Comfort for Pepceratic Howlers.

Governor Poynter Issues His Election Proclamation-Dates for Republican Campaign Speeches Are Given Out.

LINCOLN, Oct. 7 .- (Special.) -- Popocratio campaign managers will find very little comfort in the statement of the condition of the Nebraska state banks, issued today by Secretary Hall of the State Banking board. This statement, compared with the last one, issued June 19, shows an incresse in loans of $554,882.22, and increase in reserves of $352,462.41, an increase in cash of $92,354.95, Hartington, October 14. an Increase in deposits of $1,982,744.80 and a decrease in bills payable and rediscounts of $28,091.51

"This statement shows a very good condition prevailing," said Secretary Hall of the chester, October 16; Fairmont, October 17; banking board. "The banks generally com- Geneva, October 18. plain of an absence of opportunity to invest their funds, and this absence of opportunity manifests itself in the increase in reserves. With the further advance in the season they hope to see a better demand for money. The interior bank, however, has a serious grievance against the larger banks. It was the practice in former years for the local bank to furnish the local feeder with what money he needed through the feeding season, and when the surplus reserve of the local bank beame exhausted, to rediscount paper with its correspondent. The larger banks, in their anxiety for business, have, through commission houses at the packing centers, become competitors of the local banks for cattle paper to such an extent that but few of our interior banks do any rediscounting.

"The interior banks are thus robbed of legitimate opportunities of investment. It is a shortsighted policy on the part of the larger banks, as paper rediscounted by the local bank and bearing its guarantee carries but little risk to its holder, while a great deal of the paper floated under present conditions must carry risks."

The total number of banks now doing business in the state is 403, an increase of five since the last statement. Following is condition of the Nebraska state banks at the close of business September 11, 1899; RESOURCES. Loans and discounts$18,853,269.04

Every one who expects to vote at the fall election must register on either Thursday, October 19, Friday, October 27, or on Saturday. November 4. Registration booths will be open in every precinct in the city from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m. on the days mentioned, The following places have been selected for

First Ward-First precinct, C. E. Scarr's drug store. Twenty-fourth and M streets Second precinct, Howard Meyers' drug store, Twenty-fourth and I streets: Third precinct Rowley building, Twenty-fourth street, between K and L.

Third Ward-First precinct, C. A. Evans' building, Twenty-eighth and R streets; Second precinct, Mrs. Kilker's building, 3019

Fourth Ward-Location to be secured. The lack of available space in the Fourth ward is causing considerable uneasiness on the part of the city officials. There is no a vacant store, house or room in the Fourth ward, and up to this time no arrangements have been made for a place to hold the meetings of the board of registration. Councilman Ed Johnson hopes to secure some place today, but where it will be he does not know. When this question of registration came up some time ago Mr. Johnson suggested that on account of the scarcity of buildings for rent in the Fourth ward the city erect a voting booth. This idea seemed to meet with favor with members of the council until an estimate of the cost of the building was made. A builder reported that a one-story structure 20x24 feet would cost $275. As this is $200 more than the city is willing to pay, it is hardly possible that a voting booth will be built.

Since the last general registration a year ago the population has increased a great deal and many who are entitled to register and vote do not know the precinct boundary For the information of the newcomers the precinct boundary lines are here

Trusts Not a Political Question.

Trusts Not a Political Question.

There should be absolutely no party politics in the consideration of the trust question. The party or person who attempts to make political capital out of it is neither wise nor fair. The party that does it is controlled by demagogues; the person that does it is a demagogue. Trusts are peculiar to no particular country. They are found in republics; they are found in monarchies and emplres. They are found in countries where free trade is the leading principle underlying economic legislation and they are found in countries that believe in and act upon the policy of protection.

There is not a member of the American congress in either house, in my opinion, but who is eager to do anything that can possibly be done within the constitution to investigate, regulate, control or even destroy any corporation which is operated against the public good and in restraint of trade among our people. Any political party which in its platform attempts to fix upon the republican party the birth or development of trusts only demonstrates that !; is not candid with the voter and is not worthy of confidence or even of respect.

I challenge the records of congress to show a single bill passing the house to carry out the declarations of the democratic national platform in any shape or form. The democratic party certainly has no right to be attacking the republican carry out the declarations of the democratic national platform in any shape or form. The democratic party certainly has no right to be attacking the republican party for want of action and their platform declarations of this year are like a burlesque in the presence of a great and trying question. How much better for all of us to be frank on a question of such vital interest to the American people and unite heartily and particitically to try to understand a trouble and find such additional remedies as will be possible and just and for the good of all.

I think that there must be somewhere lodged the power in this country that can absolutely control the combination that controls the price placed upon its product. I will go further than that, if you please, that power should be strong enough to destroy, if the combination cannot be regulated in the interest of the owners of the capital and at the same time in the interest of the public who buy from them.

When the combined capital knows that there is not orly a regulation, but that regulator can kill if regulations should not be observed, there will be much more likelihood of good behavior on the part of the combined capital.

States Have the Power.

States Have the Power.

States Have the Power.

This power is already ledged in the state, The state legislature has all power excepting where limited by its own constitution or the constitution of the United States. On the other hand, the federal legislature has no power, excepting that which is expressly granted by the constitution of the United States, or is needed to carry out the special grants of the federal constitution. I believe that the congress has gone already nearly as far as it is possible for it to go, except possibly to extend and enlarge its work. I think it would be much better to have federal legislations so that the treatment of these combinations might be uniform throughout the nation than to have the peculiar views of each state crystallized into law for the treatment of combinations. But to reach this by federal legislation more power must be given to congress than I am able to find in the constitution of the United States. This is not at all impossible. I believe that congress will ultimately act on the matter for the protection of the people and I believe that the several states would promptly ratify a constitutional amendment looking to the accomplishment of this important end. Such an amendment must be most carefully considered. It is no easy task to frame one and to legislate thereunder, so as to reach the desired results without too much centralization of power in the general government and without encroaching upon the power of the states.

The alm should be not to destroy honest industries by any means, but to regulate all industries so that there may be absolute equality among the people of this country excepting where such advantages come from superior education, superior knowledge and superior character.

But what would be the effect of free

Clearly the result will be to have the foreign trusts and combinations of capital get the American market instead of those of our own country. No, no, that is not the remedy. Let us absolutely control by law, firmly and wisely, the aggregated capital of our own country, but let our own capital, with our own labor, furnish what is needed by our own people.

Our own labor, furnish what is needed by our own people.
Under our modern civilization and throughout the world capital is helpless without labor. Labor is helpless without capital. It is the combination of capital and labor which gives the great potential force which we are considering. Whatever legislation is passed should keep both partners in the combination steadily and firmly in view.

No Anglo-American Alliance. There is not a single foundation for the statement that there is an alliance between the United States and England. The man the United States and England. The man who makes that charge is either densely ignorant or wilifully wicked. There is absolutely no proof of such an alliance and one has never been contemplated by the administration or any man in this country outside of an insane asylum. This country needs no alliance with England or with any other nation, nor have we any interests that can be advanced by any such alliance. The United States has hewn, can, and will, hew out its own great and mighty destiny without an alliance with any other nation without an alliance with any other nation upon earth. for the future under the protection of a government which will protect life and the opportunity for honest effort.

Under the American policy of protection we are not only able to feed and clothe and supply most of our own wants, but we are rapidly reaching a point in our development when we must reach out more and more to supply the wants of other countries. Every thinker sees this to be our future destiny. Our welfare points in that direction. Without violating the traditions of the fathers, responsibilities are upon us. Opportunities are with us, and it only remains to be seen whether we will fail our country in meeting these grand opportunities when, in doing so we will not only bless our own people, but carry blessings into other lands. Let us not run from our clear duty. Let us not run from the true interests of our people. Let us not run from the higher command which orders us to aid in the civilization and advancement of other parts of the world, and above all, let us not run from an unfriendly gun. Let us never for one moment contemplate the disagrace of the American republic by admitting that we are incapable with all our vast power of sending out civilization to territories blessed by the American flag.

FIRST GUN IN THE EIGHTH Hepburn Scores Bryan in the Iowa District for Repudiating His Treaty Efforts.

SHENANDOAH, Ia., Oct. 7 .- (Special Telegram.)-Two thousand people listened to Congressman McPherson of the Ninth and Congreseman Hepburn of this district in the opening of the Eighth congressional district campaign in the armory today and tonight. Each reference to the war policy of the administration was wildly cheered and the statement that the gold standard would be made a statutory law was received with applause.

He began his speech with a brief reference to state candidates from this part of the state. Appliause was frequent.

Senator Allison, in discussing the Philippine question, said in part:

It is said that the Philippine war is being conducted without the authority of congress. This is not so. Every step in this progress has been taken by the president in the pathway of a democrat or a populist to criticise this action of congress directing the use of this army, or the expressed will and purpose of congress, stated in the most emphatic way possible on the floor of the two houses and found in the law.

Congress Meets Emergency. The house had passed a bill increasing the regular army to 10,000 men. It was argued with force in the senate that the rebellion with force in the senate that the rebellion then in progress in the Philippines consiltuted the chief necessity for an enlargement of the army, and that when the rebellion ended this necessity would no longer exist. But so urgent was the necessity for a temporary increase, and so universally was this necessity recognized, that on February 24 the senate committee on military affairs unanimously reported a military bill to meet and provide for this emergency—democrats, republicans and populists unting in this report.

The bill provided that the regular army might be recruited temporarily under the direction of the president to 65,000 men, and in addition $5,000 volunteers were authorized, all of whom to be enlisted to serve until July 1, 1901, or for two years and four months, thus providing for a temporary army of 100,000 men, or so many thereof as might be necessary, to serve for two years and four months means the serve for two years and four months.

ALLISON SPEAKS AT MARION

Hawkeye Senator Opens the Campaign with an Able Discussion of Current Issues.

CEDAR RAPIDS, ..., Oct. 7.—The republicans in the Fifth district opened today at Marion, with an address by Senator William B. Allison. Mr. Allison was met at the dept by a large delegation headed by a band and escorted to the Daniels opera house, where he spoke two hours on the issues of the day to an audience filling the building.

He began his speech with a brief reference of the Campaign of Congress and the people of the United States. Having this tower in his hands without using it would render him liable to public censure by congress and the people of the United States. It does not lie in the pathway of a democrat or a populist to criticise this action of congress directing the use of the sound of the united States.

bill to meet and provide for this emergency—democrats, republicans and populists unting in this report.

The bill provided that the regular army might be recruited temporarily under the direction of the president to 55,000 men, and in addition $5,000 volunters were authorized, all of whom to be collisted to serve until July 1, 1901, or for two years and four months, thus providing for a temporary army of 100,000 men, or so many thereof as might be necessary, to serve for two years and four months.

The bill was debated for two full days in the senate and was as fully understood in its chief purpose and in its details by senators as any other bill which ever passed that body. It was well known and state that the main purpose of this authority given to the president was to use the forces thus created for the suppression of the insurrection in the Philippines and to maintain our sovereignty. There were a few senators who oponeed the bill, and they opposed it on the ground that it was in substance a direction to the president to suppress the insurrection with armed force.

This was also stated to be its chief purpose by democrats who favored the bill who claimed that we having acquired sovereignty, they were constrained to give the president that we having acquired the honor and credit of the nation might be upheld. After this full debate in the Cannot Maintain Independence.
