Aspirations of some of the supporters of the fusion ticket to secure positions under the county officers of that political faith who were swept into office by bolting republicans are beginning to shape themselves. An officer of the democratic county committee is authority for the statement that it is pretty well settled as to who will be deputy clerk of the district court under Broadwell. He says it will be Andrew Gallagher of South Omaha, although the change may not be made at once, as some one familiar with the routine business of the office must be retained for a this county.

It is stated that Pat Ford, the Third ward statesman, is aspiring to a position under the shrievalty of John Power, and some influential democrats are saying that if those positions are to be awarded in return for services rendered in the election Ford is entitled to recognition. St. Louis National Live Stock Reporter, that the run of cattle from the southwest will be below the average for the whole of next year. It is reported by good authorities that the cottonseed meal and hull feeding this winter will not be over 40 per cent of last year. If this is so it ought to encourage these who are actually feeding cattle to make their steers good and fat, as under such circumstances strong prices ought to be the rule.
