Omaha Cooperage plant at Thirtyfifth and I streets is to be enlarged in case necessary arrangements for more land and trackage can be made. This plant was started here a year ago by M. D. Welsh of Lincoln as an adjunct to the main factory at Lincoln. A few days ago the contract between Mr. Welsh and the state expired and an effort is now being made to have the entire works removed from Lincoln to this city. In case this is done an enlargement of the plant will be necessary and the vacation of a portion of Thirty-fifth street from the point where I street crosses Thirty-fifth to where the south line of H crosses Thirtyfifth will be necessary.
