Very Valuable Reference Book for the Library.

Events in American History Worked Up Into Good Fiction-Rending for the Young People-Current Magazine Publications.

"Cyclopedia of Classified Dates," by Charles E. Little, is a new reference book of the very greatest importance. The editor, with a competent corps of assistants, is said terested in this, his most recent effort. G. to have spent nine years in its compilation and the publishers $30,000 before a single copy was ready for sale. It is a volume of 1,462 pages, containing 95,000 entries of important historical events. The arrangement of this vast material is a quick reference plan never before devised for any book. There is a threefold classification: First, the classification by countries, or by geographical location. Second, the classification by dates. Third, the classification according to the nature of the event itself. This threefold classification, it will be noted, answers the threefold question which one must ask concerning any event: (1) Where? (2) When? (3) What? The classification by countries is in alphabetical order. On the first page comes Abyssinia, on the last page the west coast of Africa. Between these appear all the countries of the earth (seventynine in number) of which there are any historical records. The facts pertaining to any country are then classified according to date. Thus each pair of facing pages includes the events pertaining to a particular segment of time. For instance, pages 16 and 17 contain the facts of American history pertaining to the period between December 17, 1500 and the year 1518. At the top of each page the date for that page is indicated in black face type in the corner and the name of the country in black face type in the center, as a running title. After the classification by country and by date the facts are again classified according to their nature. That is to say, the events pertaining to America in the period between De cember 17, 1500, and the year 1518, all of which are found on the pair of pages 16 and 17, are there arranged under nine divisions, namely: (1) Army, Navy; (2) Art, Science. Nature; (3) Births, Deaths; (4) Church; (5) Discovery, Exploration; (6) Letters; (7) Socicty; (8) State; (9) Miscellaneous. If one desires to locate a particular event in history, but does not know the date and wishes to ascertain it he can turn to the index of 290 pages containing 125,000 entries, in which all the events and names recorded in the book are again entered, this time in alphabetical order and on the topical plan. The general arrangement of the volume, as well as its contents, appears to be a decided improvement over anything that has gone before. It cannot fail to be a very valuable addition to the labor-saving tools of the literary worker. To the ordinary reader, as well as to all persons engaged in important lines of business, the work will be invaluable and will certainly supply a void which now exists." American Novels. A firm believer in "the great American romance" is Mr. E. S. Van Zile, author of "With Sword and Crucifix," which is fresh from the press. In speaking of the historical sources from which the background to his story is taken, Mr. Van Zile in a recent letter says: "This tale had its origin in a half page of Francis Parkman's La Salle. I had never written historical romance, and while I felt the inspiration of an incident lightly touched upon by Parkman, I realized that a large amount of drudgery was necessary to give the story had in mind its necessary reassemblance. I began investigations connected with the Mississippi sun-worshipers-the Natchez Indians-and as I pursued my studies my tale developed itself. Historically and ethnologically the data used in my story are absolutely accurate, unless the accepted authorities are at fault. Parkman will prove to be a gold mine to the American storytellers of the future. Gilbert Parker, Mrs Catherwood and others have already profited by the inspiration that lurks between the overs of his too few volumes. I firmly believe that the American historical romance is not a fad, but a fixture. The more romantic the achievements of today the greater will be the interest in every feature of our national past. In other words, I believe that La Salle's voyage down the Mississippi gains a new significance, because our arms have become a factor in the "Far East." The story has been attractively illustrated by Keller and the volume as a whole will be found very attractive. Harper & Bros., New York. Price, $1.50.

TROUBLE OVER INHERITANCE

Administrator of Estate of Lucinda Mullison Makes Ugly Charges.

ALLEGATION OF CONSPIRACY IS FILED

Intervention Setting Forth that by Reason of Undue Influence Mrs. Mullison Made Unfair Discrimination.

Harry Jordon, administrator of the estate of the late Lucinda Mullison, who died a few weeks ago at the age of 80 years, has filed in the district court a petition of intervention in which sensational allegations are made against Lucy Lucas, a daughterin-law of the deceased. The administrator intervenes in the suit of Mrs. Lucas against the Western Travelers' Acceident association, wherein she seeks to collect the amount of an insurance policy which was issued in favor of Mrs. Mullison a short while prior to her death.

It is alleged, among other things, that Mrs. Lucas and her husband induced the aged woman to leave the home that other relatives had provided 'or her, and that by demonstrations of affection they so preyed upon her mind that she became biased it their favor and made over to them her property, the value of which, including the ac cident insurance policy, is estimated at $3,500. A part of the assets is land in Kansas. The petitioner goes on at great length to pile up charges against Mrs. Lucas, and the words "fraud" and conspiracy" occur at frequent intervals. While the amount involved is compara-

Case Nears the Finish. The third day of the trial of Frank Derr in Judge Baker's court on the charge of killing Thomas Flaherty December 24 last year, was devoid of special incident. The state having rested Tuesday afternoon, evidence for the defense is in progress. Derr's countenance has brightened somewhat since the introduction of favorable testimony and that careworn look which characterized him in the beginning has partially given way to hope. Walter Antrim was subjected to lengthy examination. He swere that he heard the revelry at Derr's home on Christmas eve, which led Derr to ask Flaherty and his companions to keep quiet or get out of the house. His testimony was favorable to Derr to the extent of showing that there was more disturbance than is usually permitted in a well-regulated home. Hiram Cockrell, well known in South

A Red Letter Day on the 22d of February,

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY--and it is right and just that it is so. Since the day when Washington first saw the light what a number of red letter days brighten the calendar of the years. Hundreds of inventions and discoveries now annihilate space, lighten toil, deaden pain and lengthen life. Among the great discoveries of the nineteenth century none stand out more prominent than that of Warner's Safe Cure, a vegetable preparation for the cure of that terrible insidious disease-Bright's disease of the kidneys. The disease way first named by Dr. Bright of England. It had been known previous to his time as dropsy, and death certificates were given, and are given today, by reputeble physicians, for dropsy, heart disease, heart failure, convulsions, etc., instead of Bright's disease.

Dropsy, heart failure, convulsions, etc., are but spmptoms of Bright's disease, a disease before which physicians stand

Bright's disease and consumption do not kill at once There are first, second and third stages. The time to treat these terrible diseases is at their inception. Bright's disease is consumption of the kidneys and no man or woman can live without kidneys any more than they can without lungs.

The kidneys have few nerves of sensation, hence Bright's disease cannot be detected except by its symptoms or a microscopical examination of the fluids of the body. Prominent among the symptoms are fickle appetite failure of eyesight, nervousness, frequent desire to pass fluids, constipation, chronic rheumatic pains, gradual failure of strength, pallor of face, swelling of the ankles, shortness of breath, chills, fever, scanty, high colored fluids. etc. A person may not have all of the symptoms, but one of them continued for any length of time is a warning that the kidneys are not doing the work nature intended them to do and that the body through that failure is surely becoming poisoned by the deadly acids which ought to be eliminated.

Warner's Safe Cure is a specific for kidney disease when taken in time and according to directions. It will not work miracles but it will do all that human agency can accomplish.

It is the part of wisdom to get rid of kidney disease and to begin today.
