REWARDS FOR HUNGRY HOWLERS FOR PIE

Dean Reese of the Law School Said to Be Slated for Decapitation to Make Way for Hastings.

LINCOLN, Nov. 21 .- (Special.) -- For the first time since its inception the fusionists will, after January 1, have control of the State University Board of Regents. In past years and at the present time the element of politics has not entered into the administration of the affairs of the institution, but there are now innumerable rumors affoat that when the newly-elected regents take changed and that certain positions now held by republicans will be turned over to the republicans.

Some of the members of the faculty of the university are naturally somewhat alarmed over the prospect of being dropped by the new board, but friends of the newlygovernment of the institution than it has up before the drawing. been in the past. It is said that J. L. Teeteral other influential fusionists and that the On the third and final draw Gammill held the which a very large acreage was sown last sonal knowledge of the great Quaker poet question of allowing politics to influence them in their administration was discussed at some length and that they both agreed to remove no man from office on account of political beliefs. It is reasonable to expect, however, that new offices that may be crepopocratic persuaion.

In connection with the report that Dean M. B. Reese of the College of Law would be one of the first to be removed, it is said on good authority that Judge Hastings, when he was defeated for the nomination for judge of the Seventh district, was promised a position by the fusionists and that to keep good their promise they intend to place him in charge of the University Law school. Thie was one of the subjects discursed in particular by the newly-elected regents and it is now said in their behalf that no change will be made in the law department. The Board of Regents will reorganize in January, but it is not likely that any change will be made in the faculty, if at all, until the February meeting.

This veto had hitherto been overlooked in the discussi on concerning the insurance act and the attorney for Governor Poynter did not attempt to apply its reasoning to the case in question. Judge Bryant confined himself to the question of constitutionality. The question of the constitutionality of the taxation commuted by the Weaver law was not raised in the case, but a copy of the decision of the supreme court of lowa concerning a similar act passed by the legislature of that state was submitted by the attorney for Auditor Cornell. The sitting of the supreme court will pr hably be concluded tomorrow afternoon. Two very important cases are to be submitted tomorrow-the case of Paxton and others against the State, the Bartley bond case and the case of the State against the Home Insurance company, to decide whether the state can collect from the insurance companies fees that were paid to Eugene Moore while auditor.

O'NEILL, Neb., Nov. 21 .- (Special.)-Thomas Coyne, one of the pioneers of the O'Neill colony, was found lying in the road four miles north of this place this morning in an unconscious condition. An arm was broken, the side of his face considerably bruised and other injuries, coupled with the night's exposure, resulted in his death shortly before noon. Mr. Coyne came in from his farm, about eight miles north of O Neill, yesterday with a load of potatoes which he donated to the committee having in charge the collection of a carload of provisions for St. Jamee' Orphans' home of Omaha He remained in the city until about midnight when he started for home. What happened on the road is not known, as he did not regain consciousness after being found this morning, although it is the general opinion that he fell from his wagon. Mr. Coyne was about 60 years of age. He leaves a widow and several children.
