Mrs. Frank Post, living at 249 Fourth avenue, was badly burned about the face, neck and arms yesterday while lighting kerosene into boiling water for washing. The regimental band of the Fifty-first Iowa volunteers will leave for their concert in the cities and towns which furnished companies to the regiment. Rev. M. T. Schirrmacher of St. Patrick's church, Neola, was in the city yesterday calling on friends. He will leave tomorrow for a month for Bonnetable, France, and other points in Europe for a visit of about six months. Rev. J. W. Wilson has extended an invitation to the members of Company L, Fifty-first Iowa, to attend a social and sacred concert and vesper services at the Congregational church Sunday afternoon, commencing at 8 o'clock. J. H. Shields was arrested last night for being intoxicated and discharging firearms within the city limits. He is charged that he shot off a revolver on South Main street in front of Morgan's saloon. When searched at the jail the revolver was not forthcoming. Every member of the Sanitary Relief commission is to be present at the meeting called for this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the city hall. It is a business of importance, including a social event as the crowning feature of the society's work, will come up for discussion. John Mithen and Miss Anna McCarthy, both of this city, were married Wednesday last at Manhattan, Colo. The groom is a clerk in the Northwestern freight office and his bride has lived many years in Council Bluffs, having come here from Avoca. They will remain at Manhattan until January 1. The executive committee on the reception to the Fifty-first Iowa volunteers will meet this morning at 9 o'clock, when all outstanding bills and reports of subcommittees will be presented for consideration. Every member of the committee is urged to be present, as the matter is of great importance to the organization as far as possible at this meeting. It is now six years since James B. Mackie appeared in this city. He comes along with a brightly polished and new version of his "Crimea" cigar. "Crimea" door, which will be given at Dohany's tomorrow evening. The support of the committee is to furnish amusement and song galore in a most acceptable manner. A man claiming to be Bogardus, the champion wing shot of America, while giving street exhibition of marksmanship on Broadway, became involved in a dispute with a crowd of onlookers and attempted to pull Bogardus off his wagon and struck him. He was arrested by the police, but when he learned he was going to work on the Illinois Central, but did not state where. He was only 20 years of age. She returned to Rockford last night, taking the remains with her. Night Police Sergeant John Bergman was given an indefinite suspension from duty by Chief Bixby for being, as the chief alleges, intoxicated while on duty one night about a week ago. Bergman stoutly denies the accusation and has demanded an investigation. He also claims that the chief's action is the result of spite work and emanates from a desire to get even with Bergman over some political differences. This Chief Bixby in turn denies. Major Jennings says the chief was held for an inquiry and it will be held before the committee on police and health. Major Jennings says the chief went further than he intended in laying off Bergman indefinitely, as he ordered him laid off for ten days only. Bergman says there will be a rafting of dry bones when he goes before the committee.

BRACE OF SMOOTH SWINDLERS

Farmer and Wood Dealer Taken in by Unprincipled Persons.

GET LITTLE IN RETURN BUT EXPERIENCE

Tim Murphy is Worked for a Load of Potatoes and Wood Dealer Hamilton is Queered by an Old Trick.

Tim Murphy, a farmer living a few miles from the city, and John Hamilton, the proprietor of a wood yard at Broadway and Seventh streets, were the victims yesterday of confidence men. Murphy suffered the loss of fifty bushels of potatoes, while Hamilton lost out $26 and the trouble of sending a load of cordwood to a bogus address. Murphy, to use a commercial expression, got "stalled" on the market yesterday morning and was unable to secure the price he asked for his potatoes. He wanted something over 20 cents per bushel, which was the prevailing quotation on the market yesterday morning, and refused to sell his load at that figure. He is now sorry that he did not, as he was on the point of driving home again with his load unsold when he was approached by a man who introduced himself as Dan Williams. Dan asked Murphy how much he wanted for the potatoes, and the latter told him, "I can get 25 cents a bushel for them if you will give me 3 cents on each bushel for carrying them in," said Williams. "Begorra, indeed I will, and be glad to," replied Murphy, and the bargain was struck there and then.

Williams proved as good as his word, at least as far as disposing of the potatoes went, and in half an hour the fifty bushels had been sold to four different parties. Williams in each case carried in the potatoes according to the agreement and, at his suggestion, Murphy deferred collecting for them until the whole load was sold. When this was accomplished Williams said he would get his buggy and drive Murphy round and they would collect the money. Williams left to fetch the buggy and Murphy has not seen him since. He failed to return and Murphy became tired of waiting, so went to collect the money for his potatoes himself. At each place he found that Williams had been ahead of him and secured the money. At two places he learned that Williams had collected the price of the spuds when he carried them in.

Murphy at once repaired to the city, where he poured forth his tale of woe in rich Irish vernacular into the sympathetic ears of City Clerk Phillips, who advised him to swear out an information against Williams. The last son of Farmer Murphy he was wending his way in search of a justice of the peace. Hamilton, the veteran vendor of cordwood, was taken in by a time-worn trick. A man giving his name as James Blake and his residence as 115 First street, purchased a cord of wood and ordered it delivered at his home. The price of the wood was $6, and in payment he tendered a check on the First National bank of this city for $20, drawn by John Burke in favor of James Blake. Hamilton was fortunately very flush with cash and gave his customer $8 in cash and agreed to leave the balance of $8 with Blake's wife when the wood would be delivered. This was satisfactory to Blake. The wood was sent to the address given by Blake and the 115 First street man came out to the sidewalk in front of the house with a woman came out and asked who the wood was for. "For Mrs. James Blake," replied the driver, and he was much astonished to learn that nobody of the name of Blake lived there. He was correspondingly mad when he found he had to load it up again and drive back to the yard. When Hamilton heard of it from his driver he at once took the check to the bank, only to find it was a forgery pure and simple and not even worth a paper. He then wrote out a check for $20 and reported the matter to the police, but so far the officers have been unable to secure any trace of Mr. Blake and, what is more, they do not expect to. The so-called Blake was a man apparently 35 years of age and looked like an ordinary working man. The police received word last night that a man giving the same name as the individual who worked Hamilton played a similar game on George Sherwood, foreman of the Christie coal yards in South Omaha, Thursday afternoon. At South Omaha he gave a check for $20 drawn on the Stock Yards National bank, signed by John Burke and made payable to James Blake. From Sherwood he secured $12.25 in cash after ordering a ton of coal sent to a fictitious address.

Visiting Pedagogues. Superintendent A. C. Fling of the Nebraska City schools, accompanied by eight of his teachers, was in Council Bluffs yesterday, visiting the city schools. His attention and that of the accompanying teachers was directed particularly to the work in the kindergartens and that in the Werner arithmetic. Thursday evening the Nebraska City School board voted to establish kindergartens in the public schools there. During their visit here the teachers and Superintendent Fling were the guests of Superintendent H. B. Hayden, who showed them round the schools. The teachers with Prof. Fling were: Misses Oakley, Andrews, Wille, Kennedy, Henry, Rodebrock, Berry and Carey. Three of the teachers from the Glenwood (La.) city schools were in the city yesterday and also made a visit to the different kindergartens where they were directed the methods of teaching in vogue here. In the afternoon Prof. Olerich gave an exhibition before the city teachers at the Bloomer school building of the infant prodigy, Viola Rosalind Olerich, his adopted daughter. The child is but 2 years and 8 months old and is able to read almost anything that is placed before her. For the benefit of the teachers she read an entire chapter from the bible with an expression that seemed to indicate that she understood what she was reading. Little Viola, who is a very pretty child, was adopted by Olerich when 8 months old. Olerich is arranging to exhibit the child throughout the country. Davis sells paint. K. RACE FOR IOWA SPEAKERSHIP

Bowen of Allamakee is a New Aspirant for a Coveted Honor.

GEAR MAN OPPOSES A CUMMINS ADHERENT

Latest Candidate May Cut into the Prospects of Eaton, Previously Considered Foremost of the Flock of Rivals.

DES MOINES, Nov. 10.—(Special Telegram.)—Great interest was awakened in the speakership contest today. It was reported that D. H. Bowen of Allamakee county, member of the lower house of the legislature from the Eighty-seventh district, is to be a candidate for the speakership. The announcement comes as a great surprise to the politicians and by some it is authentically questioned. Bowen has not announced his candidacy, at least openly, but the statement of his intention to do so shortly was so well founded that there seems little room for doubt. The principal feature of the entrance of an Allamakee county man into the speakership contest today is the candidacy of D. H. Bowen of Allamakee county. Eaton has been considered the strongest candidate in the field and has been openly in the race for several months. Eaton is the Cummins man and Bowen, a Gear man, is coming out to cut him down.

DEATH RECORD.

Soldier Has Fatal Relapse. YANKTON, S. D., Nov. 10.—(Special Telegram.)—Private Fred E. Wilson, Company C, First South Dakota volunteers, whose home was Burbank, S.
