Identified it as the box that he received from Mr. Morey on April 13, 1899, and afterwards gave it to the county attorney. The box, when it was given to the county attorney, was wrapped and sealed.

Prof. H. Nicholson, professor of chemistry of the University of Nebraska, examined the state's exhibit "H" and said that he first saw it on April 14, 1899, at the Lincoln hotel, where he received it from County Attorney McCree. He was asked to make an analysis of the contents of the box, to find out if any of it contained arsenic.

George Hayes, brother-in-law of the defendant, had seen the defendant on Wednesday, April 12, at the home of the defendant's mother. He was asked if he had found upon the defendant's person the defendant's exhibit "A," a little chain. He said he found it upon the defendant's neck.

Dr. A. L. Warner's deposition was read. It was to the effect that he was an eminent physician of Chicago who had made a special study of insanity and had treated about 5,000 patients.

The reading of the cross-examination brought out a few strong points to strengthen the state's case. At the close of this afternoon's proceedings Viola Horlock was in a prostrate condition. It is said that Mrs. Jane Horlock, mother of the accused, has just arrived from New York.

In February, 1899, the defendant called on her sister one evening and told her she had called to bid her good-bye forever. Mrs. Hayes asked her what she meant by such talk and the defendant said she was so despondent and had nothing to live for.

Mrs. Hayes took her sister up in her room and told her that she had her old mother to live for and much more, for she had many friends; but the defendant appeared to be inconsolable. Mrs. Hayes finally had her sister Viola pronounced her that she would not take her own life, she had threatened that night.

SPRING SICKNESS

Is sometimes a slight ailment, but it is so often followed by serious sickness that the wise heed its warning voice without delay. At the first symptoms of physical discomfort or disturbance, the first languid, wearied feeling—yes, even, before they appear, it is the greatest wisdom to take Hood's Sarsaparilla as a preventive and cure.

NEAR A RIOT AT FRANKFORT

Opposing Counsel Start Toward Each Other and Wild Scene Follows

AN EXPLANATION AVERTS BLOODSHED

Examination of Golden, the Prosecution's Star Witness, is Concluded and the State Revis-Defense to Open Today.

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 26.—During the examining trial of Republican Secretary of State Caleb Powers this afternoon shortly after 3 o'clock Judge George Denny, for the defendant, in an argument on the competency of a question, said: "It is perfectly legal for people to come here and to come armed. I came here several times myself."

It was referring to the crowd that was present at the mass meeting held in the state house yard just prior to Governor Goebel's assassination. Colonel Campbell, for the prosecution, replied that he did not consider it lawful and was surprised to know that Denny had come here armed.

At the conclusion of the examination of Golden, the commonwealth rested its case. It was said last night that Mrs. Golden would be called as a witness, but she was not put on the stand. It is averred that she is an unwilling witness.

Excused Because of Weakness. Golden said he told Judge Fleming of Winchester that he intended to tell all he knew about the affair. While he was in Winchester he was stopped by two men, Dr. Foster and William Steele, who grabbed him by the arms and cursed him.

Colonel Campbell for the prosecution objected to the way Governor Brown was questioned by the witness. While the question was being asked Golden agreed to be excused for a few minutes, as he said he was growing weak and was taken out of the court room by a deputy sheriff.

Golden resumed testifying a little after 2 o'clock. He could not remember that he ever heard Powers say that he had killed anyone. Dick Coombs, the alleged assassin, was brought to Frankfort, he said, by William Culton, one of the defendants.

When asked about the man who was given the key the morning Goebel was killed, Golden said he did not know his name, but could recognize him anywhere. He said he saw him here Saturday and Governor Brown asked him to get up and see if he was in the room. Golden scrutinized the large crowd but said he did not see him and took his seat.
