SENATORS DEFEND THE ADMINISTRATION

Platt Reads Letter of Instructions from Postmaster General to Bristow-spooner and Hale Debate.

WASHINGTON, May 23 -- In a speech tolay in the senate Platt of Connecticut read postmaster general to Bristow:

May 16, 1900. Hon Joseph L. Bristow, Fourth Assistant Posimaster General Sir-Supplementing my letter of May 12, direct-ing you to proceed at once to Cuba, the fol-lewing further instructions are given for lewing further instructions are given for your guidance.

You will immediately on your arrival at Havana confer freely and fully with tieneral Wood, military governor, and will keep in venstant communication with him in the work on which you enter. You will reoperate with the military governor, both in the investigation of all irregularities in the postal service of Cuba and in any measures for the reorganization of the system that may be undertaken.

The examination by the inspectors, already provided for, will have begun before your arrival. You will assume general

The examination by the inspectors, already provided for, will have begun before your arrival. You will assume general supervision of this examination and will enforce the instructions heretofore given that it shall be of the most searching and thorough character. If you find that you need a still luterer force for the prompt and complete performance of this dury, you will call for it. The investigation must be comprehensive and minute, covering every branch of the service and all classes of officials. Its prosecution must be governed solely by the purpose of ascertaining the truth and the whole truth and it must be uncompromising and unsparing. Besides supervising the investigation in

It must be uncompromising and unsparing. Besides supervising the investigation in co-operation with the military governor, it will be your duty to examine the organization of the postal service, with its system of checks and halances, and report what greater or additional safeguards can be provided. Under the system established at the beginning of the American occupation of Cuba the administrative side of the service was placed under the control of this department and the auditing or checking side under the control of another. This a side under the control of another. This I

The irregularities and peculations which have been brought to light were apparently accomplished because officers appointed and responsible to different departments and who should have been a check upon each other entered into collusion and conspiracy to persent these wrops on the one side to perpetrate these wrongs on the one side and to pass and cover them up on the other. You will carefully investigate by what defects of supervision or defense they were consummated and what further measures of protection in the passing and in auditing of accounts and in the bandling tion. You will see whether, compy with a good mail service for the po-any retrenchments can be made consolidation and reduction of bureaus. It is desired to bring the postal expenditures within the postal revenues so far as may be consistent with the obligation of providing a satisfactory mail service.

Your presence in Cuba, as the representative of the department, with these instructions, makes you the ranking officer of the postal administration. You will consider and advise what removals or other action may be required in the cause of justice, for the interest of the government and the people of Cuba, and for the welfare of the service. You are chosen for this duty with the approval of the president, who is deeply shocked at the shameful hetrayal of trust on the part of the officials in whom confidence had been reposed and who directs that in dealing with all irregularities which have been or may be disclosed the sole

You will communicate these instructions of General Wood, keeping him fully informed as you proceed and reporting regularly to the department, Respectfully yours, CHARLES EMORY SMITH, Postmaster General.

Day of Rusping Debute. This was a day of rasping political controversy and oratory in the senate. With the controversy those on the democratic side, anomalous as it may seem, had little to do. What by far-seeing senators is regarded as likely to be the paramount issue of the approaching national campaign was the subject of two notable speeches, one Platt of Connecticut and the other by

elivered a few days ago by Bacon of Georgia, on his resolution demanding au investigation of financial affairs in Cuba. Platt favored the adoption of the resolution but deprecated what he declared was a cheap effort to make political capital out of a chameful condition of affairs which the republican party needed no prodding to induce it to probe to the bottom. The speech of Spooner was a continuation of his address of yesterday on the Philippine question. In its course he became involved n a heated colloquy with Hale of Maine
