GRAIN RATES ARE REDUCED

Missouri Pacific Announces Radically Lower Proportional Rates.

SEEKS TO DIVERT GRAIN VIA ST. LOUIS

Reductions in Export Grain Rates, Railroad Men Assert, Will Turn Tide of Traffic Through St. Louis Instead of Chicago.

For the double purpose of equalizing export shipments to Atlantic seaboard and Gulf points and to place St. Louis on the same basis as Chicago as a gateway for grain shipments originating in the west and consigned to Atlantic seaboard points, the Missouri Pacific has announced a radical reduction in proportional rates on grain to St. Louis, East St. Louis and Carondelet. Official announcement of this reduction is made by General Freight Agent Lincoln of the Missouri Pacific as follows:

"Effective March 6, in order to preserve commercial relations as related to the recent reductions in rates upon grain to New Orleans and Galveston for export from Missouri river and western points, we will establish to St. Louis and Carondelet, Mo., from southwest Missouri river points, the following proportional rates: Wheat, 4 cents per 100 pounds; grain products taking wheat rates, 5 cents per 100 pounds; coarse grain 4 cents per 100 pounds; products taking coarse rates, 5 cents per 100 pounds. To East St. Louis proportional rates will be 1 cent higher. From transmissouri territory on and west of Missouri river, corresponding reductions."

This action on the part of the Missouri Pacific is the most sweeping reduction in grain rates that has been made in some time. The primary reason for the establishment of the new proportional rates is that western grain shipments consigned to Atlantic seaboard points for export have been shipped almost exclusively via Chicago as the gateway. The step taken by the Missouri Pacific has been prompted by the desire to get a share of this business and divert such shipments via St. Louis. Until the rates just announced become effective the rates via Chicago are lower than via St. Louis.

Heretofore the proportional rate from Kansas City to East St. Louis has been 9 cents per 100 pounds on wheat shipments. The new tariff is a reduction of 4 cents per 100 pounds from Kansas City to East St. Louis, with corresponding reductions from all transmissouri points.

Effective yesterday a new tariff from St. Louis and Chicago to New York makes a rate of 13 cents per 100 pounds on grain for export. Computing the tariff from transmissouri points to New York on the basis of the new proportional rates quoted by the Missouri Pacific to St. Louis and the new rate of 13 cents per 100 pounds between St. Louis and New York, local railroad men assert that the rates via St. Louis will be lower than through Chicago and will have a tendency to divert all eastbound export grain shipments through St. Louis unless the lines operating west of Chicago reduce their rates.

REDUCTION IN RUNNING TIME

Competitive Railroads Shorten Time Between Chicago and Denver.

The introduction of competition into the field of transcontinental passenger traffic which, before the establishment of the through Chicago-San Francisco service by the Burlington and Rock Island in connection with the Denver & Rio Grande, Rio Grande Western and Southern Pacific, was controlled almost exclusively by the North-western-Union Pacific-Southern Pacific, has resulted in what promises to be a lively race between the competitive railroads looking toward the reduction of running time.

LAND LEASING QUESTION

Position of the National Live Stock Association on This Matter.

MAY BE SALVATION OF LIVE STOCK RAISERS

All Interests Are to Be Equitably Protected—Cattle Men, Sheep Men and the Settler Are to Receive a Square Deal.

"There seems to be a vast amount of misunderstanding as to the position of the National Live Stock association on the land leasing question," said Mr. F. P. Johnson, who is connected with the headquarters of the association in Denver. "Even the governor of Nebraska has in some way acquired the idea that the national association has sold out to the corporations and is busily engaged in trying to deliver the public lands of the west into their hands. Nothing could be further from the truth. At the national convention at Fort Worth in January the subject came up for discussion and was debated at great length, resulting in the adoption of a resolution favoring the leasing of the public grazing lands under certain restrictions that would improve the grazing and protect the interests of the small stockman and settler from encroachments of corporations."

"The discussion at Fort Worth brought out facts in regard to the range that were startling. It was shown that where ten acres would support a steer ten years ago, today twenty will hardly do the same work and ten years more will see the almost total ruin of what grazing country remains. The advance of civilization has been so rapid and the vast areas of public pasture land in the west have been so greatly curtailed that it has long been overworked in many sections and the grasses have become so closely cropped that reseeding has been impossible; and to make matters worse, the sheep have covered a large portion which they have practically ruined by dragging up the grass by the roots. The struggle between the sheepmen and cattlemen for the remaining range has grown so bitter that it might truthfully be called a fight to the death. The sheep, because of their greater numbers, force the cattle aside and in many sections the cattlemen, seeing the hopelessness of the fight, have sold out their cattle and gone into sheep."

Leasing Plan May Be a Salvation.

"The only plan that offers a solution to this danger is one that will divide the lands up on some kind of equitable basis. The leasing plan seems to be the most practicable at this time and the convention decided for it. None of the bills pending in congress, however, have ever, and the convention ordered the appointment of a special committee, consisting of one member from each of the states and territories interested, which committee is already at work trying to draft a measure that will be satisfactory to the stockmen. The national association has received assurances that none of the measures now pending in congress will be pushed until the stockmen can be heard from. The national association is looking after the interests of the stockmen, the little fellows as well as the big ones, and nothing will be done without careful consideration and discussion.

"There is no question but that the time has arrived when something must be done about the public lands. Present conditions cannot much longer be maintained. It is proposed to have the lands classified into grazing and agricultural lands. The lands that are fit for homestead entry will not be subject to lease, but those lands that are good only for grazing will be made subject to lease at a low rental and under conditions that will give the small stockman and settler the fullest possible protection. Many stockmen are excited and frightened over the matter, fearing that they are to be driven from the business, but in reality it is their salvation and protection that is aimed at more than anything else. It is not likely that anything definite will be accomplished before next winter, but meanwhile the subject will be fully discussed, and if possible a plan will be decided upon that will be satisfactory to the stockmen of the west. The national association will see to it that no snap judgment is taken, and that no law is passed that does not carry with it the approval of the small range man and settler, who is certainly entitled to every possible protection and must have it."

ANOTHER FAKERY LIE NAILED

Federal Union No. 8091 Replies to Flagrantly Malicious and False World-Herald Statements.

THE FOLLOWING COMMUNICATION WAS HANDLED TO THE EDITOR OF THE WORLD-HERALD YESTERDAY BY THE OFFICERS OF FEDERAL UNION NO. 8091, DENYING CERTAIN STATEMENTS WHICH APPEARED IN THE MORNING'S ISSUE OF THE WORLD-HERALD. THE EDITOR OF THE PAPER, HOWEVER, DECLINED TO ALLOW THE LABOR UNION THE USE OF ITS COLUMN FOR THIS PURPOSE:

To the Editor World-Herald: Under the caption "Wholesale Fraud" you publish, among other things, certain reflections upon Federal Union No. 8091, of which I am president, which are not only flagrantly malicious, but altogether out of accord with the facts.

Federal Union No. 8091 is a bona fide labor union, chartered by the American Federation of Labor, under the sanction of the Omaha Central Labor union. The present membership numbers 238, only twenty-two of whom are employed by the city.

It is true that the members were originally taxed $1 per head; this amount being the regular charter fee. All of the money thus obtained so still retained in the union treasury, except that used for current expenses, per capita tax, etc., except $55, which amount was paid out for funeral expenses of our late brother, Dennis Preston. This money was paid to the undertaking firm of Heafey & Heafey, which can be easily verified by calling on that firm.

Your statement that this organization has no recognition by union labor in this city and that the management of Labor temple "kicked them out as soon as the nature of the organization was discovered" are also absolutely and maliciously false, as the appended statements will show. Mr. Brown's statement that he lost his place because he refused to join Federal Union 8091 is quite correct, and for the same reason that a printer cannot work for the World-Herald unless he carries the current working card of Typographical union No. 150, and the present city administration makes it a practice to employ none but union labor.

Therefore when Mr. Brown refused to ally himself with the forces of organized labor he was dealt with precisely as all unions deal with people of this caliber.

H. H. BELL,
President Federal Union No. 8091.

TABLE D'HOTE PARTY SIEGED

Warrants Out for Five "Klondike No. 3" Waiters, Charged with Throwing Dishes.

A party of five sat at table d'hote in the Klondike No. 3 restaurant Sunday evening discussing phrenology and an Irish stew. There was E. Howell, president of the Howell Repair company and his wife, Ed Beattie, Jack Lyons and a nice old woman. Beattie remarked that the head of the nice old woman showed a deficiency of "veneration," to which Howell took exception, adding that over the organ of "chivalry" in Beattie's skull was a depression. Something was said about bumps of "combative-ness" and of "destructiveness," and then a soup plate was thrown.

Beattie is the restaurant proprietor's son and had all the waiters on his side. He ran up the distress signal. In a phenomenally short time four members of the table d'hote party were being served with dishes at long range, and the vigor of the bombardment made the attack upon Lady-smith look like thirty cents.

In police court yesterday Howell swore out a complaint against five John Doos, representing the entire complement of Klondike waiters. On his forehead, over the bumps of "hope" and "ideality" is the picture of a stork standing in a patch of rushes, being an impression from the design on the glass water pitcher with which he had been struck.

Mr. Howell authorizes the publication of this statement:

"It is true that a large number of dishes were broken in the Klondike No. 3 restaurant Sunday night. It is also true that I am in the repair business, and contract to mend china, glass, marble, plates of Paris and the like. But it is not true, as alleged by the proprietor of the restaurant aforesaid, that I precipitated the upheaval for mercenary reasons."

KELLY IS BROUGHT TO COURT

Arraigned Before Judge Vinsonhalter He Enters Plea of Not Guilty to Charge of Embezzlement.

Frederick S. Kelly, accused of embezzling $5,000 from the Phoenix Insurance company, of which institution he was cashier in Omaha, was arraigned in Judge Vinsonhalter's court yesterday. He entered a plea of not guilty and his case was set for next Wednesday, at which time the preliminaries will be entered into.

It begins to look as if Kelly is playing a wrong card on the proposition of giving bond. He has had friends running about on his behalf ever since he was brought back to Omaha, and as yet there has been no result. His wife, who is a bride of four months, asserts herself in defense of her accused husband. Kelly maintains remarkable nerve and declares that he will yet overcome all of the obstacles that confront him.

ALLEGED SCHOOL BOARD BOODLER MAKES HIS APPEARANCE IN COURT

George Frey, who stands accused of accepting bribes in connection with school board contracts, was before Judge Vinsonhalter yesterday. His preliminary examination was set for yesterday, but the absence of a material witness caused the county attorney to ask for postponement. The preliminaries incident to the continuance of the case occupied but a few minutes. In order to make a showing, the prosecution must have the attendance of the detectives who ferreted out the alleged School board corruption. They are in Chicago and the prosecution has wired them to be here next Monday, to which date Judge Vinsonhalter continued the hearing.

Pete Morgan Plays the Machine

Pete Morgan's first experience with a slot machine, in Odlin's hall, downtown Omaha, was on Sunday. He dropped in two nickels and with great gladness watched the gaudy wheel spin round. Nothing coming he was bewildered and demanded his money back. Yesterday he claimed to Judge Gordon of the police court that he took the "big one" as security for the 10 cents he had dropped into the machine. He had found the garment in a wire room in the rear of the saloon. Under the circumstances he couldn't see his way clear to plead guilty to petit larceny.

WHY THEY LOVE F. E. MOORES

Frank Sullivan Tells of the Candidate's Attention for the Poor and the Old Soldier.

The feeling in the hearts of the people for Frank Moore is shown by the following incident: Frank B. Sullivan, residing at 627 South Twenty-seventh street, leading clerk for the Omaha Merchants' Express company at the B. & M. depot, called up The Bee office and requested that the following story of a characteristic incident in the life of the republican candidate for mayor be published:

"My wife's brother, John Slavin, was a member of Company B of the Seventh Iowa Cavalry and was killed at the fight of the Big Blue in Missouri. From 1876 until his death in 1887 his mother, Rosanna Slavin, drew a pension as a dependent mother of the dead soldier. In 1887 she died. Her husband, Michael Slavin, was at that time a member of my family, bedfast as the result of a fall from which on account of his extreme age he never recovered. We desired to have the pension of his wife transferred to him and went to see Frank Moore about making the necessary affidavits and proofs. He prepared the papers, took all acknowledgments and sent the papers to Washington, where the transfer was made. At that time we lived in South Omaha and Frank Moore came out every pension day to take the affidavit of the bedridden old man and send him vouchers to Des Moines.

"Mr. Moore has been making these trips for nearly a year when one day I went to his office and asked him what we owed him for all of the trouble to which he had been in securing the transfer and forwarding the vouchers. He replied: 'You work for the Union Pacific over the river, do you not?'

"Yes," I replied. "Well," said he, 'you go back over the river and leave the old man and me to settle it. Neither you nor I can do too much for a man like that, who lost a son in defense of our country.'

"And this action of Frank Moore is not solitary, for I know of many other cases of a like nature."

"Yes," remarked Mrs. Sullivan, 'if Mr. Moore never ran for an office we will never forget his kindness to father when he was unable to arise from his bed and when he needed a friend. The visits of Mr. Moore was a bright spot in father's life and if Mr. Moore is not elected tomorrow it will not be because he is not the man of the big heart.'

"I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy since it was introduced in this vicinity, both for myself and family, and always with the best results, and cannot speak too highly of it. It does its work thoroughly and effectually," says Elliott Ingram, South Lee, Mass. This remedy is a favorite because it is prompt and certain in its cures and is pleasant and safe to take. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

Secure Human Remains.

NEWCASTLE, Wyo., March 5.—(Special)—Coroner Lang, Sheriff Miller and other county officers, went out to Alkali creek last Sunday to investigate the reported find of human bones in a cave in the mountains. They found the tomb and in it the skeleton, parts of a quilt and blanket, a silk hair net, some pieces of shawl, straps, buckles and a ring partly plated with gold, all of which were carefully placed in a box and brought to town.

The matter is as deep a mystery as ever, but the authorities are hard at work on the case.
