Kennedy, Victor H. Coff-man and Matthew H. Collins, contesting right of the latter to hold office as fire and police commissioners. Attached to the motion is a petition in intervention, covering practically the same ground as gone over in the petition of the attorney general. C. Wright, Frank Ransom and Ed P. Smith appear as attorneys for the intervenors.

The petition recites that the intervenors were each duly appointed by the governor from 12 to 20 degrees below yesterday. of Nebraska to the office of fire and police This is as cold as it has been here this wincommissioner for the city of Omaha; that ter. William J. Broatch was appointed for a term ending April, 1901; that Harry C. Miller was appointed for a term ending April 1. 1902; that James H. Peabody was appointed for a term ending April 1, 1900, and that sides the case of the State of Nebraska John J. O'Connor was appointed for a term ending April 1, 1902.

It is maintained that all of these intermembers of the Omaha Fire and Police board, and are entitled to exercise the funcrights and emoluments and privileges appertaining thereto. They allege that Frank Matthew H. Collins are unlawfully usurping mense crowd which gathered. The jury the offices of the fire and police commissioners, refusing to surrender the same to their appointed successors. The petition closes with a prayer for the judgment of the court against each of the respondents and that they be declared to have no right, title or interest in the offices they are now holding, and further that they be ousted therefrom. The intervenors ask the court to designate them as the lawful commissioners and to give them possession of all books, records and other property appertaining to the offices in question In the motion for leave to intervene the court is asked to issue an order fixing a time within which the respondents may answer the petition in intervention.

New Mandate is Sought.

Attorney General Smyth this afternoon filed a enotion in the supreme court asking for a new mandate in the case of the State of Nebraska against the Omaha National bank, whereby the district court of Douglas county shall be directed to set aside the judgment rendered on March 13, 1900, finding in favor of the bank. In the original trial of this case a judgment was rendered in favor of the bank. The case was appealed to the supreme court and was there reversed and remanded for further proceedings. When it came up in the district court again the defendant filed a motion for judgment in the original trial of the case, the supreme court not having explicitly ordered another trial. This motion was sustained and judgment was rendered accordingly, again against the state. The attorney general now asks the supreme court to again remand the case for a second trial in the district court. This case arises from the Bartley defalcation and the amount involved is $201,000. In the motion filed in the supreme cour today the attorney general argues that the order of the court sustaining the motion of the defendant was in disobedience of the original mandate and that by denying a new trial of the case the district court did the plaintiff in the action a great injury.

against Ralph P. Hawley, a nonunion conductor on one of the Big Consolidated street railways, who was indicted for murder in the second degree for fatally shooting Michael Kornzweit, a 19-year-old boy, during one of the street railroad riots last summer. The defense showed that Hawley's car was attacked by a mob and that Kornzweit was one of those who threw bricks at it, also that Hawley, when he shot his revolver, was surrounded by an angry crowd and in great personal danger.
