RAILROAD MAN ROUGHLY HANDLED. M. F. Deer of the Northwestern Railway beaten by Three Unknown Men.

M. F. Deer, an employe of the Northwestern Railway company, is confined to his bed at the Tremont house as the result of a mysterious assault committed on him shortly after midnight Friday by three men, none of whom he claims to have recognized. He assailants made no attempt to go through his pockets, so robbery evidently was not their purpose.

The assault was committed on North Eighth street near the Indiana street bridge, which is only a short distance from and in full view of Broadway. According to Deer's story, three men attacked him, one breaking a club over his head, while another struck him repeatedly with a loaded cane. A third was armed with a revolver, which was fired three times while pressed closely against Deer's body. The fact that he was not wounded showed that the revolver was loaded with blank cartridges only. The sound of the shots attracted a number of passersby on Broadway, who hastened to the scene. The three men, being assured they were at hand, made their escape by running north on Eighth street.

Deer was removed to the Tremont house, where he boards, and a physician summoned. Examination showed that while Deer was badly bruised and had several cuts about his head, his injuries were not dangerous. Deer says he did not recognize any of his assailants and the police are inclined to believe the assault was made out of revenge for some reason or other.

LAWYERS WILL GET NOTHING

Attorneys Who Defended Gregory Must Go Without Any Fee.

FARMERS RECOVER THEIR MONEY

Cash Found on the Prisoner Returned to the Men from Whom He Had Secured It by Fraud.

The attorneys who defended J. A. Gregory, the horse thief and desperado, in his three trials are, to use the vernacular of the street, holding the sack and their chance of securing any remuneration for their services are recognized as slim in the extreme. The jury in the superior court, before which was tried the case to determine the ownership of the $185 in possession of Gregory at the time of his arrest, decided yesterday afternoon that the assignment of the money made by Gregory to his attorneys was of no account. After being out less than half an hour the jury brought in a verdict for the plaintiffs, C. S. Bond and William Bradley, sustaining their attachment of the cash and finding that Bond was entitled to $151 and Bradley to $30.15 of the amount.

Bond and Bradley purchased a buggy and team of horses from Gregory, which were subsequently found to have been stolen from a person in Kansas, who after Gregory's arrest repaid them. Bond and Bradley lost no time in attaching the money found on Gregory. Subsequent to the attachment Gregory assigned the money to the attorneys he had engaged to defend him.

Gregory's attorneys will submit a motion for a new trial Monday before Judge Smith in the district court and in the event of it being overruled will take the case to the supreme court on the grounds that the testimony of their client's former convictions should not have been permitted to enter into the trial on the charge of stealing Laughlin's mule.

ARNOLD GIVES UP THE MONEY.

School Funds Turned Over to the Board by the County.

The Board of Education will not be compelled to institute mandamus proceedings against County Treasurer Arnd to force him to turn over to School Treasurer Haverstock the funds of the Independent school district of Council Bluffs. After a consultation with his bondsmen yesterday afternoon Treasurer Arnd honored the draft of President Henry and Secretary Ross of the Board of Education and handed over the funds in his possession, amounting to about $18,000, to Mr. Haverstock.

Secretary Ross, acting under instructions from the board, issued at the meeting Thursday night, called upon Treasurer Arnd and demanded that he notify the president as required by law of the amount of money belonging to the school district in his hands. Treasurer Arnd complied with this demand and yesterday formally notified President Henry. The latter at once drew a draft on Arnd for the amount and the same was presented by School Treasurer Haverstock. At first the county treasurer declined to turn over the funds, but later, after a consultation with his bondsmen, many of whom are also on Haverstock's bond, he decided to give up the money and the formal transfer was made.

Pending the controversy between the county treasurer and the school treasurer, the board was compelled to borrow about $11,000 in order to pay the teachers' salary roll and other bills, upon which it had to pay 6 per cent interest.

MARY DALTON'S HARD STRUGGLE.

Abandoned by Her Escort Into the Hands of a Desperate Negro.

Mrs. Mary Dalton, a young woman living at Eighteenth street and Avenue F, had a thrilling and unpleasant experience at an early hour yesterday morning with an unknown negro, but after a desperate struggle succeeded in escaping from the clutches of the fiend and sought shelter in a nearby house. Miss Dalton's assailant answers the description of the negro who invaded the Hamilton home about a week ago.

Miss Dalton was on her way home from a dance accompanied by Will S. Kane, a young man about her own age, and they were strolling west on Broadway when the assailant, a negro about six feet high, stopped them and said he was the policeman on that beat, at the same time telling them they had better get more on themselves and get home. The appearance of the negro frightened the young woman and her escort, and they promptly complied with his order. They turned north on Seventeenth street and had reached Avenue H when the negro overtook them. Thrusting a revolver into the young man's face he ordered him with an oath to "skip." Kane did not wait to argue the question or protect the young woman with him, but at once obeyed the negro's order and ran, leaving Mrs. Dalton with the brute.

The negro at once seized the young woman and attempted to drag her into an adjoining lot. She fought desperately and succeeded in reaching Avenue G where she managed to break loose and found shelter in a nearby home. The negro ran west on Avenue C and disappeared. The attempt at assault was made about 3 o'clock, but it was nearly an hour later before it was reported to the police.

Les Bridglin is under arrest at the city jail on suspicion, although he does not answer the description of either Miss Dalton or Miss Hamilton's assailant. Bridglin arrived in this city a few months ago from Tennessee and has been working on local railroad work. Last fall he was seen rooming with a colored family named Thompson and they believe that from his actions he is mentally unbalanced. Friday Bridglin appeared at the police station and asked protection claiming that some men were after him to lynch him for the assault on Miss Hamilton. As it was reported he had a revolver the police yesterday morning decided to place him in custody until he could be more thoroughly investigated.

LAST WEEK IN LOCAL SOCIETY.

Shepard-Gleason Wedding the Leading Event of the Six Days.

The principal event in the social world of Council Bluffs last week was the wedding of Mr. Guy C. Shepard and Miss Gertrude Irene Gleason which occurred Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Gleason on Glen avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George Edward Walk, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, of which the bride had been organist, before a large gathering of relatives and friends. The ceremony was performed in the parlors, which were handsomely decorated with lilies, the same decorations prevailing in the dining room where the wedding supper was served. The bride entered the parlors on the arm of her father to the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin," played by Professor Sims and sung by a quartet consisting of Mesdames Mullis, Sherman, Welsh and Sientenoff. During the ceremony Professor Steckelberg played on the violin the "Angels' Serenade." The bride looked charming in a handsome gown of white tulle, heavily trimmed with lace. She carried a prayer book in place of the conventional bouquet. Her sister, Mrs. E. C. Shepard, acted as matron of honor, while E. C. Shepard, cousin of the groom, acted as best man. Roland Cockrell and Harrison Gleason carried the ribbons, forming an aisle down which the bride passed. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served and Mr. and Mrs. Shepard left last night on an extended wedding trip to the south and New York. The bride's going away dress was a tailor made gown of gray cheviot with lace to match. Mr. and Mrs. Shepard will make their home at 1135 Park avenue, Omaha.

GROCERY AND MEAT MARKET GOVERNED.

Jacob Zoller & Co.'s Establishment Destroyed by Fire Yesterday.

The grocery store and meat market of Jacob Zoller & Co. at the corner of Broadway and First street was completely destroyed by fire yesterday morning. The entire destruction of the building and the portion containing a large stock of hardware was only prevented by the prompt arrival of the fire department and the efficient work they did. The fire started in the basement near the north end of the building and the flames ran up the elevator shaft to the second floor. For a time it looked as if the entire building was doomed.

The entire grocery stock was practically ruined and considerable damage to the hardware was done by heat and smoke. Twelve hundred sacks of flour were consumed in the grocery store with other goods.

The stock involved in the neighborhood of $10,000 and the exact loss cannot be estimated until an inventory is taken. The stock is fully insured. John Clausen, the owner of the building, estimates the damage to it in the neighborhood of $1,000.

Robert Breneman, one of the clerks, was somewhat badly burned about the face while attempting to save the books.

The fire is said to have started from one of the clerks dropping a match in the basement. He had been sent to clean up some molasses that had been spilled and after stirring sawdust over it, lit a match. The match broke and the lighted and fell into the sawdust, which was saturated with the drippings from the coal oil cans. The sawdust blazed up at once and the flames rapidly spread up through the elevator shaft. The store was one of the largest of its kind in the city.
