In response to this speech President Huntington of the association made an eloquent address. He thanked the management most heartily for the welcome and the favors shown the members of the party. He remarked that he had attended several expositions, and among them the Centennial, but grand display of fireworks, and the day will the present one surpassed all save the World's fair at Chicago. He said that the editors present could talk to 1,000,000 people through the columns of their papers and he was sure that when they went home they would do all in their power to get that million people to come to the big show at

After Mr. Huntington had taken his seat, Mr. Barnum of the delegation arose and in a few words thanked the committee from the exposition, but said the association also felt under obligations to their president and in token of the esteem they held him in wished to present him a memento, and with this he stepped forward and gave Mr. Huntington a

In honor of the visitors a water carnival was given on the lagoon. There was high diving, fancy swimming, and to bring the program to a startling close, a model of the Maine was blown up with submarine torpedces. This proved to be a most attractive feature and brought out vigorous applause. Alfreno, the high rope walker, also gave an exhibition of his daring feats in midair at the east end of the Lagoon, and later an broncho busting and other interesting features. Reports come from Chicago stating that that city is just now infested with more ticket "scalpers" than at any time for a long period. It is estimated that there are at least fifty, all of whom are doing a thriving business. Tickets to Omaha, Kansas City, St. Paul, New York or almost any eastern or western point can be secured from the brokers at a good discount. Strangers do not find it such an easy matter to procure these cut-rate tickets, because of the recent tests made by detectives of the various passenger associations, but those who are "on to the ropes" seem to have no difficulty in securing these tickets. A Chicago scalper is reported as saying: "We have lost all fear of anti-scalping legislation. In view of the deals that we now have with the railroads centering in Chicago I do not see how their officers can

Early Train, Taking Guest's Cash and Jewels.

Arthur Gillette, clerk at the Lange hotel, left the city on an early train for Chicago, taking $58 and a lot of jewelry belonging to a guest, Mrs. R. B. Murray of Clarks, Neb. Accompanying him was an inmate of Grace plans of the brokers came to light in the Lewis' resort, 107 North Ninth street, named Arminto Gabber, a creole. The woman stole from Grace Lewis about $50 and a number of dresses. The pair were caught and arrested on the train at Ottumwa, Ia., by the police passage until September 17. The broker who of that city, acting under instructions of purchased it found it "dead" on his hands on Captain Donahue. Detective Drummy left on the evening train to bring them back > with the clerk for safekeeping, as her room at the hotel was an outside one with windows opening over a next door building, and she feared some prowler might enter the apartment and steal her property. She asked Gillette if it would be safe to leave the valuables in the hotel strong box and the clerk assured her there was no better place. He then wrote a receipt for the property and 7 o'clock. At midnight, when Gillette goes off watch, he visited the Gabber woman and, headforemost into the slack vat. after spending an hour or two in her company, he went with her to the Burlington depot, where they waited for the early morning train. Gillette left at the house where stolen from the hotel, saying that he would call for them later, but he did not return and they were recovered by Detective

Drummy the next morning. When Mrs. Murray called for her valuable the theft was discovered. Detective Drummy learned in a few hours of Gillette's departure for Chicago, and Captain Donahue telegraphed the Ottumwa authorities to arrest the couple on board the train. They were identified by means of red hats which both wore. Forty-five dollars of the money, four ession. Gillette and the Gabber woman both refused to return without requisition papers. A dozen bluecoats were dispatched from the police station Friday afternoon to quell a bloody riot which several messengers ancounced was going on in Christianson's blacksmith shop at Fourteenth and Jackson streets. A hurried drive in the patrol wagon brought them to the scene of the fray, where half a hundred men and women stood in the street listening to the yells coming from the shop, but not daring to go closer to see what struggling on the dirty floor like groggy pugilists, each awaiting an opportunity for a final effort to lay the other low. Both men were under the influence of liquor and when pulled apart were found to be the blacksmith, J. C. Christianson, and his helper, As Anderson was the more powerful, his antagonist showed signs of the conflict. His

A Word to Mothers.

Mothers of children affected with croup or severe cold need not hesitate to administer Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It contains no opiate or parcotic in any form and may be given as confidently to the babe as to an adult. The great success that has attended its use in the treatment of colds and croup has won for it the approval and praise it has received throughout the United States and in many foreign lands.

Sneak Thiet.

A sneak thief who ransacked a number of rooms on the second floor of the Klondike hotel Thursday afternoon, found $3, a pocket knife, a coat and vest, which he made away with. The owner of some of the articles, a man named Van Closter, asked the police to help him recover his property.
