river. Over the southern and some middle eastern counties the precipitation began as rain, turning to snow. On March 29 there was from four to eighteen inches of snow on the ground being deepest over the northeastern counties. Subsequent mild and fair weather with considerable brisk southerly wind soon melted the snow and the surface soil being free of front the water was rapidly absorbed, the run-off being unusually light, furnishing ample moisture. During the week just ended the temperature averaged above the normal, with some quite warm days, and there was no precipitation warm days, and there was no precipitation

CATARRIB.

There are people by the thousand in Nebraska and the west who have catarrh and who do nothing for themselves except to snuff salt water up the nose or something of that kind. The discuse in the meantime proceeds to rot out the throat and nose, to dog the bronchial tubes, strike into the lungs, eat out the stomach and polson the blood. Their condition invites a cold. Perhaps pneumonia may occur. What chance have they to escape?

HAY FEVER AND ASTHMA. No one but an asthmatic understands the suffering inflicted by this discuse—the la-bored breathing, choking and strangulation, the wheezing and coughing and strangulation, the wheezing and coughing and the sleep-lessness and nervousness. The longer this disease is neglected the more difficult it is to break a habit. And the danger of a fatal turn is more grave than the average person supposes.

BRONCHITIS. BRONCHITIS.

Between this disease and consumption itself is only a very fine line, the constant coughing and expectoration, the pains in the chest and under the shoulder blades, the burning, tearing sensation behind the breastbone; all this is only to be followed by the night sweats, bleeding of the lungs, the loss of flesh and progressive debility, which denotes consumption. Bronchitis should be treated and cured during the warm summer months when all nature aswarm summer months when all nature as-sists the treatment.

DYSPEPSIA.

Nearly every one has it, but it is to those who have the severe forms of it, the forms that cause vomiting, cramps, tightness of the stomach, belching, bloating, palpitation of the heart, languor and lassitude, that we speak. These should place themselves under a competent physician at the stome that the stome tha nce. A man is no stronger than his stom-
