

PENSION FOR MRS. HAMILTON

Congress Will Remember the Wife of a Gallant Soldier.

HE MET DEATH IN THE CUBAN CAMPAIGN

Judge Caldwell Scores the Receiver of the Defunct Capital National Bank—Decision by State Supreme Court.

LINCOLN, March 22.—(Special.)—Dispatches from Washington convey the information that the house on Monday has recommended the allowance of a $40 pension to Mrs. John M. Hamilton, wife of Colonel John M. Hamilton, who was killed at the head of his command in the charge up San Juan Hill, Colonel Hamilton was well known in Omaha and in northwest Nebraska. He was considered one of the most fearless officers in the American army. His regiment was the Ninth cavalry, colored, but was often called the Ninth Nebraska because it was stationed in this state for thirteen years. The pension recommended by the house committee, while not a large one, is nevertheless a recognition of the services of this gallant soldier. The action of the committee was without the solicitation of Mrs. Hamilton, who left the matter entirely in the hands of her friends. Mrs. Hamilton and her two daughters are residing temporarily in this city, the latter attending university.

Trooper Richard Harris, into whose arms Colonel Hamilton fell when he was killed on San Juan Hill, paid a pathetic tribute to the bravery of the gallant officer.

"He died just as he was giving his three cheers for the way we went up the hill," said Harris, "and the trumpeter and I were left to drag his body behind before we marched on to dig the trenches. We must have killed 800 Spaniards that day, but the whole lot of them didn't pay for Colonel Hamilton. I think a sharpshooter picked him off just after we reached the top of the hill."

"The Ninth cavalry was in all the scraps that were done in Cuba, but we weren't cut up the way some of the other regiments were. We saved Roosevelt and the Rough Riders at Sionoy, and we were the only regiment in all the rest of the trouble. The day we took San Juan Colonel Perry was sick and Lieutenant Colonel Hamilton was in command. We started to climb before a word had been said to us about it, because we couldn't stand still and be killed without having some action ourselves. The first charge we made we covered about one-third of the ground and then we stopped to lie down for a rest."

"When we grabbed our carbines again and got on our feet I found myself away up in the front, right beside Colonel Hamilton, who had his hat off and was yelling and shouting for us to push along. We stopped again for a few minutes because I was getting so hot and the boys were dropping on all sides, but before long we braced ourselves again for another charge. That time we made it and I never saw a man so happy as Colonel Hamilton. 'You're all right, boys,' he shouted, as he turned around and faced the crowd, 'I came up like a fighter, every one of you, without a word of urging. Three cheers for the Ninth cavalry.' He swung his hat around twice, but just as the second cheer died on his lips a Mauser bullet struck him in the throat and fell over against me. I caught him and laid him down, but I saw he was dead. The bullet came out at the top of his head, the trumpeter said, but I didn't look much. We carried him to one side and then we heard the command to march forward and dig trenches. Two hundred yards farther on up the hill he lay in his last battle, and stayed there till it was all over. They buried Colonel Hamilton there just as they did the colored boys who were killed."

Besides the glorious record of this regiment in Cuba it has to its credit the reputation of having a member, in its ranks, of nominal marches in Indian warfare. During the famous Wounded Knee campaign, when the Seventh cavalry was shut in on all sides by the red warriors and threatened with massacre, the Ninth cavalry marched 100 miles through the mountains, arriving in time to rescue it and put the Indians to flight. This march, army men say, has never been equaled for hardship by any other achievement of soldiers on the western frontier. Colonel Hamilton was as active in the campaign as in his last battle in Cuba. He was universally liked by all of his men as well as his associates and his death caused the shedding of many tears among the colored boys who had served under him in battle and who had looked upon him as their friend.

Caldwell Scores a Receiver. In an opinion handed down in the United States circuit court of appeals Judge Caldwell scores the receiver of the defunct Capital National bank in this city in vigorous language for not allowing the claim of the state for its share of the dividends. This opinion was rendered in the case of the State of Nebraska sued Receiver J. W. McDonald on claims for state money deposited in the defunct bank amounting to $236,000. Judgment was given the state in the federal court in this case, which was affirmed by the appeals. As announced in The Bee several days ago, the state will receive $40,000 as its share of the money saved out of the wreck.

The attitude of Receiver McDonald, the opinion of Judge Caldwell asserts, is not one which commends itself to the court. "Why," it continues, "should the assets of the bank, already grossly inadequate to discharge its obligations, be further diminished by incurring costs and attorneys' fees in a retaining suit, a confessedly just and meritorious claim?"

The costs in the case have been assessed against the plaintiff in error and will, of course, decrease the amount to be paid de-

Lack of Proper Care in Childhood Lays the Foundation for Habitual Coughs, Croup, Asthma, and Lifelong Suffering.

Nothing so sweet and touching as a mother's care for her little ones. What a tender and anxious eye she keeps on the young hopefuls. In the young child, the ailments are strictly treatable to stomach and bowel complaints. Phlegm and purges are the most common and most dangerous of all medicines. Nearly all contain opium or mercurial and other mineral poisons, which do but irritate the tender bones and tissues of the child. The only proper, vegetable liver stimulant, like Cascarella's Candy Cathartic, purges and benefits the baby. Older children eat a piece of a Cascarella candy. They taste good, make the liver lively, prevent sour stomach, purify the blood, and regulate the bowels perfectly. Go buy and try Cascarella today. INSTITUTE TROUBLES AIDED Hearing of Dr. Lang Continues Before Poynter at Beatrice.

CHARGES ARE MADE BY ST. WARD MILLIKEN

Bitterness Existing Between Officials at the Institution is Brought Out by Testimony of the Witnesses.

BEATRICE, Neb., March 22.—(Special Telegram.)—The hearing before Governor Poynter in the investigation of Superintendent Lang of the Peetie Mindel Institute is still in progress tonight, having continued yesterday, nearly all last night and all today.

Attorney P. J. Doyle of Lincoln represents James Milliken, the steward, who preferred the charges, and Judge Kreitzberg of this city represents Dr. Lang. A large number of witnesses have been sworn, including a number of employees of the institute and representatives of a number of business houses of this city.

The testimony is an attempt to show that Dr. Lang has purchased goods for personal use, charging the same to the state; that he has misappropriated funds intended for the use of patients and interfered with the rights of other employees of the institute and for general mismanagement. These charges are made by Steward Milliken, between whom and Dr. Lang there has long been an unpleasant rivalry. The evidence thus far has not been of a strong character, simply emphasizing the bitterness existing between the steward and his friends and Dr. Lang. Dr. Lang was on the stand a large part of today and subjected to a rigid examination. His testimony was a strong denial of the charges and he made countercharges against Milliken for drunkenness and inducing other employees to drink with him, and general insubordination. He said that the trouble began with his reprimanding the steward for doing things, thus provoking his animosity. He also alleged this had been aggravated by enmities made by a correspondent of a Lincoln paper here, to whom Milliken told all his troubles.

The matter seems to be the aling of a family feud at the institute and has brought the institution into disrepute. The outcome can only be the retirement of the steward or the superintendent for the name and general peace of the institution. The trial will probably be concluded tonight and the suit will rest with the decision of Governor Poynter.

PREPARING FOR ARBOR DAY

State Superintendent Jackson Issues an Address to Pupils of the Public Schools.

LINCOLN, March 22.—(Special.)—The distribution of the Bird and Arbor Day Manual, published by the state for use in the public schools, was begun today under the direction of Deputy State Superintendent Jackson. The manual contains an Arbor day proclamation by Governor Poynter, an address to Nebraska teachers and pupils by State Superintendent Jackson, a short article on the economic effects of Arbor day by J. C. Morton and a collection of songs and stories of the planting of trees. Following is the proclamation issued by Governor Poynter, designating April 23 as Arbor day:

"We are all interested in the advancement and welfare of our state. Anything that will enhance its beauty, or that will improve its general appearance, should receive our aid and encouragement. Nothing in which our people have engaged has done more to improve the state than the planting of trees. Nebraska is known as the Tree Planting State. It is the pride of the thousands of groves, orchards and shade trees which are scattered all over the state. Legislative enactment sets apart one day in each year for the planting of trees. In compliance with this provision, by the act of March 15, 1900, I proclaim Monday, April 23, 1900, Arbor day.

In his address to teachers and pupils the superintendent repeats the words of the poet Audubon societies. The address follows:

"The appearance of sweet smelling and beautifully colored flowers, together with the joyous and happy voices of children as they come up from the sunny southland, remind us once again that spring is here. As this season opens before us, let us take on new life and joy and gladness and rejoice.

I am happy to greet you as we approach the dawn of a new century and hope that the thoughts and emotions created in the hearts of our children, in the possibilities that open before you may inspire you to nobler thoughts and higher aims.

The object of this book is to place before you thoughts that will tend to give you higher ideals, an aim that when fully realized, the economic value of birds and trees, to say nothing of their beauty, will forever be the friends and protectors of these precious gifts of our Almight Father.

The wanton destruction of birds has reached such a point that our lawmakers have felt the necessity of enacting laws for their protection. It would be a source of great satisfaction to our legislators to feel that the boys of the great state of Nebraska refrain from the killing of birds and restore to the state a higher motive than the mere killing of a bird for its feathers or its skin.

Let me urge upon you the importance of the protection of birds and among the first to maintain the laws of our state in this regard and continue to lead in educational matters.

Trust that the day may be fraught with pleasant and profitable exercises. I am yours for the protection of birds and the planting of trees. W. R. JACKSON, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Restraint on Building School. FREMONT, Neb., March 22.—(Special.)—Judge Hollenbeck last evening issued an injunction restraining the Fremont School Board from entering into any contract for the erection of a new high school building. The return day is set for April 23. The application for the injunction was made by Frank Hammond, the petitioner, who is quite lengthy, alleging that the bonds did not receive a majority of all the votes cast at the election, though receiving a majority of the votes cast on that particular proposition. It also questions the authority of the board to build a school building on the proposed site, which is directly back of the Central building. Several of the members of the board expressed themselves as being very glad to be restrained from executing the contract.

Lawyer City Republican Ticket. PAWSNEE CITY, Neb., March 22.—(Special Telegram.)—The hearing before Governor Poynter in the investigation of Superintendent Lang of the Peetie Mindel Institute is still in progress tonight, having continued yesterday, nearly all last night and all today.

RIVAL TROOPS AT FRANKFORT

Beckham Soldiers Guard the County Court House and Jail.

MILITIA IMPORTED FROM LEXINGTON

Rebellious Captain with His Company Goes Over to the Democratic Side—Each Man Carries Two Guns.

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 22.—State troops recognizing a Democratic Governor Beckham are in possession of the county court house and jail tonight and will do military duty here under orders from Beckham during the examining trials of Republican Secretary of State Caleb Powers, Captain John W. Davis and W. H. Culton, which are on for hearing before Judge Moore tomorrow.

The militia is also reinforced by seventy-five special deputy sheriffs, who were sworn in by the civil authorities this afternoon. The Lexington company of seventy men, under Captain Longmire, arrived here at 6:15 o'clock. The men were drawn up in regular marching order at the station and marched to the court house. The sidewalks along the way were well filled with people and the troops were cheered by Beckham adherents at various points. The line of march did not pass the state house square where Governor Taylor's soldiers are quartered and the dual militia did not come face to face.

Longmire marched at the head of his company carrying a revolver, while each of the men carried two guns. It is understood that practically the entire contents of the Lexington armory were brought here.

The indications tonight are that the trial of some one of the defendants will be entered upon tomorrow. County Attorney Poligrow said tonight that all the subpoenas for commonwealth witnesses had been served and unless some of the most important witnesses fail to come the trials will be commenced. The commonwealth will demand that the defendants be arraigned separately. County Judge Moore this afternoon issued an order, Sheriff Sizer, directing him to exclude everybody from the court house tomorrow except attorneys, witnesses and members of the press. There has been no confirmation here of rumors that armed bodies of citizens from the mountain section are coming to Frankfort and the rumor is not generally credited.

Arms Stored Near the Jail. A large consignment of guns and ammunition was received today and stored in buildings adjacent to the jail, where Suspects Powers, Davis, Whitaker and Culton are confined. This action was ordered yesterday, when it was said that armed bodies of men from the mountain counties might come here to the preliminary trials tomorrow. These rumors were accompanied by hints that an attempt might also be made to rescue the prisoners. Adjutant General Castleman spent the night here, and after a conference with Governor Beckham returned to Louisville today.

Beckham tonight issued a long statement to the people, setting forth his reasons for calling on the militia. He said he believed troops necessary to protect the courts during the pending murder trials.

CORLENS, Ky., March 22.—Sheriff Rees of Knoc county has summoned as witnesses in the Gehel murder case Ella Smith, Jane Catron and Lizzy Matthes of Barboursville, who are alleged to have said they heard John Powers remark that if some one did not kill Gehel he would do so. They will testify at Powers' hearing tomorrow.

CLAIMS WILL BE ARBITRATED

Provide for a Settlement of Demands of American Firms on Nicaragua.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Secretary Hay and Senator Connors, Nicaraguan minister, today signed a treaty providing for the settlement by arbitration of the claims of two American concerns against the government of Nicaragua.

One of the claims is that of Orr & Laubenthaler of New Orleans for damages sustained through the temporary seizure by the Nicaraguan government of some tugs belonging to the firm at Bluefields. These tugs were used to tow lighters laden with bananas from the shore to vessels lying out at sea, and in their absence a stock of bananas accumulated for shipment decayed. The loss is placed at about $15,000.

The other claim is that of the Post-Glover Electric company of Cincinnati against the Nicaraguan government for electric light supplies. The goods were ordered by an agent of the company at Bluefields. The agent disappeared and the Nicaraguan government refused to pay for the goods, for which the company has never been paid. Their loss is placed at $14,000.
